NIXON WINS VICTORY . . .

Military Salary Hikes Rejected

Washington (AP)— The Senate gave the Nixon administration a victory Wednesday in its fight for a two-year draft extension by rejecting a move to increase sharply proposed military pay raises.

The vote was 42 to 31.

Earlier, clearing the decks for a Memorial Day recess and next week's showdown on the proposal for a one-year draft extension, it voted 67 to 8 against a move to extend the draft for 18 months.

Comes As Blow

The vote against the amendment increasing the pay raises, which are designed as an incentive to attract more volunteers and make possible an all-volunteer Army, came as a blow to opponents of the administration's two-year extension proposal.

Supporters of the one-year extension said an increase in pay raises from the $1 billion urged by the Nixon administration to the $2.7 billion voted earlier by the House would improve their chances of defeating the House-passed two-year extension in a vote scheduled June 4.

The votes on the two amendments were the last on the bill, which the Senate has been debating for three weeks, until after the Memorial Day recess which began Wednesday night for the Senate and starts Thursday for the House.

Arguing for the increased pay, Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, the amendment's sponsor, called it simple justice.

Ancients 'Paid More'

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., a cosponsor and author of the one-year extension proposal, said "if you go back, the pharoahs of Egypt, the emperors of Rome, the kings of Europe all paid their soldiers proportionately far more than we pay ours."

The administration asked that the pay raises be spread over two years, while the amendment combines them all in one year.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee and floor manager of the draft measure, read the Senate a letter from members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, or their deputies, opposing the pay amendment.

"The necessity to absorb any substantial portion of the proposed additional pay increase of approximately $81.7 billion at the expense of other accounts," they said, "would severely disrupt essential defense program and substantially impair our capabilities to meet national security requirements."

Last Day Spending Efforts Just Miss

. . . EXON'S 'LIMITS' APPEAR SUFFICIENT

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The 1971 Legislature went home Wednesday, leaving in its wake a conservative spending record which may hold general state tax rates to the limits recommended by Gov. J. James Exon.

But lawmakers came dramatically close to busting open the austere fiscal package before they adjourned for good at 3:53 p.m.

Within One Vote

Twice they came within a single vote of successfully overriding the governor's veto of LB264, the bill which would have increased state aid to public schools by $50 million a year.

That could have turned the anticipated 1972 state sales tax rate of 2½% into a 3½% rate, and boosted the projected 13% personal income tax rate to 16.

Following adjournment, Appropriations Committee Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings said the 2½% and 13% rate limits proposed by Exon may be sufficient to fund legislative enactments.

Only Problem

The only apparent problem in holding the rates could come from the Legislature's decision to override the governor's veto of LB707, Marvel said. That could force the income tax rate up by one more percent.

LB707, increasing state aid to counties and cities by nearly $2.9 million a year (almost all of which would go to the counties), was enacted over Exon's veto on a 32-13 vote.

Senators also overrode two other gubernatorial vetoes in the dying hours of the 1971 session, but neither bill held fiscal impact.

Doomed to die within the next five days is a compromise personal property tax exemption plan which received 32-16 legislative approval Wednesday morning.

Exon announced that he will veto the measure, LB256, following legislative adjournment, leaving supporters of the measure no opportunity to attempt to gather the 30 votes required to override.

Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton, architect of the tax exemption proposal, made no formal effort to seek the 40 votes needed to extend the session beyond its 90th day in order to give lawmakers a final shot at the bill.

The 40 votes, he conceded, were not available.

Would Have Shifted Funds

LB256 would have taken $9.6 million from the state's sales-income tax pot in order to provide local government with replacement revenue.

Left behind unchallenged was Exon's veto of LB1008, the Legislature's directive to his administration to issue $3 million in highway bonds this year.

One major supporter of the bill privately admitted that the governor's constitutional objections to that proposal may be valid.

All told, Exon vetoed 12 bills. Only four vetoes were overridden.

The governor briefly addressed lawmakers before they joyously concluded a session which began Jan. 5.

Exon offered senators "a hearty thanks on behalf of all of the citizens of the state," particularly, he said, for their action in expanding student loans, creating a Department of Environmental Control, enacting a new drug control program, establishing a system of technical community colleges, providing more special education assistance and launching a new state aid program for municipal waste treatment facilities.

'Thought Best'

"We have not always agreed," the governor said. "And we probably will not in the future . . . but each did what he thought was best."

Although the 12 vetoes are few compared to the number of bills he signed, Exon noted, "you've had me pretty busy the last few days."

The governor had been informed of the Legislature's impending departure by Burbach and Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland, who were selected by Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh to carry the news to Exon.

Moment to Remember

The choice of Burbach, whose frequent clashes with Exon over major legislative proposals produced the key showdown confrontations of the session, triggered a memorable moment.

Standing at the back of the chamber prior to his departure for the governor's office, Burbach good naturedly waved a white "flag" of cordboard."

Burbach lost the 1970 Democratic primary election to Exon, then saw his major proposals to provide personal property tax exemptions, increase state aid to schools and boost the food sales tax credit fall to gubernatorial vetoes this year.

But the Crofton lawmaker won some too — including Wednesday's successful override motion on LB707.

7 Landmarks

During its first annual session which ended Wednesday the Nebraska Legislature approved seven bills which are expected to be regarded as landmark achievements. See Story Page 11.

Farm Labor Contractor Seized In 12 Murders

Yuba City, Calif. (AP) — Authorities charged a farm labor contractor with murder Wednesday in connection with 12 transient fruitpickers found hacked to death and buried in orchards north of this Central California farming community.

The contractor was charged formally in court with 10 murders, but two bodies were discovered after the papers had been drawn. A search continued for more victims.

The latest bodies were exhumed several hours after the 4 a.m. arrest of Juan V. Corona, 37, in bed at his modest home south of town. Corona had no comment as he was being booked. His arraignment was postponed until next Wednesday at the request of Sutter County Public Defender, Roy J. Van den Heuvel.

The first body was found by chance last Friday. Eight others were dug up Tuesday from graves scattered more than two miles over peach and prune lands stretching from the west bank of the Feather River.

Stabbed In Chest, Hit In Head

All of the dead had been stabbed repeatedly in the chest and hacked in the back of the head with a machete or ax. All were white men, aged 40 to 63.

They were buried in graves as deep as five feet in the sandy soil.

Sheriff Ray D. Whiteaker would not explain the significance of an ax, a pruning knife and a dirt-caked shovel that were carried into the Sutter County Jail shortly before the shackled Corona was booked.

Corona, who speaks little English, has lived in this area for about 15 years. The sheriff said he offered no resistance.

Weighs 200 Pounds

The booking sheet listed him as "Juan Veilliho Corona, born in Mexico, Feb. 7, 1934, 5-foot-11, 200 pounds, wife's name Glorida."

Sheriff Whiteaker said he knew of no motive, "None at all, none that we can discover."

He said the oldest grave found was about two months old and grown over with grass. The most recent was only 48 hours old.

Two of the victims were identified by authorities as Kenneth Edward Whitacre, 40, last known address Alameda, Calif., and Sigrid Emil Beierman, 63, also known as Pete Petersen, of nearby Marysville.

Sheriff Whiteaker said two more victims were identified Wednesday afternoon but their names would not be released until next of kin were notified.

First 2 Fruitpickers

The sheriff said the first two identified were fruitpickers and the others also likely were transients, possibly explaining why they were not reported missing.

In Washington, the Farm Labor Service said Corona was registered with the state of California as a farm labor recruiter.

An official said Corona was therefore likely to have referred workers from the state employment service, which gets federal aid to place migrant farmworkers. He was not registered as a federal recruiter so he could not legally have hired or transported workers from out of state.

Orchardist Notices Hole

The first body was unearthed Friday five miles north of town. Orchardist Goro Kagehiro noticed a 2-foot-deep, 6-foot-wide hole in the morning and found it filled in the afternoon. Suspecting a cache of stolen goods, he called the sheriff's office, and Whittaker's body was exhumed.

Education Board Sustains Action Dismissing Teacher

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Board of Education Wednesday voted 5 to 0 to sustain Supt. John Prasch's recommendation to discontinue the contract of a tenured junior high school teacher.

The teacher, 44-year-old Robert L. Johnson, has already filed a suit in U.S. District Court contending his constitutional rights of due process have been violated.

Johnson's attorney, Robert Grimit, said after the board vote that a decision will be made in the "immediate future as to how we will proceed."

Court Action Likely

He left little doubt, however, that Johnson will press for a court test in the matter.

Prasch had recommended the contract termination "for the reasons of incompetency and failure to give evidence of professional growth."

The roll-call vote of the five board members present came after the board had deliberated for nearly an hour.

The deliberations followed about three hours of defense testimony at a public hearing before the board, which heard more than seven hours of testimony last Thursday.

Board member Marvin Stewart, who had been present last week, was out of town Wednesday.

Only four witnesses including Johnson, took the chair to testify in his behalf.

Charges 'Unwarranted'

Johnson testified, under questioning from school board attorney Willis Hecht, that he believed the charges against him were "unwarranted."

He said earlier he had not been told he had not met professional growth requirements prior to word Prasch would recommend the termination.

Prasch and other administrators testified last week that Johnson had been informed in conferences last fall that his performance was not adequate.

The superintendent Wednesday reiterated his earlier contention that although Johnson had fulfilled the points necessary to maintain his "professional growth requirements," those activities did not result in improvement in his classroom teaching.

The district administrators have charged Johnson frightens and intimidates students, has "an excessive number of failures" although his classes "present no unusual instructional problems" and has created a climate in which students and parents resist pupil placement in his classes.

Johnson Wednesday conceded he is a demanding teacher and that his relationship with some students is weak.

"I do not coddle students," the mathematics instructor said under Hecht's questioning.

'Two Choices'

"I like to let students know they have two choices," he said. "They can elect to succeed, or they can elect not to succeed."

But he said he makes "allowances for students" with varying abilities and added he is often available outside class to aid students.

Administrators had testified that complaints from students and parents had convinced them that Johnson had no rapport with some students.

They said students were afraid to go to him for help.

One person, a parent who identified herself as Mrs. Virginia Taylor, said her daughter was a "nervous wreck" at the end of a semester when she was a math student of Johnson's.

Mrs. Taylor took the witness chair when the board invited observers to testify if they believed they could offer pertinent testimony, an invitation to which Grimit objected.

Children 'Fearful'

"The children need something said in their defense," she said. "They did not know what they were doing" and "were fearful of asking questions."

Her daughter went from a failing grade to a near-perfect grade in math when she attended another school, Mrs. Taylor said.

A Northeast High school teacher, however, said Johnson students fared well in high school math classes.

A substitute teacher who said she often taught Johnson's classes testified that she considered "unusual" a class a year ago in which a number of students failed.

Johnson failed 45% of the students in two ninth grade math classes that semester, but he testified Wednesday that many of them came to class unprepared.

"There were behavioral problems in those classes," he said.

Administrators also charged that "several transfers in assignment and location" had not improved Johnson's teaching.

Grimit argued in his summation that "concrete evidence" presented at the hearing gave no proof of incompetency or failure to give evidence of growth, and he contended that opinions of administrators who termed Johnson incompetent should be disregarded.

Blocker Reports ADM Has Reduced Load On Lagoon

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

"ADM (Archer Daniels Midland) has reduced the strength of their loads (into the city's northeast lagoon) to within an acceptable limit for the lagoon to properly operate," said Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker in an interview Wednesday.

Blocker said that with the present ADM loads within acceptable limits, "if serious problems now arise, they are the city's and we must correct them."

The task, he said, is for the city now to get the lagoons back into its normal, relatively odor-free procedure in treating wastes.

No Guarantees

Blocker said the city has already implemented a continuous program of recommended methods to get the lagoons to function properly, but added he could not guarantee a specific timetable to accomplish this — saying weather conditions play a key part in returning the lagoon to a normal condition.

He said that the treatment process is dependent upon adequate sunlight and winds, with the recent rainy weather hampering efforts.

The big question to some persons is whether strengths will again increase and ruin efforts to correct the situation.

Accelerated Program

James Randall, executive vice president of ADM, related to city officials at a three-hour meeting Wednesday that ADM "has greatly accelerated its Lincoln antipollution program and substantially reduced the loads discharged into the city's lagoon system."

Blocker said he is pleased and encouraged with the planned programs and work already accomplished by ADM since company officials met earlier with the city.

Heng

Primary Clarifier

ADM's plans also include installation of a primary clarifier — to be in operation in September — to reduce the amount of fats, oils and greases being dumped into the lagoons and to reduce the company's biochemical oxygen demand (BOD) load on the lagoons.

Blocker said he and ADM officials believe the clarifier will keep the strengths within tolerable limits and that further actions will not be necessary.

The lagoons, designed to handle ADM's high strength wastes, have been an odor problem off and on since mid-August of 1969, with records indicating peak loads in excess of design limits even after both ADM and the city took corrective actions.

The peak loads of the oily wastes, according to city officials, breaks down and eventually destroys the ability of the lagoon to treat wastes in an odor-free process.

The first samples of wastes taken by the city in December of 1969 showed a load of 25,000 pounds of BOD—the lagoons were designed to handle 500 pounds a day at that time.

After installation by ADM of a chemical treatment plant and installation of aerators by the city, a sample in November of 1970 showed the strength at ten times the expanded capacity of the lagoons and more recently samples showing the strengths to be 80 times that allowed.

26 Out Of 230 Politician's Sons Sent To Vietnam

Washington (UPI) — Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio, said Wednesday only 26 out of 230 sons of members of Congress eligible for military service have been to Vietnam.

Saxbe, whose own son is on duty in Vietnam, told the Senate half of the group had received "waivers" from military duty of one kind or another, such as student deferments. Of the other half, 26 have been to Vietnam and only one has been wounded, he said.

The soybean refinery and extracting plant has temporarily closed down one section of the plant thus considerably reducing its discharge load into the lagoon.

Primary Clarifier

ADM's plans also include installation of a primary clarifier — to be in operation in September — to reduce the amount of fats, oils and greases being dumped into the lagoons and to reduce the company's biochemical oxygen demand (BOD) load on the lagoons.

Blocker said he and ADM officials believe the clarifier will keep the strengths within tolerable limits and that further actions will not be necessary.

The lagoons, designed to handle ADM's high strength wastes, have been an odor problem off and on since mid-August of 1969, with records indicating peak loads in excess of design limits even after both ADM and the city took corrective actions.

The peak loads of the oily wastes, according to city officials, breaks down and eventually destroys the ability of the lagoon to treat wastes in an odor-free process.

The first samples of wastes taken by the city in December of 1969 showed a load of 25,000 pounds of BOD—the lagoons were designed to handle 500 pounds a day at that time.

After installation by ADM of a chemical treatment plant and installation of aerators by the city, a sample in November of 1970 showed the strength at ten times the expanded capacity of the lagoons and more recently samples showing the strengths to be 80 times that allowed.

26 Out Of 230 Politician's Sons Sent To Vietnam

Washington (UPI) — Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio, said Wednesday only 26 out of 230 sons of members of Congress eligible for military service have been to Vietnam.

Saxbe, whose own son is on duty in Vietnam, told the Senate half of the group had received "waivers" from military duty of one kind or another, such as student deferments. Of the other half, 26 have been to Vietnam and only one has been wounded, he said.

"Nobody will ever be successful in taking Czechoslovakia out of the socialist camp," he declared. He received a standing ovation for that statement.

Two-Missile System Seen

Washington — The Pentagon warned that two new types of intercontinental missiles, rather than the one type suggested earlier, could be intended for use in most of the about 60 new missile silos detected in the Soviet Union. But a spokesmen conceded that the new silos might have been built only to help existing missiles withstand nuclear attack.

5,000 Policemen Attend Funeral

Deer Park, N.Y. — Nearly 5,000 policemen from 80 departments in about a dozen states massed silently in Deer Park for the funeral of Joseph A. Piagentini, one of the New York policemen killed Friday. Mayor John V. Lindsay and Police Commissioner Patrick J. Murphy were among those who attended the service in the Roman Catholic Church of St. Cyril and St. Methodius.

$560,000 Paid In Bomb Hoax

Military Pay Hike Rejected

Washington — The Senate, 42 to 31, defeated a proposed massive raise in military pay and allowances, giving the administration a major victory and casting doubt on any possibility that the Senate would vote for any draft extension shorter than two years. (More on Page 1.)

Man Charged In 12 Murders

Yuba City, Calif. — Sheriff's deputies arrested Juan V. Corona, a farm labor contractor, and charged him with the murders of 12 itinerant farm workers after the bodies were discovered in shallow graves. (More on Page 1.)

Material Witness Held

New York — A Brooklyn student who the police said was "frightened and terrorized" was held on $50,000 bail as a material witness in the shooting of two policemen in Harlem last Friday night. A prosecutor said the student, Clarence Lee, was spoken to by the killers within minutes of the slayings.

NASA Urged To Tell About Down-To-Earth Achievement

World News

Washington (AP) — Congressmen are telling the space agency to sell its down-to-earth accomplishments to the public because the taxpayer isn't excited any more about collecting four-billion-year-old rocks from the moon.

"You people are so engrossed in your scientific investigations that you don't really appreciate how important these practical applications are," Rep. Burt L. Talcott, R-Calif., said during hearings on the request of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for $3.2 billion operating funds in fiscal 1972. "We represent a lot more practical people than we do scientific people."

"NASA will not go out and sell for the sake of selling," then-acting Administrator George M. Low told the appropriations subcommittee in late-March testimony released Wednesday.

"Maybe 'sell' is the wrong term to use," Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn. told Low, "but I do think there is a responsibility to inform the public as to what your missions are . . .

Average Citizen

"You are right when you say that those who are involved in the field are aware of what is going on, but we are not talking about them. We are talking about the average citizen who asks me and other members sitting here why are we spending $3 billion plus of the taxpayers' money on NASA when there is a greater priority right here on Earth for other programs."

Rep. J. Edward Roush, D-Ind., said a doctor called his attention to a pump the size of a 50-cent piece used in treating children suffering from hydrocephalus. The pump, Roush said, "was a dramatic thing which was the result of the space program."

Hearing this, Rep. Charles R. Jonas, R-N.C. said:

"We have been trying for two days now to get you to put on the record some accomplishments and Mr. Roush comes up with the most dramatic one we have heard anything about . . .

Man On The Street

"These are the kinds of things we need. I can explain this to anybody in the street and he will say, 'That is great.' But if I tell him we are landing people on the moon and finding it is 4 billion years old that doesn't mean much to him."

For the transcript, then, NASA provided dozens of examples, including:

—A west coast surgeon who performed more than 200 hip operations wearing a unique surgical garment, first developed for space research. The garment prevented the 7-8% infection rate that usually accompanied long-exposure surgery.

—A New York company that developed a tiny hand-held FM transmitter for voice communications by police officers using NASA technology. The transmitter eliminates the need for an easily observed antenna.

—A Rocky Mountain group adopting NASA energy-absorption techniques to develop highway safety barriers, auto safety seats and bumpers and restraints to protect expensive cargo during shipment.

—Three airlines testing nonflammable materials developed for space to use in seat cushions, ceiling panels and life vests. A uniform company developing firemen's protective garments, testing space fibers.

Airline Pays $560,000 In Midair Bomb Hoax

Sydney, Australia (AP) — Australia's national airline paid out more than half a million dollars Wednesday in a bomb hoax similar to the plot of the movie "Doomsday Flight" shown here recently on television.

The airline, Qantas, was told a barometric bomb was concealed on a Boeing 707 en route to Hong Kong with 116 passengers aboard. The anonymous caller said Qantas would have to pay $560,000 to find out where the device was located or else it would explode at a certain altitude while coming in to land.

A search of the aircraft by the crew, alerted to the emergency, turned up nothing. Still the airline agreed to the payoff in a downtown rendezvous arranged through a series of phone conversations with the anonymous caller.

Shortly after the payoff, the caller informed Qantas there was no bomb and the plane, called back when the pilot was first alerted, landed safely at Sydney International Airport. It had circled Sydney for 6½ hours before getting word it was safe to come down. Its fuel tanks were almost empty when it landed.

The plot was simple, airline officials said, and apparently was based on "Doomsday Flight."

Villains Outwitted

In the movie, a bomb set to explode at 5,000 feet is slipped aboard a plane. The plane finally outwits the villains by landing at an airport at 5,200 feet elevation to avoid destruction.

In a similar case last August in Anchorage, Alaska, Western Airlines paid $25,000 for information about a pressure-sensitive bomb aboard a plane flying 126 passengers between Anchorage and Seattle, Wash.

No bomb was aboard and the man was later arrested and sentenced to five years in prison for extortion.

Doomsday Flight" had been shown on Anchorage television not long before the incident.

Wednesday's plot was generally believed to be the work of a gang, although airport officials apparently dealt with only one man in the deal.

Three White Men Charged With Murdering Black Girl

Drew, Miss. (UPI) — Three white men were charged Wednesday with the murder of a young black girl, shot to death from a passing car on her way home from high school graduation ceremonies.

Dorothea Collier, 18, honored for her "school spirit and attitude," was slain Tuesday night while standing in front of a store in a predominantly black section of this Delta town of 3,000.

Her killing set off demonstrations in the area and Drew Mayor W. O. Williford called in the highway patrol to help enforce an 8 p.m. curfew.

Williford said murder charges were filed against Wayne Parks, 25, of Drew, his brother, Wesley, 26, of Memphis, Tenn., and Allan Wilkenson, 19, of Memphis. They were arrested early Wednesday at nearby Cleveland.

Viet Pharmacies Off-Limits To American Servicemen

©The New York Times

By GLORIA EMERSON

Saigon — The United States Military Command has declared that all South Vietnamese pharmacies are off-limits to American servicemen.

The order, which is another attempt to curtail the widespread use of drugs by American troops, went into effect Tuesday. News of the measure was issued Wednesday in the daily war communique.

The step was taken because a variety of pharmaceutical products are sold freely in South Vietnam that in the United States are available only by prescriptions. Barbituates, which are sedatives, and amphetamines, or stimulants were the items mentioned.

The communique also said immediate action would be initiated to place off limits "all known bars, hotels and other business establishments and areas where there is evidence that selling, pushing or trafficking of narcotics or dangerous drugs take place."

Marijuana Included

This includes marijuana. A deeper concern, however, is now being felt by the military over the growing use of hard drugs, notably heroin, by GIs.

The off-limits decision was described as "just one more step in the joint U.S.-G.V.N (Government of South Vietnam) efforts to solve the drug problem."

These new steps, however, struck many observers as being useless.

The joint efforts of American and South Vietnamese officials to solve the drug problem include the burning of marijuana crops. But marijuana is still as easy to buy in South Vietnam as is a cup of coffee.

A crackdown at Saigon's airport, to stop smuggling and curb heroin traffic, is not expected to make drugs harder for GIs to buy here.

Mirth and Cynicism

The Army's decision to place off-limits South Vietnamese pharmacies provoked a certain mirth, and cynicism, among some American residents.

"It's like announcing in a city troubled by waves of arson, 'Let's prohibit the sale of lighters,' one American said. "It is a ridiculous measure."

Lockheed Says It Lost $86.3 Million

Burbank, Calif. (AP) — Lockheed Aircraft Corp. said Wednesday that it lost $86.3 million in 1970 and could go bankrupt unless the U.S. government guarantees financing for its L1011 TriStar.

At the same time Chairman Daniel Haughton and President Carl Kotchian said a "pattern" was emerging for solution of the firm's difficulties.

The announcement, following a board of directors meeting and completion of the year-end audit, reported a 1970 net loss of $86.3 million, or $7.60 a share, against a 1969 net loss of $32.6 million or $2.90 a share.

The firm reported a $96.6 million loss for the fourth quarter, attributing it largely to defense contract writeoffs.

Arts Needed To Humanize Feats Of Science, Dollars

Washington (AP) — President Nixon, pledging broader federal support of the arts, said Wednesday that only if they "are alive and flourishing can we experience the true meaning of our freedom, and know the full glory of the human spirit."

"We can spend billions on new scientific miracles, on education, on housing, on health care, highways and airports and all the other goods and services that government is expected to provide — and in doing so we can meet very genuine needs, and discharge very real responsibilities," Nixon said.

"But this alone would be like designing a violin without the strings."

Nixon was interrupted by applause four times and received a prolonged ovation when he completed a 20-minute speech to approximately 500 delegates to the annual convention of the Associated Councils of the Arts.

This is a nonprofit organization, based in New York, which includes representatives of state and local arts councils and other organizations in the field.

The President renewed his appeal to Congress to raise to $30 million each the budgets of the Arts and Humanities Endowments, which make grants in their fields to individuals and organizations.

For Sixth Straight Month, Composite Index Goes Up

(c) Washington Star

Washington — An index that often provides clues to future ups and downs of the economy rose in April for the sixth consecutive month, the Commerce Department reported Wednesday.

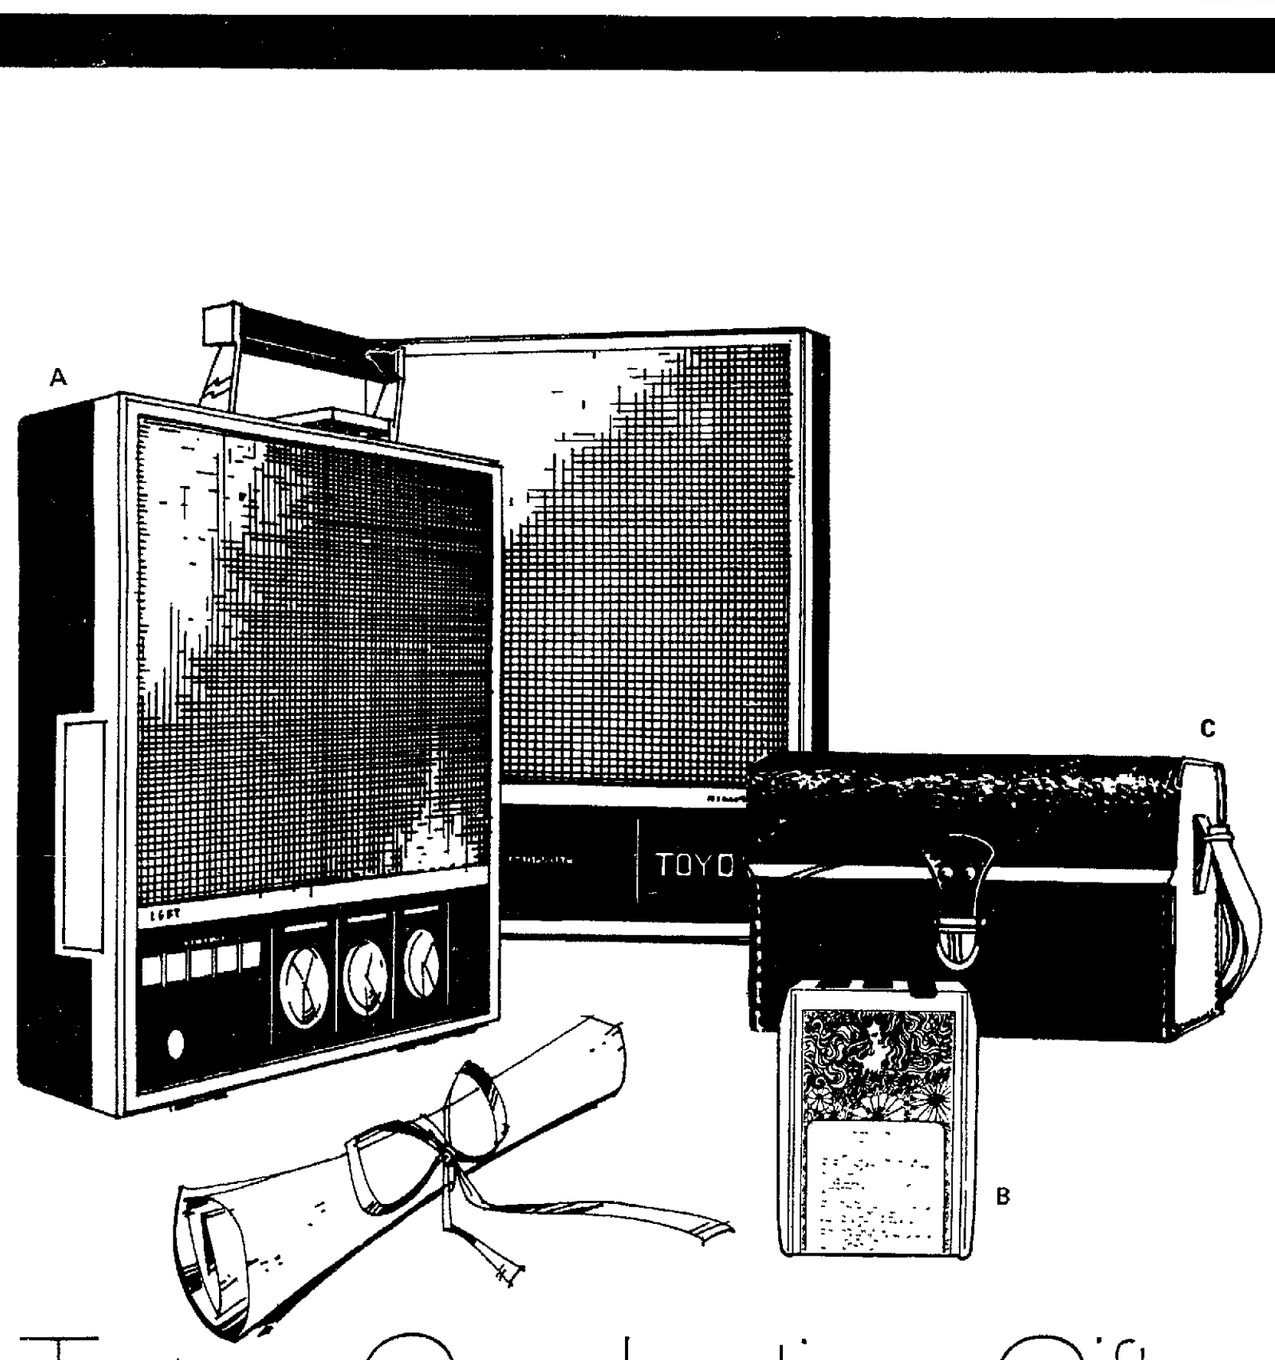

The department said the composite index of leading indicators advanced by 1.4% from March to April. This rise put the index 9% above the recent low point of last October.

Harold C. Passer, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, said, "The well established uptrend in the index since October adds further weight to the conclusion that a solid and sustainable economic expansion is under way."

Five of the eight indicators in the composite index improved in April, while three deteriorated.

Indicators that rose were prices of industrial materials, contracts and orders for plants and equipment, stock prices, and the ratio of prices to labor costs. Initial claims for unemployment insurance declined, which counted as an improvement in the index.

Declining indicators were the average number of hours in the work week, building permits and new orders for durable goods.

For Sixth Straight Month, Composite Index Goes Up

(c) Washington Star

Washington — An index that often provides clues to future ups and downs of the economy rose in April for the sixth consecutive month, the Commerce Department reported Wednesday.

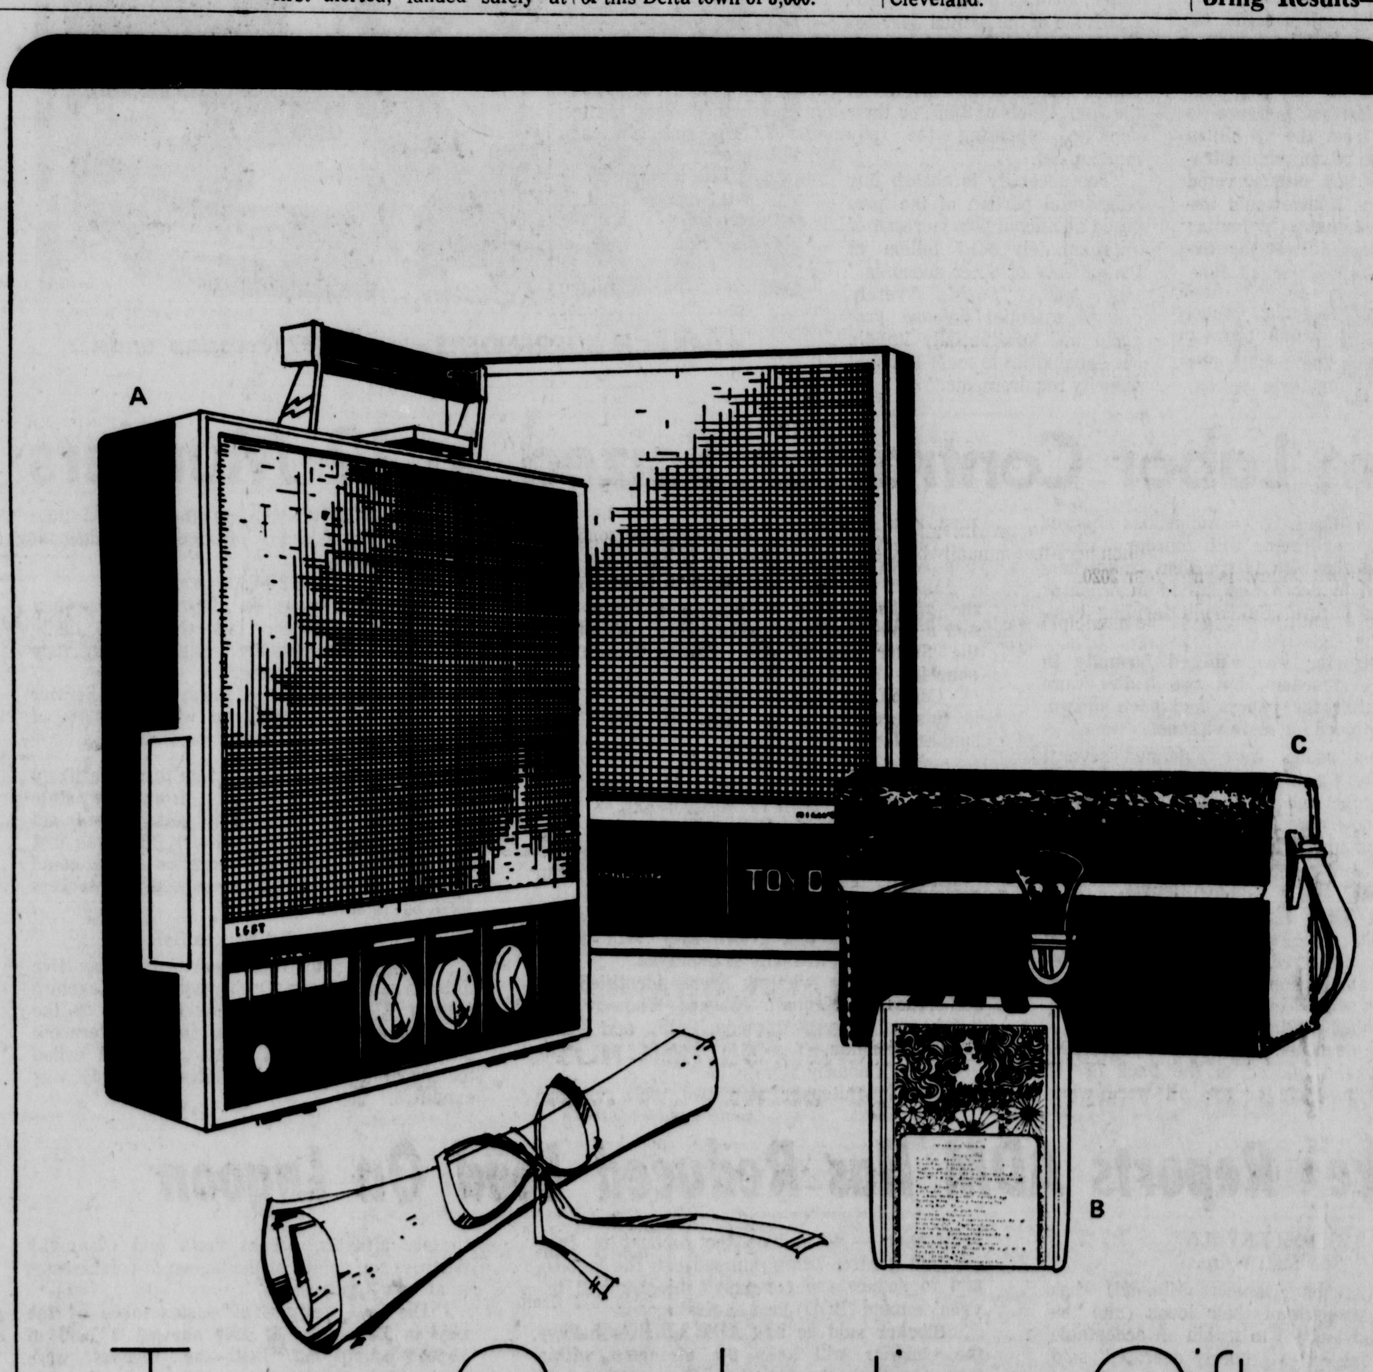

The department said the composite index of leading indicators advanced by 1.4% from March to April. This rise put the index 9% above the recent low point of last October.

Harold C. Passer, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, said, "The well established uptrend in the index since October adds further weight to the conclusion that a solid and sustainable economic expansion is under way."

Five of the eight indicators in the composite index improved in April, while three deteriorated.

Indicators that rose were prices of industrial materials, contracts and orders for plants and equipment, stock prices, and the ratio of prices to labor costs. Initial claims for unemployment insurance declined, which counted as an improvement in the index.

Declining indicators were the average number of hours in the work week, building permits and new orders for durable goods.

State Water Resources Development Outlined

. . . In Four-Year Study Report Given To Legislature

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska News

The State Soil and Water Conservation Commission Wednesday delivered to the Legislature its 268-page framework study report of the state water plan.

No future projects are detailed, the commission said, but rather the planning document concentrates on a "broad, flexible framework for the orderly, efficient development of the state's water and related land resources" for the next 50 years.

The report, described as the most comprehensive survey of the state's water resources, problems and opportunities in its history, was authorized by the 1967 Legislature.

In the report, the commission divides the state into 13 river basin areas and calls for the "full utilization of water supplies" in each through larger "public project developments" and smaller "local independent projects."

Three 'Concepts'

Although the report is generally based on in-basin development of water resources, it outlines three "concepts" for inter-basin transfer of water, cautioning the ideas are not plans or proposals but are intended to "stimulate thinking toward the balancing of water supplies in Nebraska."

"Some areas will have large surpluses of water even after reasonably full development of the basins," the document pointed out, while at least "four areas will have deficiencies."

Noting the report speaks in general terms, Commission Chairman Robert M. Bell, in a covering letter to the Legislature and Gov. J. James Exon, said, "It will only be through the Legislature's concerted action that a refined set of objectives for future planning can be prepared."

In a prepared statement, Exon said he would make recommendations on specific items in the report "after staff and agency reviews."

The four-year study, prepared mainly by the commission's staff with the assistance of advisory groups, the Legislature's interim study committee, and several consultants, cost $200,000, including $75,000 in federal funds.

The framework study is intended as a guide for all federal, state and local entities engaged in planning, construction or operation of water resource development projects in Nebraska.

While the report urged early completion of 24 pending federal projects in the state, and planning for 21 more, it also said increased investments by the state will be required if any appreciable rate of development of water and water-related resources is to be maintained.

As part of the commission's assigned responsibility to provide a guide for the "fullest utilization" of the state's water resources, the commission said several concepts for transfer of water from basins of surplus to basins of need were investigated.

One of the major water transfer "concepts" would collect surplus water in the most western part of the state, diverting it from the Niobrara, Snake, North Loup, Middle Loup and Dismal Rivers by canal to the existing Tri-County Diversion Dam on the Platte River for downstream users.

This would free water for diversion from Lake McConaughy to the Perkins-Chase Counties area, and also to the Cheyenne, Deuel and Garden County lands.

A second "concept" would capture surplus waters on the lower reaches of the Loup River for conveyance to the western portion of the Big Blue and northern portion of the Little Big Blue basins.

Niobrara Concept

Under a third concept, surplus water of the Niobrara could be diverted through the proposed O'Neill unit and conveyed across the eastern portion of the Sandhills to a proposed storage site on Davis Creek.

In outlining what the commission said are "opportunities" for maximum utilization of the state's water resources, the report noted "only 20% of the state's irrigable acreage of 19 million acres is irrigated."

It estimated domestic, industrial and livestock water use will double to approximately one million acre-feet-annually by the year 2020.

The report noted that 60% of the municipal wastes within the state do not receive adequate treatment before discharge.

Additionally, it said, land erosion, feedlot wastes, fertilizers, pesticides and irrigation return flows pollute the waters of the state.

It estimated that soil erosion is still a hazard on 23 million acres, or approximately 50% of the state's agricultural lands. Water erosion is dominate on 14 million acres, especially in northeast and southeast Nebraska, and wind erosion on 9 million acres, mostly in the Sandhills.

Hydropower Plans

The report notes that the state's hydropower plans will supply less than one per cent of the state's power requirements by the year 2000, but are "large, nonconsumptive water users."

"Continued use of water for power generation may mean that its greater economic use at another place must be foregone," the report said.

The report includes 40 potential flood storage sites, providing 3.3 million acre-feet of storage or approximately three times the present capacity.

Additional to providing adequate flood protection and multipurpose irrigation projects, the reservoirs will provide 160,000 surface acres for recreation and fishing, as compared with the current 90,000 surface acres.

About 680 miles of the state's rivers appear suitable for protection because of unique or scenic qualities.

The report said about 6% of the state is still subject to flooding with damages of $20 million or more annually.

This could be cut by measures such as flood plain regulations, small watershed flood control measures, large reservoirs and channel improvements.

The report also warned that "environmental aspects must be fully considered in planning for future water resource development."

Accidental Shot Fatal To Omahan

Omaha (AP) — Oscar Johnson, 35, Omaha, was dead on arrival at a hospital early Wednesday after an accidental shooting at his home, police said.

Detectives said Johnson and Claude James, 27, his brother-in-law, were engaging "in horseplay" and both had their hands on the gun when it discharged.

James was released by police after questioning.

Man, Daughter, 10, Rescued After Their Canoe Overturns

Odessa (AP) — A Kearney man and his daughter were rescued about two hours after the canoe in which they were riding turned over in the Platte River.

Involved in the rescue mission were the Buffalo County sheriff's office, the State Patrol and two citizens.

Vern Plambeck, 35, and his 10-year-old daughter Allison, along with Walter Witctor, 30, of Kearney were in the canoe that went over in the flood-swollen stream about one mile east of Odessa bridge.

Witctor was able to swim from the island to a farm house, from where he called the sheriff's office. Sheriff Dale Sautter, Deputy Ed Grubbs and State Trooper C. L. Mulford went to the scene and were guided by a plane carrying a pilot and Deputy David Blincow.

Meanwhile, Kearney State College security officer Dick Gibbons of Riverdale and Steven Davis, an Amherst teacher, responded to the call they heard while in a boat on the river.

Gibbons and Davis picked up Plambeck and his daughter but their boat engine caught fire and they had to row three miles downstream to shore, where they were picked up by the officers.

Woman, 22, Is Charged In Fatal Stabbing

Omaha (AP) — A warrant charging a 22-year-old woman with first degree murder in the stabbing death of retired Army Col. Robert F. Bates of Palmetto, Fla., was issued Wednesday, Deputy County Atty. Sam Cooper said.

Accused is Mrs. Theresa McCline Thompson of Omaha.

Bates, 65, was killed Monday night and his body was found in a garage near where Mrs Thompson lived.

The woman remained the object of a police search Wednesday. Her husband, James H. Thompson, also is being sought for questioning.

NCCC Is Planning Start On Microwave Network

The Nebraska Consolidated Communications Corp. (NCCC) heard news Tuesday that may mean the corporation's proposed 14-state specialized common carrier network will become a reality.

Dave Stevens, NCCC operations vice president, said NCCC's attorney had notified the company that the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has adopted a policy of open competition in the field of specialized common carriers.

Stevens explained that this means NCCC as well as other corporations who have applied for common carrier networks can now have their proposals approved on a tower site by tower site basis.

Authorization Clarified

Presently, the nation's only common carrier network is the Bell System. In 1970 the FCC authorized competition for the Bell System, but it wasn't clear until Tuesday how open the competition might be.

"We'd like to think that NCCC is going to become one of the biggest communications companies in the country," Stevens said. However, he noted that NCCC does not plan to get into the telephone business.

NCCC's proposal for a point-to-point communications net was filed with the FCC on April 10, 1970, and could be fully operational within two years, according to Cliff Thompson, NCCC president.

The $20 million, 3,550-mile microwave system would link major cities in central and southern states through 134 towers. Ultimately it could be a national common carrier network for use primarily by business, government and industry.

Surveys Planned

Thompson said field crews will begin surveys of the tower sites this week. The sites, on which leases or options have been secured, are 25 to 35 miles apart. Actual construction on some of the 300-foot towers could begin by August after FCC approval of frequency plans.

Tentative rate proposals for NCCC "will be about 80% of the Bell System figures," Stevens noted. "But remember, we have no intention of getting into the telephone business. We're talking to people like the Federal Aviation Agency, cable television systems, bus and motor carrier lines, independent motel and grocery chains."

The specialized microwave network will be able to handle data (computers), teletype, voice circuits, facsimile, telemetry and closed-circuit TV.

Attacks Discussed

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon discussed with Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover ways the federal government could help stop attacks on policemen.

Nursing Home Issue Rejected

Elgin (UPI) — Voters rejected a proposed $435,000 bond issue for a proposed 48-bed nursing home here.

The vote was 231-158 against. An affirmative vote of 60% or more would have been required to pass the issue.

Sponsors said the project would have been paid for from revenue from the home and little or no tax money was involved.

State Water Resources Development Outlined

. . . In Four-Year Study Report Given To Legislature

By VIRGIL FALLOON

Nebraska News

The State Soil and Water Conservation Commission Wednesday delivered to the Legislature its 268-page framework study report of the state water plan.

No future projects are detailed, the commission said, but rather the planning document concentrates on a "broad, flexible framework for the orderly, efficient development of the state's water and related land resources" for the next 50 years.

The report, described as the most comprehensive survey of the state's water resources, problems and opportunities in its history, was authorized by the 1967 Legislature.

Stevens explained that this means NCCC as well as other corporations who have applied for common carrier networks can now have their proposals approved on a tower site by tower site basis.

Authorization Clarified

Presently, the nation's only common carrier network is the Bell System. In 1970 the FCC authorized competition for the Bell System, but it wasn't clear until Tuesday how open the competition might be.

"We'd like to think that NCCC is going to become one of the biggest communications companies in the country," Stevens said. However, he noted that NCCC does not plan to get into the telephone business.

NCCC's proposal for a point-to-point communications net was filed with the FCC on April 10, 1970, and could be fully operational within two years, according to Cliff Thompson, NCCC president.

The $20 million, 3,550-mile microwave system would link major cities in central and southern states through 134 towers. Ultimately it could be a national common carrier network for use primarily by business, government and industry.

Surveys Planned

Thompson said field crews will begin surveys of the tower sites this week. The sites, on which leases or options have been secured, are 25 to 35 miles apart. Actual construction on some of the 300-foot towers could begin by August after FCC approval of frequency plans.

Tentative rate proposals for NCCC "will be about 80% of the Bell System figures," Stevens noted. "But remember, we have no intention of getting into the telephone business. We're talking to people like the Federal Aviation Agency, cable television systems, bus and motor carrier lines, independent motel and grocery chains."

The specialized microwave network will be able to handle data (computers), teletype, voice circuits, facsimile, telemetry and closed-circuit TV.

Nursing Home Issue Rejected

Elgin (UPI) — Voters rejected a proposed $435,000 bond issue for a proposed 48-bed nursing home here.

The vote was 231-158 against. An affirmative vote of 60% or more would have been required to pass the issue.

Sponsors said the project would have been paid for from revenue from the home and little or no tax money was involved.

Attacks Discussed

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon discussed with Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover ways the federal government could help stop attacks on policemen.

EVENTS
IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Yesterday in this space we discussed the recent City Council reversal of its prior approval of Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's appointment of city department heads. The political intricacies of the situation gave us no room for any review of what the department heads do.

The situation, however, is an opportunity to take a brief look at the departments and come to a little better understanding of city affairs. Along the way, citizens might come, too, to a little more appreciation of the work and responsibilities of the directors and the hundreds of people who serve with them.

The city of Lincoln represents big business, having a total budget of $67.8 million. This includes two large operations in the Lincoln Electric System and Lincoln General Hospital, both independently operated agencies.

★

The responsibility for the budgetary affairs is in the hands of Finance Director James Mallon. A long-time city employe, Mallon also has jurisdiction over auditing, city clerk's office, purchasing, treasurer's office, city printing and city property.

When you consider this and the responsibilities of other directors, remember that the highest paid city director receives an annual salary of $18,990 That is not a bad wage but the jobs involved are not peanuts, either.

Another director is Walter Mitchell, head of personnel. It is his responsibility to handle the wage and salary matters, fringe benefits and what you might call the civil service aspects of some 2,000 employes.

In this connection, Mitchell must have up-to-date information relating to the pay scales and job descriptions for hundreds of classifications of workers. Additionally, he handles the hiring of employes for all departments.

The director with perhaps the most far-ranging responsibility is Robert Obering, head of what is loosely referred to as public works. When it comes to a jack of all trades, Obering has to be it and he does a good job of mastering them all.

It is his job to operate the street department, city engineering, inspection division, storm sewers, paving repair, street lights and the sanitary landfill. The latter is more commonly known as the city dump.

Obering's operation crosses the activities of a wide range of business and industry in the city, as well as the affairs and concerns of all homeowners. Certainly, some of the activities of those agencies are not to the liking of all people but Obering hasn't any problems that money wouldn't solve.

Also under Obering is traffic engineering, one of the areas where controversy has been known. But again, any good traffic engineer is going to make a decision now and then with which people will argue. If you want a traffic engineer who will do his job, you can't have one who is going to please everybody.

Doug Brogden heads city planning and zoning, another controversial area. Several things are relative here. One, Brogden is as fine a planner and as dedicated to Lincoln as anyone you could ever find. Secondly, the ins and outs of planning have been bandied about enough lately that little more constructive comment could be made on them. Thirdly, the principles of planning and zoning are currently on the ascendency, leaving this area of public affairs in a present state of relative calm.

The final director is Don Smith, a young man who stepped a year ago into the shoes of the late James Ager. Smith has done a most commendable job, administering the affairs of 4,500 acres of park land, 75 separated land areas, 22 major parks and hundreds of part-time and full-time employes.

His far-flung operations include an extensive summer recreation program, four recreation centers, eight swimming pools, three golf courses and even Fairview Cemetery east of Havelock. His crews trim street trees and even assist with winter snow removal from the streets.

When you add it all up, it comes to a whale of a lot of work and a wide diversity of activities. No one would pretend that city operations are perfect but public services at the local level are surprisingly smooth considering their great volume.

Lockheed's Financial Woes Debated On Several Levels

WASHINGTON — Lockheed's financial woes are worse today than they were three months ago when it was speculated the company's fate "probably lies somewhere between bankruptcy and nationalization." Yet neither of these alternatives seems likely now, with the prospect of government help. "If you fail big enough, you don't fail," one businessman wryly commented.

Lockheed's troubles stem from two drastic setbacks last February. One was the $200 million loss on the C-5A military transport contract. The other was the collapse of the Rolls Royce Company, which was building the RB-211 engine for Lockheed's commercial TriStar. The British government has since agreed to take over the RB-211 but the engines will not cost Lockheed $120 million more. Now the administration has come up with legislation to guarantee loans of up to $250 million to bail out Lockheed and its TriStar.

Several lawmakers are scandalized that they are being called on to keep a private company going with the taxpayers' dollars. Their attitude is that if Lockheed can't swim, it should sink, like the thousands of small businesses that become bankrupt every year. "Outright welfare," was the comment of Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho).

Helping out faltering businesses is almost a tradition in the United States, however much it conflicts with the ideal of free enterprise. During its 25 years of existence, the old Reconstruction Finance Corporation loaned billions to indigent private firms. Even in the depths of the Great Depression, however, the RFC was challenged. Budget Director Lewis Douglas told President Roosevelt in 1934 that "exclusive occupancy of the field of credit by the government is the last step toward state capitalism."

In its heyday, the RFC occasionally forced changes in private management and even installed federal employes as executives. The judgment of most historians is that the RFC was necessary to get the shattered economy rolling again. But it is questioned today whether the economy is in such poor shape that another RFC is necessary.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr. has marshaled several compelling reasons why the legislation should be approved. If Lockheed fails, the whole economy is in trouble. Lockheed's survival is essential for national security and America's position as the world's biggest aircraft maker. If the TriStar goes down the drain, so will 31,000 jobs in 35 states plus an estimated $1.4 billion already invested in it by Lockheed, its bankers, its subcontractors and its client airlines.

All of Connally's arguments have been strongly challenged. Paul E. Steiger of the Los Angeles Times made this assessment of the impact of a Lockheed failure on the economy: "Some downward drag in southern California, but a barely noticeable one in the nation at large.

Promoting congressional concern is a suspicion that the Lockheed bail-out might represent a fundamental shift in the economic system. Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), a long-time critic of Lockheed, said recently there was "no quicker road to state socialism" than bailing out industrial giants.

'Compromise' Enacted

A displeased Gov. Exon Wednesday for practical reasons signed into law LB939, a "compromise" environmental protection bill creating a new Department of Environmenal Control. Should LB939 be struck down, the "present limited efforts in the field of environmental control" undertaken by the Water Pollution Control Council and the Air Pollution Control Council could go unfunded, the governor said, because their funding has been transferred to the new department through companion legislation.

The bill, as the governor envisioned it and as it was represented on the floor of the Legislature, would have created a new department with executive rather than merely administrative powers and an advisory council.

But under LB939 as approved and signed, the director of the new department, while serving at the pleasure of the governor, only administers the council's decisions; the council is the real power. It alone can set rules and regulations, and standards and criteria of quality for air, water and land.

So the bill does not really represent a compromise to those who felt that the state should take a stronger hand in the protection of the environment. The composition of the council is the factor which can hinder the effectiveness of the department. Eleven of its 16 members will come from interests which are most responsible for pollution—industry, agriculture and local governments. The peoples' interests are recognized by the inclusion of one representative of the public at large and one representative of conservation. Penalties for violating whatever standards are set up make violations a minor expense at worst.

If we read him correctly, Gov. Exon hinted before he decided to sign the bill that the law should be rewritten in the next session of the Legislature. The measure changes the framework of environmental protection efforts but not much of substance is in it. In 1972 a more far-sighted approach should be taken.

Water Running Wild

What is more of a dilemma than water? At the moment, for instance, we are being blessed with so much rain that farmers can't get their crops planted and city folks are of low spirits because of the gloomy conditions. But the hot days of summer will soon be here and the next thing you know, we will be worrying about drought.

The state along the Platte River west is now experiencing flooding in the lowlands and the expectation is that conditions will get worse. The Legislature has passed a resolution urging remedial action, although it is highly questionable that much of anything really constructive can be done at this late date.

The state is blessed with an abundance of water but, unfortunately, it is a mixed blessing. Water out of control is not a blessing, nor is water that is wasted as it passes through our state with no use by us.

This is pointed out in the first phase of the new state water plan, presented to the Legislature this week by the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission The study makes it abundantly clear that Nebraska has an ample supply of water.

It also makes it clear that, despite our efforts of the past, a fantastic amount of work remains to be done to harness this tremendous natural resource. This initial plan is in the nature of a guideline without many real specifics but it is obvious that our policies and programs affecting water are in need of our immediate attention.

Our potential for irrigation has hardly been tapped, our channel work represents but a small beginning and our flood control structures are far fewer than they need to be. The plan calls for additional work to determine the exact specifics of essential improvements, to draft new water use policies and to ascertain the financial requirements of all this. It is imperative that Nebraska do this planning as quickly as possible if we are ever to avoid the hardships and financial losses with which we are currently trying to deal.

ANTHONY LEWIS
Prisoner Issue, Withdrawal Date Deadlocked; Xuan Thuy Suspicious Of American Motives

PARIS — After an interview with Xuan Thuy, North Vietnam's chief negotiator in the Paris peace talks, two impressions are the strongest: He is utterly confident that his side will win the war it has been fighting in Indo-China for 25 years. He is deeply suspicious of American policy and motives.

As the Americans who have dealt with him in the talks have found, Thuy is articulate, informed and usually affable. His manner in the interview was relaxed, his language not markedly rigid; he laughed now and then as he made some rhetorical thrust.

But he gave no indication that his government is prepared to give ground on its aims or its negotiating tactics. And the air of confidence was striking. When he said the outcome of the war was "evident now," he smiled as if he were stating the obvious.

His view of the United States government came out tellingly in the reiterated statement that he did not believe President Nixon intended to withdraw all American forces from Vietnam at any time. The conditions laid down by the President for setting a withdrawal date, he said, were only "a pretext" to cover a decision against getting out: If North Vietnam gave way on one condition, such as the prisoners, Nixon would just raise another.

After all that has happened in Vietnam, Hanoi's skepticism about American intentions is not exactly surprising. But its view of the Nixon withdrawal program does indicate how large a gulf still exists between the two sides here in Paris, not only in aims but in understanding of each other.

Most Americans, even some critical of the President's policy, believe that Nixon has started an irreversible process. The United States is getting out of Indo-China; it has no choice in terms of political or military realities. The only real question now is how much more damage will be done to the Indo-Chinese people — and to ourselves — before we finally go.

But Hanoi does not see it that way, and the reason is clear enough. A very wise student of the Vietnam tragedy, and of the talks here, put it as follows:

"It is a matter of trust. They just fundamentally mistrust us."

The continuing deadlock on the most emotional and therefore obstructive issue in the talks, the prisoners, is a result of that mistrust.

The U.S. side in the peace talks cannot see why the North Vietnamese do not make a gesture on the prisoners — provide more complete lists of the Americans held, release some or all at once, or make a firm commitment to release them if Nixon does at last put a terminal date on American military involvement in Indo-China.

As the Americans see it, such steps would cost Hanoi nothing. While most unusual in a war — prisoners are normally left till the end of hostilities, as Hanoi points out — it would improve North Vietnam's negotiating leverage to take action now, and put the President under much greater pressure.

That is logical thinking, but it does not take account of the mistrust in Hanoi. There, it appears, the prisoners are seen as protection against an American re-escalation of the war. If the card is given up, the communist side fears, the United States might feel more free to go on bombing indefinitely all over Indo-China, including north Vietnam.

Mistrust and misunderstanding are also factors in Washington. Nixon knows that the communists returned French prisoners after France settled at the Geneva conference in 1954 and withdrew her forces, yet he continues to tell the American public that the only way to get our prisoners out is to refuse to fix a time for final withdrawal—the reverse of logic.

And so the prisoner issue remains in its paradoxical position: We refuse to set a date for total withdrawal until they make a commitment to release the prisoners; they refuse to make any commitments until we set a date.

Because of such a difference, men have to go on killing and being killed, brutalizing themselves and others for no convincing cause. Is it possible? How will it look to history? Against the fact of mistrust, one feels the hope of sanity.

One side or the other may still change its tactics and make a gesture of faith. Xuan Thuy may get fresh instructions and at some point this summer offer a commitment on the prisoners. Or Nixon may find reason to change his policy of open-ended war.

Second Chance

Lincoln, Neb.

It was said, regarding the Johnny Rodgers' situation, that even though he is convicted of a felony, Devaney is sure to keep him on the team. The insinuation was that all Devaney is interested in is a No. One team. Others have said that no matter how poor a scholar a football player is, no professor would dare flunk him.

This is all stupid talk. Many of our football players graduate in the top third of the class, and some of our players have had to drop football because their grades were not up to par.

As for the Johnny Rodgers case, he admits he made a mistake and has learned from it. I believe him. If the court saw fit to suspend his sentence, why should he be denied playing football — that is, if the university and the coaches want him? Very few of us have not in our lives made a big mistake Many of us have broken laws. It's just that some of us didn't get caught.

I am white and am not campaigning for the black people, although I have many black friends whom I admire very much. I am interested in fairness and justice for everyone. If Johnny Rodgers is not given another chance, then football is losing a great talent and society may lose a good citizen.

Many young men have made similar mistakes and been given a second chance and have become outstanding citizens. Many who were not given a second chance went on to become hardened criminals. Let's let Johnny prove himself.

Need For Tolerance

Lincoln, Neb.

It is time for the motor vehicle operators of Lincoln to assume a new awareness. Like it or not, motorcycles are here to stay in ever increasing numbers. Both the motorcycle rider and the driver of the auto must assume responsibility for the safety of the rider.

Although I do not intend to debate the merits of a helmet, I feel we cannot legislate safety so easily. The situation requires a mature attitude; making irrational statements about outlawing motorcycles will not go far in solving our problem. Better to promote an attitude of responsibility to be alert for the motorcycles and to realize that the rider has as much right to the street as the automobile.

I as a motorcyclist have a responsibility to be alert for danger, to warn others of my approach by the use of my headlight at all times, to wear protective attire and to obey traffic laws. But I should not have to suffer or even die because of the carelessness of some automobile driver. We must all attain a bit more tolerance for one another, to try to make the streets of Lincoln safer for all.

The News-Stand

Lincoln, Neb.

Much has been said recently about the $29.60 monthly rental charged for the news-stand operation in the State Capitol building.

Mr. Griffin says this is a political move. He also mentions that last year (1970) when he signed the lease, he had his doubts concerning the lease.

Wasn't this under Governor Tiemann's administration? He was Republican, I believe.

Mr. Griffin also failed to mentaion — and this may come as a shock to some — that for the past 20-odd years, while this operation was in his wife's family (they are now retired and live in Phoenix) that the rent was a mere $15 a month. Other than help, this $15 a month was the net operating expense. Imagine how much money could be made under these conditions.

I feel Governor Exon is correct in his judgment to allow this business to go to a blind person.

Top Salesman

Lincoln, Neb.

After more than 10 years as a salesman, I know how difficult it can be at times to make a sale. For the Budget Committee to base its decision to close the Orthopedic Hospital on former Senator John Knight's personal opinion must have taken some pretty smooth talking. I hereby nominate John Knight as "Salesman of the Year," and I further propose that he be elected by acclamation and be awarded a corn-fed Nebraska bull.

LA VERNA HASSLER
Patchwork Prairie Country

After the rain today, there was a smell of wet, decaying leaves. As I walked under the oak tree, my footfalls were silent on the packed leaf mold of last autumn's leaf drop. I did not rake them up as the wind usually blows some of them away and many of them do not fall until very late in the winter. Nature and I get along very well. I enjoy the pungent scent of decaying leaves and the ferns nearby seem to thrive on the mat of leaves that gather about them.

For a time the sun was entangled in the dark, low-lying clouds. It made a lacy margin around the edges of the clouds and diffused a sort of magical light of vapor. The waiting land was eager for the rain.

When the sun finally did break through, there were big, blue windows in the sky as clean and fresh as if a window cleaner had been scrubbing and shining the area while the dark cloud rolled and kept the worker from sight.

How quickly the silent world filled with the song of birds when the sun re-appeared. The activity and flight began once more. Butterflies with gossamer wings clustered around the blossoms of the honeysuckle bushes and the bees suddenly began their busy hum.

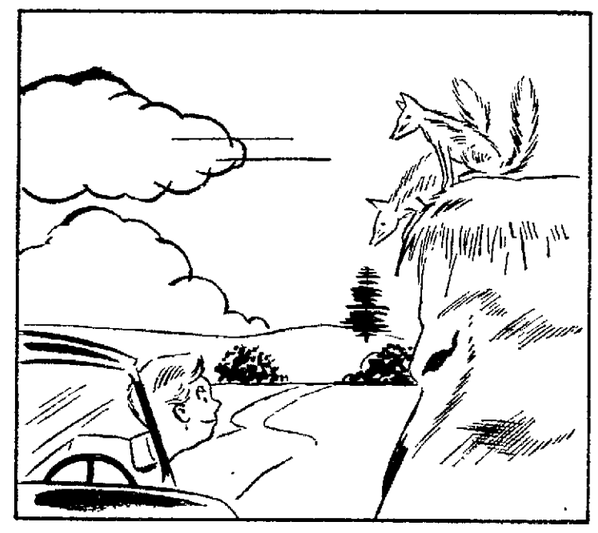

☆ ☆ ☆

The Farmer has been having a companion to keep him company as he works up on the other place a mile north. As he prepared the ground for the planting of milo, he noticed a coyote coming out from the nearby wheat field. It would run along for some distance within a hundred feet of him, then dart into the wheat where it would sit with its head above the wheat watching him. Day after day the same thing would happen. He suspects that somewhere nearby there is a den of young coyote pups. Each day one or the other of the coyote parents must investigate the noise and keep an eye on that terrible monster that roars up and down the field and smokes from a tall exhaust pipe.

I thought I would ride with him while he was working in the field so I, too, could catch a glimpse of the wild creature, but the field work was completed before I had a chance.

However, one evening just as the sun was going down behind the hill, on a road I was traveling to town I saw silhouetted in a bold red-gold outline a small animal. At first I thought it was a Persian cat and slowed the car to get a better side view from my window. On the crest of the knoll I discovered it was a young red fox. Before I knew what had happened, another little fox darted into the den dug on the sidehill.

They were very small . . . tumbling balls of rich auburn fur and as fleeting as a moment. I thrilled at the sight of them and wondered how many more small creatures were hidden in the den . . . not quite as brave as the two that had ventured out to see the world at sundown. I also wondered from what nearby ledge the female fox waited and watched for I had the strange feeling that from somewhere, eyes were upon me.

I told The Farmer the next time he traveled the road to watch for this delightful family, for the young rusty-red foxes are adorable.

He did look for them one day but caught nary a glimpse of them but did see their burrow on a side hill. The next time I went to town I looked forward to seeing them again but when I approached the hillside I could see the den had been filled with great chunks of sod dug from the surrounding area and sealed.

I have passed the place several times since but all is quiet. I have kept a sharp eye for small darting creatures along the stream that cuts through the region hoping to get another sudden surprise of untamed beauty. Somehow I think that happy experience will not come again.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Yesterday in this space we discussed the recent City Council reversal of its prior approval of Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's appointment of city department heads. The political intricacies of the situation gave us no room for any review of what the department heads do.

The situation, however, is an opportunity to take a brief look at the departments and come to a little better understanding of city affairs. Along the way, citizens might come, too, to a little more appreciation of the work and responsibilities of the directors and the hundreds of people who serve with them.

The city of Lincoln represents big business, having a total budget of $67.8 million. This includes two large operations in the Lincoln Electric System and Lincoln General Hospital, both independently operated agencies.

★

The responsibility for the budgetary affairs is in the hands of Finance Director James Mallon. A long-time city employe, Mallon also has jurisdiction over auditing, city clerk's office, purchasing, treasurer's office, city printing and city property.

When you consider this and the responsibilities of other directors, remember that the highest paid city director receives an annual salary of $18,990. That is not a bad wage but the jobs involved are not peanuts, either.

Another director is Walter Mitchell, head of personnel. It is his responsibility to handle the wage and salary matters, fringe benefits and what you might call the civil service aspects of some 2,000 employes.

In this connection, Mitchell must have up-to-date information relating to the pay scales and job descriptions for hundreds of classifications of workers. Additionally, he handles the hiring of employes for all departments.

★

The director with perhaps the most far-ranging responsibility is Robert Obering, head of what is loosely referred to as public works. When it comes to a jack of all trades, Obering has to be it and he does a good job of mastering them all.

It is his job to operate the street department, city engineering, inspection division, storm sewers, paving repair, street lights and the sanitary landfill. The latter is more commonly known as the city dump.

Obering's operation crosses the activities of a wide range of business and industry in the city, as well as the affairs and concerns of all homeowners. Certainly, some of the activities of those agencies are not to the liking of all people but Obering hasn't any problems that money wouldn't solve.

Also under Obering is traffic engineering, one of the areas where controversy has been known. But again, any good traffic engineer is going to make a decision now and then with which people will argue. If you want a traffic engineer who will do his job, you can't have one who is going to please everybody.

Doug Brogden heads city planning and zoning, another controversial area. Several things are relative here. One, Brogden is as fine a planner and as dedicated to Lincoln as anyone you could ever find. Secondly, the ins and outs of planning have been bandied about enough lately that little more constructive comment could be made on them. Thirdly, the principles of planning and zoning are currently on the ascendency, leaving this area of public affairs in a present state of relative calm.

The final director is Don Smith, a young man who stepped a year ago into the shoes of the late James Ager. Smith has done a most commendable job, administering the affairs of 4,500 acres of park land, 75 separated land areas, 22 major parks and hundreds of part-time and full-time employes.

His far-flung operations include an extensive summer recreation program, four recreation centers, eight swimming pools, three golf courses and even Fairview Cemetery east of Havelock. His crews trim street trees and even assist with winter snow removal from the streets.

When you add it all up, it comes to a whale of a lot of work and a wide diversity of activities. No one would pretend that city operations are perfect but public services at the local level are surprisingly smooth considering their great volume.

The Return Of Dracula

'Compromise' Enacted

A displeased Gov. Exon Wednesday for practical reasons signed into law LB939, a "compromise" environmental protection bill creating a new Department of Environmenal Control. Should LB939 be struck down, the "present limited efforts in the field of environmental control" undertaken by the Water Pollution Control Council and the Air Pollution Control Council could go unfunded, the governor said, because their funding has been transferred to the new department through companion legislation.

The bill, as the governor envisioned it and as it was represented on the floor of the Legislature, would have created a new department with executive rather than merely administrative powers and an advisory council.

But under LB939 as approved and signed, the director of the new department, while serving at the pleasure of the governor, only administers the council's decisions; the council is the real power. It alone can set rules and regulations, and standards and criteria of quality for air, water and land.

So the bill does not really represent a compromise to those who felt that the state should take a stronger hand in the protection of the environment. The composition of the council is the factor which can hinder the effectiveness of the department. Eleven of its 16 members will come from interests which are most responsible for pollution—industry, agriculture and local governments. The peoples' interests are recognized by the inclusion of one representative of the public at large and one representative of conservation. Penalties for violating whatever standards are set up make violations a minor expense at worst.

If we read him correctly, Gov. Exon hinted before he decided to sign the bill that the law should be rewritten in the next session of the Legislature. The measure changes the framework of environmental protection efforts but not much of substance is in it. In 1972 a more far-sighted approach should be taken.

Water Running Wild

What is more of a dilemma than water? At the moment, for instance, we are being blessed with so much rain that farmers can't get their crops planted and city folks are of low spirits because of the gloomy conditions. But the hot days of summer will soon be here and the next thing you know, we will be worrying about drought.

The state along the Platte River west is now experiencing flooding in the lowlands and the expectation is that conditions will get worse. The Legislature has passed a resolution urging remedial action, although it is highly questionable that much of anything really constructive can be done at this late date.

The state is blessed with an abundance of water but, unfortunately, it is a mixed blessing. Water out of control is not a blessing, nor is water that is wasted as it passes through our state with no use by us.

This is pointed out in the first phase of the new state water plan, presented to the Legislature this week by the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission The study makes it abundantly clear that Nebraska has an ample supply of water.

It also makes it clear that, despite our efforts of the past, a fantastic amount of work remains to be done to harness this tremendous natural resource. This initial plan is in the nature of a guideline without many real specifics but it is obvious that our policies and programs affecting water are in need of our immediate attention.

Our potential for irrigation has hardly been tapped, our channel work represents but a small beginning and our flood control structures are far fewer than they need to be. The plan calls for additional work to determine the exact specifics of essential improvements, to draft new water use policies and to ascertain the financial requirements of all this. It is imperative that Nebraska do this planning as quickly as possible if we are ever to avoid the hardships and financial losses with which we are currently trying to deal.

Second Chance

Lincoln, Neb.

It was said, regarding the Johnny Rodgers' situation, that even though he is convicted of a felony, Devaney is sure to keep him on the team. The insinuation was that all Devaney is interested in is a No. One team. Others have said that no matter how poor a scholar a football player is, no professor would dare flunk him.

This is all stupid talk. Many of our football players graduate in the top third of the class, and some of our players have had to drop football because their grades were not up to par.

As for the Johnny Rodgers case, he admits he made a mistake and has learned from it. I believe him. If the court saw fit to suspend his sentence, why should he be denied playing football — that is, if the university and the coaches want him? Very few of us have not in our lives made a big mistake. Many of us have broken laws. It's just that some of us didn't get caught.

I am white and am not campaigning for the black people, although I have many black friends whom I admire very much. I am interested in fairness and justice for everyone. If Johnny Rodgers is not given another chance, then football is losing a great talent and society may lose a good citizen.

Many young men have made similar mistakes and been given a second chance and have become outstanding citizens. Many who were not given a second chance went on to become hardened criminals. Let's let Johnny prove himself.

Need For Tolerance

Lincoln, Neb.

It is time for the motor vehicle operators of Lincoln to assume a new awareness. Like it or not, motorcycles are here to stay in ever increasing numbers. Both the motorcycle rider and the driver of the auto must assume responsibility for the safety of the rider.

Although I do not intend to debate the merits of a helmet, I feel we cannot legislate safety so easily. The situation requires a mature attitude; making irrational statements about outlawing motorcycles will not go far in solving our problem. Better to promote an attitude of responsibility to be alert for the motorcycles and to realize that the rider has as much right to the street as the automobile.

I as a motorcyclist have a responsibility to be alert for danger, to warn others of my approach by the use of my headlight at all times, to wear protective attire and to obey traffic laws. But I should not have to suffer or even die because of the carelessness of some automobile driver. We must all attain a bit more tolerance for one another, to try to make the streets of Lincoln safer for all.

The News-Stand

Lincoln, Neb.

Much has been said recently about the $29.60 monthly rental charged for the news-stand operation in the State Capitol building.

Mr. Griffin says this is a political move. He also mentions that last year (1970) when he signed the lease, he had his doubts concerning the lease.

Wasn't this under Governor Tiemann's administration? He was Republican, I believe.

Mr. Griffin also failed to mentaion — and this may come as a shock to some — that for the past 20-odd years, while this operation was in his wife's family (they are now retired and live in Phoenix) that the rent was a mere $15 a month. Other than help, this $15 a month was the net operating expense. Imagine how much money could be made under these conditions.

I feel Governor Exon is correct in his judgment to allow this business to go to a blind person.

Top Salesman

Lincoln, Neb.

After more than 10 years as a salesman, I know how difficult it can be at times to make a sale. For the Budget Committee to base its decision to close the Orthopedic Hospital on former Senator John Knight's personal opinion must have taken some pretty smooth talking. I hereby nominate John Knight as "Salesman of the Year," and I further propose that he be elected by acclamation and be awarded a corn-fed Nebraska bull.

Patchwork Prairie Country

After the rain today, there was a smell of wet, decaying leaves. As I walked under the oak tree, my footfalls were silent on the packed leaf mold of last autumn's leaf drop. I did not rake them up as the wind usually blows some of them away and many of them do not fall until very late in the winter. Nature and I get along very well. I enjoy the pungent scent of decaying leaves and the ferns nearby seem to thrive on the mat of leaves that gather about them.

For a time the sun was entangled in the dark, low-lying clouds. It made a lacy margin around the edges of the clouds and diffused a sort of magical light of vapor. The waiting land was eager for the rain.

When the sun finally did break through, there were big, blue windows in the sky as clean and fresh as if a window cleaner had been scrubbing and shining the area while the dark cloud rolled and kept the worker from sight.

How quickly the silent world filled with the song of birds when the sun re-appeared. The activity and flight began once more. Butterflies with gossamer wings clustered around the blossoms of the honeysuckle bushes and the bees suddenly began their busy hum.

The Farmer has been having a companion to keep him company as he works up on the other place a mile north. As he prepared the ground for the planting of milo, he noticed a coyote coming out from the nearby wheat field. It would run along for some distance within a hundred feet of him, then dart into the wheat where it would sit with its head above the wheat watching him. Day after day the same thing would happen. He suspects that somewhere nearby there is a den of young coyote pups. Each day one or the other of the coyote parents must investigate the noise and keep an eye on that terrible monster that roars up and down the field and smokes from a tall exhaust pipe.

I thought I would ride with him while he was working in the field so I, too, could catch a glimpse of the wild creature, but the field work was completed before I had a chance.

☆ ☆ ☆

However, one evening just as the sun was going down behind the hill, on a road I was traveling to town I saw silhouetted in a bold red-gold outline a small animal. At first I thought it was a Persian cat and slowed the car to get a better side view from my window. On the crest of the knoll I discovered it was a young red fox. Before I knew what had happened, another little fox darted into the den dug on the sidehill.

Lockheed's Financial Woes Debated On Several Levels

WASHINGTON — Lockheed's financial woes are worse today than they were three months ago when it was speculated the company's fate "probably lies somewhere between bankruptcy and nationalization." Yet neither of these alternatives seems likely now, with the prospect of government help. "If you fail big enough, you don't fail," one businessman wryly commented.

Lockheed's troubles stem from two drastic setbacks last February. One was the $200 million loss on the C-5A military transport contract. The other was the collapse of the Rolls Royce Company, which was building the RB-211 engine for Lockheed's commercial TriStar. The British government has since agreed to take over the RB-211 but the engines will not cost Lockheed $120 million more. Now the administration has come up with legislation to guarantee loans of up to $250 million to bail out Lockheed and its TriStar.

Several lawmakers are scandalized that they are being called on to keep a private company going with the taxpayers' dollars. Their attitude is that if Lockheed can't swim, it should sink, like the thousands of small businesses that become bankrupt every year. "Outright welfare," was the comment of Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho).

Helping out faltering businesses is almost a tradition in the United States, however much it conflicts with the ideal of free enterprise. During its 25 years of existence, the old Reconstruction Finance Corporation loaned billions to indigent private firms. Even in the depths of the Great Depression, however, the RFC was challenged. Budget Director Lewis Douglas told President Roosevelt in 1934 that "exclusive occupancy of the field of credit by the government is the last step toward state capitalism."

In its heyday, the RFC occasionally forced changes in private management and even installed federal employes as executives. The judgment of most historians is that the RFC was necessary to get the shattered economy rolling again. But it is questioned today whether the economy is in such poor shape that another RFC is necessary.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr. has marshaled several compelling reasons why the legislation should be approved. If Lockheed fails, the whole economy is in trouble. Lockheed's survival is essential for national security and America's position as the world's biggest aircraft maker. If the TriStar goes down the drain, so will 31,000 jobs in 35 states plus an estimated $1.4 billion already invested in it by Lockheed, its bankers, its subcontractors and its client airlines.

All of Connally's arguments have been strongly challenged. Paul E. Steiger of the Los Angeles Times made this assessment of the impact of a Lockheed failure on the economy: "Some downward drag in southern California, but a barely noticeable one in the nation at large.

Promoting congressional concern is a suspicion that the Lockheed bail-out might represent a fundamental shift in the economic system. Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), a long-time critic of Lockheed, said recently there was "no quicker road to state socialism" than bailing out industrial giants.

Prisoner Issue, Withdrawal Date Deadlocked; Xuan Thuy Suspicious Of American Motives

PARIS — After an interview with Xuan Thuy, North Vietnam's chief negotiator in the Paris peace talks, two impressions are the strongest: He is utterly confident that his side will win the war it has been fighting in Indo-China for 25 years. He is deeply suspicious of American policy and motives.

As the Americans who have dealt with him in the talks have found, Thuy is articulate, informed and usually affable. His manner in the interview was relaxed, his language not markedly rigid; he laughed now and then as he made some rhetorical thrust.

But he gave no indication that his government is prepared to give ground on its aims or its negotiating tactics. And the air of confidence was striking. When he said the outcome of the war was "evident now," he smiled as if he were stating the obvious.

His view of the United States government came out tellingly in the reiterated statement that he did not believe President Nixon intended to withdraw all American forces from Vietnam at any time. The conditions laid down by the President for setting a withdrawal date, he said, were only "a pretext" to cover a decision against getting out: If North Vietnam gave way on one condition, such as the prisoners, Nixon would just raise another.

After all that has happened in Vietnam, Hanoi's skepticism about American intentions is not exactly surprising. But its view of the Nixon withdrawal program does indicate how large a gulf still exists between the two sides here in Paris, not only in aims but in understanding of each other.

Most Americans, even some critical of the President's policy, believe that Nixon has started an irreversible process. The United States is getting out of Indo-China; it has no choice in terms of political or military realities. The only real question now is how much more damage will be done to the Indo-Chinese people — and to ourselves — before we finally go.

But Hanoi does not see it that way, and the reason is clear enough. A very wise student of the Vietnam tragedy, and of the talks here, put it as follows:

"It is a matter of trust. They just fundamentally mistrust us."

The continuing deadlock on the most emotional and therefore obstructive issue in the talks, the prisoners, is a result of that mistrust.

The U.S. side in the peace talks cannot see why the North Vietnamese do not make a gesture on the prisoners — provide more complete lists of the Americans held, release some or all at once, or make a firm commitment to release them if Nixon does at last put a terminal date on American military involvement in Indo-China.

As the Americans see it, such steps would cost Hanoi nothing. While most unusual in a war — prisoners are normally left till the end of hostilities, as Hanoi points out — it would improve North Vietnam's negotiating leverage to take action now, and put the President under much greater pressure.

That is logical thinking, but it does not take account of the mistrust in Hanoi. There, it appears, the prisoners are seen as protection against an American re-escalation of the war. If the card is given up, the communist side fears, the United States might feel more free to go on bombing in definitely all over Indo-China, including north Vietnam.

Mistrust and misunderstanding are also factors in Washington. Nixon knows that the communists returned French prisoners after France settled at the Geneva conference in 1954 and withdrew her forces, yet he continues to tell the American public that the only way to get our prisoners out is to refuse to fix a time for final withdrawal—the reverse of logic.

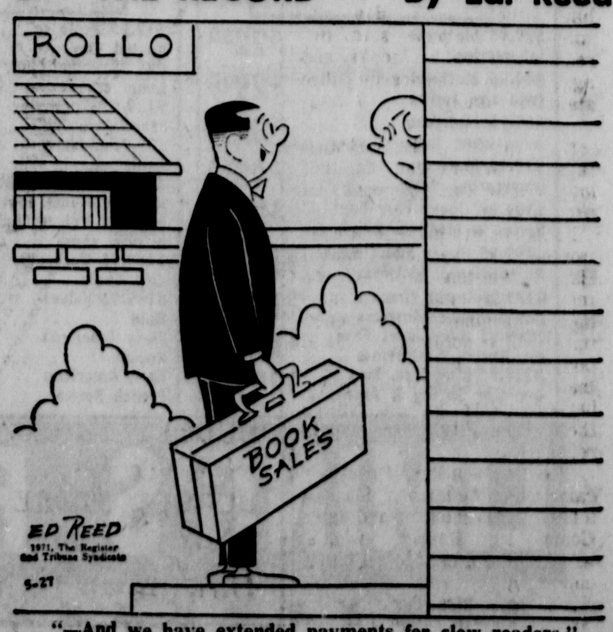

And so the prisoner issue remains in its paradoxical position: We refuse to set a date for total withdrawal until they make a commitment to release the prisoners; they refuse to make any commitments until we set a date.

Because of such a difference, men have to go on killing and being killed, brutalizing themselves and others for no convincing cause. Is it possible? How will it look to history? Against the fact of mistrust, one feels the hope of sanity.

One side or the other may still change its tactics and make a gesture of faith. Xuan Thuy may get fresh instructions and at some point this summer offer a commitment on the prisoners. Or Nixon may find reason to change his policy of open-ended war.

Jobless Engineer Undecided About Course Of Action

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert Peterson is on vacation. During his absence his column will be written by author and publisher Henry Schmidt.)

By HENRY SCHMIDT

A reader writes: — The current business situation has caused the closing of our plant. I'm too young to retire, so I have a problem to solve in getting back on my feet. I have a good engineering background, which surely must add up to something productive.

Answer: — You may have to head in a new direction, for the time being at least. Retired engineers, mechanics, draftsmen, professional men, salesmen, almost anybody with a fertile imagination and a gift for recognizing practical possibilities might use some of their retirement time for the development of new products.

An executive's wife had an idea that started a meat packer in a new canned soup business; a salesman thought up an idea for a canned chicken product; the ex-president of a company has developed the idea for a golf bag toter; the list of government-owned patents available for sale was the idea source for a kitchen gadget and for an insecticide; a food broker thought up the idea for a canned apple juice; a mechanic, watching his wife have difficulties holding material while sewing, got the idea for a simple clamp device.

There are so many possibilities in new products that no hard and fast rule can be laid down about the types of products to look for. Manufacturing companies are always on the lookout for new products that can be made by their present labor force with existing equipment and sold by their sales force to their customers.

Start your thinking, observing, and research. Scratch your imagination!

A reader writes: — In my social work I come in contact with so many older people. Some of them are an inspiration and stimulating to be with, for they seem to have adjusted to their retirement role so well. But many others leave me so unhappy for them, because the light seems to have gone out of their lives. And then I go home and sit and wonder what is the magic that keeps one so alive and another so lost.

Answer: — What you are talking about is the most prevalent disease of the elderly — boredom. It outranks all others. It is all too prevalent among retirees everywhere. You've seen it in the faces of your acquaintances, friends, relatives. You see it in the faces of the regular squatters on the park benches, or the front porch rockers.

It really isn't a disease that starts with retirement, however. It's just that boredom is magnified by retirement. The bored retirees were probably always bored when they had free time to spend.

Can the disease of boredom be prevented? It surely can, for many people, and the time to prevent it, as with disorders of health, is before it takes over. That's one of the purposes of this column, to show that there is still a wealth of interesting living to be done in one's middle and later years.

TV has been so gooey, so nothing these evenings I turned to mystery stories. Went out and bought a half dozen paperbacks at random.

I catch the opening on the TV news. If it's good, I hang in. If the news is a yawner, back to the paperback. Aunt Agatha has been found on the library floor, a curious East Indian shiv in her brisket.

The butler has a shifty look.

The Scotland Yard inspector says: "I imagine we'd all do well with a bit of sleep now. I must ask all of you not to leave the house."

Lights out. A dark figure in a cape is climbing the ivy. We catch the moon-reflected flash of a knife in his teeth. . . .

The children said: "Can we watch Mod Squad?" I said: "Watch it downstarirs."

That is why I put in two TVs. Mod Squad is about some emotionally disturbed delinquents. They have decided to stop setting fire to cats and go around solving crimes for the grateful fuzz. It is very successful.

I like the English mystery stories. The English writers don't murder flashily in the American pattern.

The body is on the library floor. But there's always a touch of fog on the moors and hansom cabs and respectful gamekeepers. (Keep an eye on the gamekeeper's daughter. She's some kind of a nut.)

☆ ☆ ☆

We caught "The Frog Prince" on TV. Twice. It was splended. We're catching the CBS series on U.S. courts and justice — CBS is topping everybody for sharp documentary of the day.

The program ends. The commercial tells us how to spray on something and be dry all day. On comes the never-ending serial of the doctors who save never-ending people. Snap. Off.

"Let me see," says the Inspector. "Shivers, I believe you've been butler here for the past 20 years. You forgot to inform your employer that you had been cashiered out of the Army in India. Some mess over a valuable jewel used as an eye in an idol, I believe."

☆ ☆ ☆

"Well, looky 'ere, sir," says Shivers shivering shiftily. No mind. The butler never does it. That would be too easy.

He was last seen carrying the murderous knife. But — "I was about to peel meself an orange, sir. You see I run out of me Vitamin C pills and I thought I might catch a cold." (Likely story!)

What's the brick dust doing on his hands? The Inspector's seen that. And somebody's been prying at a loose brick in the fireplace.

☆ ☆ ☆

While living in London, I read the daily papers. Devouring the daily doings of The Moon Mad Strangler of Notting Hill."

He was a real person. Strangled strolling nannies. Usually during the full moon. The papers were full of it. Old Ladies double-locked their doors.

The bobbies finally put the sleeve on The Strangler. Turned out to be a mild little clerk in a bowler hat. Age 55. Drank one pint of beer daily. Did not smoke. Paid his rent on time and was polite to the landlady.

☆ ☆ ☆

The constables put the arm on him politely, as London constables do. The paper said: He readily admitted his identity and agreed to go to the nearby police station in Putney."

☆ ☆ ☆

No wonder the British mystery writers can do that lovely low key. Happens all around them.

In the country home where he worked, a servant named Harold Winston dropped the mop one day and picked up a handy machinegun. He opened up — fully automatic — and popped off a butler, an under butler and creased Lady Derby herself. (Hard to get butlers these days. Pity.) The papers reported:

The cook — a Mrs. Turley — came out of the kitchen. She put a hand on his shoulder and said: Come on Harold, what's wrong?' She offered to get him a cup of tea."

A cool one, Mrs. Turley.

Jobless Engineer Undecided About Course Of Action

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert Peterson is on vacation. During his absence his column will be written by author and publisher Henry Schmidt.)

By HENRY SCHMIDT

A reader writes: — The current business situation has caused the closing of our plant. I'm too young to retire, so I have a problem to solve in getting back on my feet. I have a good engineering background, which surely must add up to something productive.

Answer: — You may have to head in a new direction, for the time being at least. Retired engineers, mechanics, draftsmen, professional men, salesmen, almost anybody with a fertile imagination and a gift for recognizing practical possibilities might use some of their retirement time for the development of new products.

An executive's wife had an idea that started a meat packer in a new canned soup business; a salesman thought up an idea for a canned chicken product; the ex-president of a company has developed the idea for a golf bag toter; the list of government-owned patents available for sale was the idea source for a kitchen gadget and for an insecticide; a food broker thought up the idea for a canned apple juice; a mechanic, watching his wife have difficulties holding material while sewing, got the idea for a simple clamp device.

There are so many possibilities in new products that no hard and fast rule can be laid down about the types of products to look for. Manufacturing companies are always on the lookout for new products that can be made by their present labor force with existing equipment and sold by their sales force to their customers.

Start your thinking, observing, and research. Scratch your imagination!

A reader writes: — In my social work I come in contact with so many older people. Some of them are an inspiration and stimulating to be with, for they seem to have adjusted to their retirement role so well. But many others leave me so unhappy for them, because the light seems to have gone out of their lives. And then I go home and sit and wonder what is the magic that keeps one so alive and another so lost.

Answer: — What you are talking about is the most prevalent disease of the elderly — boredom. It outranks all others. It is all too prevalent among retirees everywhere. You've seen it in the faces of your acquaintances, friends, relatives. You see it in the faces of the regular squatters on the park benches, or the front porch rockers.

It really isn't a disease that starts with retirement, however. It's just that boredom is magnified by retirement. The bored retirees were probably always bored when they had free time to spend.

Can the disease of boredom be prevented? It surely can, for many people, and the time to prevent it, as with disorders of health, is before it takes over. That's one of the purposes of this column, to show that there is still a wealth of interesting living to be done in one's middle and later years.

TV has been so gooey, so nothing these evenings I turned to mystery stories. Went out and bought a half dozen paperbacks at random.

I catch the opening on the TV news. If it's good, I hang in. If the news is a yawner, back to the paperback. Aunt Agatha has been found on the library floor, a curious East Indian shiv in her brisket.

The butler has a shifty look.

The Scotland Yard inspector says: "I imagine we'd all do well with a bit of sleep now. I must ask all of you not to leave the house."

Lights out. A dark figure in a cape is climbing the ivy. We catch the moon-reflected flash of a knife in his teeth. . . .

☆ ☆ ☆

The children said: "Can we watch Mod Squad?" I said: "Watch it downstairs."

That is why I put in two TVs. Mod Squad is about some emotionally disturbed delinquents. They have decided to stop setting fire to cats and go around solving crimes for the grateful fuzz. It is very successful.

I like the English mystery stories. The English writers don't murder flashily in the American pattern.

The body is on the library floor. But there's always a touch of fog on the moors and hansom cabs and respectful gamekeepers. (Keep an eye on the gamekeeper's daughter. She's some kind of a nut.)

☆ ☆ ☆

We caught "The Frog Prince" on TV. Twice. It was splended. We're catching the CBS series on U.S. courts and justice — CBS is topping everybody for sharp documentary of the day.

The program ends. The commercial tells us how to spray on something and be dry all day. On comes the never-ending serial of the doctors who save never-ending people. Snap. Off.

"Let me see," says the Inspector. "Shivers, I believe you've been butler here for the past 20 years. You forgot to inform your employer that you had been cashiered out of the Army in India. Some mess over a valuable jewel used as an eye in an idol, I believe."

☆ ☆ ☆

"Well, looky 'ere, sir," says Shivers shivering shiftily. No mind. The butler never does it. That would be too easy.

He was last seen carrying the murderous knife. But — "I was about to peel meself an orange, sir. You see I run out of me Vitamin C pills and I thought I might catch a cold." (Likely story!)

What's the brick dust doing on his hands? The Inspector's seen that. And somebody's been prying at a loose brick in the fireplace.

☆ ☆ ☆

While living in London, I read the daily papers. Devouring the daily doings of The Moon Mad Strangler of Notting Hill."

He was a real person. Strangled strolling nannies. Usually during the full moon. The papers were full of it. Old Ladies double-locked their doors.

The bobbies finally put the sleeve on The Strangler. Turned out to be a mild little clerk in a bowler hat. Age 55. Drank one pint of beer daily. Did not smoke. Paid his rent on time and was polite to the landlady.

☆ ☆ ☆

The constables put the arm on him politely, as London constables do. The paper said: He readily admitted his identity and agreed to go to the nearby police station in Putney."

☆ ☆ ☆

No wonder the British mystery writers can do that lovely low key. Happens all around them.

In the country home where he worked, a servant named Harold Winston dropped the mop one day and picked up a handy machinegun. He opened up — fully automatic — and popped off a butler, an under butler and creased Lady Derby herself. (Hard to get butlers these days. Pity.) The papers reported:

The cook — a Mrs. Turley — came out of the kitchen. She put a hand on his shoulder and said: Come on Harold, what's wrong?' She offered to get him a cup of tea."

A cool one, Mrs. Turley.

Bill Boosting Grain Alcohol As Gasoline Additive OKd

By The Associated Press

A bill boosting the idea of using grain alcohol as a gasoline additive won 40-0 final reading approval Wednesday in the Legislature.

The bill, LB776, decrees that starting in 1973, gasoline which contains a grain alcohol additive in place of lead shall be subject to a state tax three cents per gallon lower than the tax on leaded gasoline.

The tax on leaded gasoline would remain at 8½ cents but the gasoline with the alcohol additive would be taxed at 5½ cents per gallon.

To begin the envisioned grain alcohol industry, LB776 appropriates $40,000 for the coming year. Added to that figure would be one-eighth of one cent of the agricultural refund normally going to farmers. Under the latter provision farmers who normally receive a 7½ cents per gallon tax refund on gasoline used for agricultural purposes would receive 7⅜ cents instead.

According to the bill's chief sponsor, Sen. Loran Schmit of David City, the purpose of the measure is to demonstrate that grain alcohol is a suitable additive and to show the pollution-controlling effects of grain alcohol gasoline compared to leaded gas.

Legislature Approves Mild 'Model Drug Bill'

By The Associated Press

Nebraska's already relatively-mild laws for possession of minor amounts of marijuana would be among the most lenient in the nation under the provisions of an omnibus drug bill passed without dissent in the Legislature Wednesday.

The measure, LB326, won 48-0 approval on final reading and will now go to the desk of Gov. J. J. Exon.

Termed the "model drug bill" because it is based on a model penal code drawn up by the 50 states and the federal government, the measure is a comprehensive measure which covers the entire drug field, generally cracking down on drug pushers through stiffer jail sentences.

The bill was sponsored by Sen. John De Camp of Neligh and backed by the State Crime Commission.

Under terms of LB2 passed by the 1969 session, conviction of possession of less than a half-pound of marijuana is a misdemeanor punishable by a seven-day jail sentence, a penalty which a recent magazine poll determined to be among the most lenient in the country.

That law is now at issue in a case pending before the state supreme court but LB326 goes even further in lessening marijuana possession penalties.

According to De Camp, the bill allows a judge wide discretion for conviction of marijuana in amounts up to one pound, allowing a jurist to fine an offender only $1 with no jail sentence if the judge so wishes.

De Camp said the marijuana penalties under LB326 "are now lower than almost any other state in the nation."

"This bill is designed to crack down on the pushers and control drugs at their source," De Camp said. "It cracks down hard on those who are peddlers of dope to our children."

"It takes a reasonable approach to the massive problem of drugs," he explained.

Bills passed on final reading in the Legislature Wednesday (E-emergency clause):

—Transferring certain functions from the State Highway Commisson to the Board of Public Roads Classifications and Standards. LB100. (E). Orme, Elrod, Waldo. 47-1.

—Adding Cooper's hawk, sharp shinned hawk and goshawk to the list of protected birds. LB183. Carpenter, Proud. 47-1.

—Granting partial property tax exemption to agricultural and business personal property, including equipment, machinery, inventory, livestock, feed, seed, poultry, fish and fur-bearing animals. LB256. Carpenter. 32-14.

—Authorizing counties to regulate community antenna television services outside city limits, and requiring permits for such operation. LB257. Carpenter. 29-15.

—Rewriting state laws governing the regulation and control of drugs. LB326. (E). DeCamp, Clark. 48-0.

—Appropriating $114,000 from general fund and $96,000 from highway cash fund to finance provisions of LB390, providing uniform procedures for bringing Workmen's Compensation claims against the state. LB390A. (E). Luedtke. 41-2.

—Delegating to Department of Education the responsibility for developing and disseminating instructional television programs for elementary and secondary schools and providing funds. LB404. Swanson, Warner. 44-1.

—Variously revising employment security law, including provision for an increase in benefits. LB651. Syas, Marvel, Warner. 36-4.

Governor Is Inclined To Approve Helmet Bill

Gov. J. J. Exon said Wednesday it is his "inclination" to sign into law a bill passed by the legislature which requires motorcyclists to wear helmets or be subject to a fine of up to $100.

The bill, LB1041, was passed Wednesday by a 32-13 vote on final reading.

The measure is similar to a bill vetoed 10 days ago by Exon with the only difference being that LB1041, unlike the vetoed LB369, does not contain the emergency clause and therefore becomes effective 90 days after the legislature adjourns.

"I haven't yet made a final decision," said Exon, "but my inclination is to sign it if it is the will of the legislature that this bill go through."

Exon said he still has "some reservations" about the bill.

However, he noted LB1041 does not have the emergency clause, one of his main objections to LB369, "and that means that these people will have at least 90 days to get helmets."

LB1041 provides a fine of $10 to $100 for persons convicted of driving a motorcycle without a license or riding on a motorcycle with no helmet.

The law requiring that helmets be worn has been on the statute books since 1967 but has not been enforced in the absence of a penalty clause.

An attempt to override Exon's veto of LB369 had failed and LB1041 was then offered by Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln.

Drunk Driving Law Is OKd By Senators

A bill said by its sponsor to be "the toughest drunk driving law" in the United States was passed Wednesday on final reading by the Legislature.

The bill, LB948, was approved by a 31-12 vote.

The measure rewrites the drunk driving portion of the state statutes to provide that a law officer may require any driver to take a breath test before the driver is arrested.

The old section of the law required a driver to submit to a test only after his arrest or else his license could be suspended.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, said his measure is based on a law now in use in Great Britain.

The measure provides a person shall be legally intoxicated if the alcohol content in his blood is .10% or higher.

Hurricanes Keep Women's Names

Washington (AP) — Using a little flattery, the National Weather Service said Wednesday it will continue to name hurricanes after women on the theory that Betty sounds more powerful than Bob.

"We intend no slur on women," Weather Service director George P. Cressman said. "In fact, quite the opposite.

"Hurricanes are among the most awesome forces in nature," he added.

The names chosen or the 1971 hurricane season: Arlene, Beth, Chloe, Doria, Edith, Fern, Ginger, Heidi, Irene, Janice, Kristy, Laura, Margo, Nona, Orchid, Portia, Rachel, Sandra, Terese, Verna and Wallis.

Obligations Are Included In Tax Rate

The Legislature was informed Wednesday by Gov. J. J. Exon that he has signed into law a bill providing that the State Board of Equalization must take into account biennial state obligations, rather than just appropriations, when it sets the sales and income tax rates each November.

The bill, LB167, passed Tuesday on a 48-0 vote.

Under current law, only annual legislative appropriations must be considered by the board, but LB167 provides that fiscal obligations for the coming biennium must be taken into account.

Sen. David Stahmer of Omaha told senators that he had an informal oral attorney's opinion that the terms of LB167 might not be mandatory upon the governor and other members of the board.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff thereupon gained 28-7 legislative approval for a motion stating that legislative intent in enacting the bill was that the proviso would be mandatory upon the board.

And Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly entered into the legislative records a written attorney general's opinion that the board "must take into account fiscal obligations" of the next legislative session in establishing tax rates.

Legislature Approves Mild 'Model Drug Bill'

By The Associated Press

Nebraska's already relatively-mild laws for possession of minor amounts of marijuana would be among the most lenient in the nation under the provisions of an omnibus drug bill passed without dissent in the Legislature Wednesday.

The measure, LB326, won 48-0 approval on final reading and will now go to the desk of Gov. J. J. Exon.

Termed the "model drug bill" because it is based on a model penal code drawn up by the 50 states and the federal government, the measure is a comprehensive measure which covers the entire drug field, generally cracking down on drug pushers through stiffer jail sentences.

The bill was sponsored by Sen. John De Camp of Neligh and backed by the State Crime Commission.

Under terms of LB2 passed by the 1969 session, conviction of possession of less than a half-pound of marijuana is a misdemeanor punishable by a seven-day jail sentence, a penalty which a recent magazine poll determined to be among the most lenient in the country.

That law is now at issue in a case pending before the state supreme court but LB326 goes even further in lessening marijuana possession penalties.

According to De Camp, the bill allows a judge wide discretion for conviction of marijuana in amounts up to one pound, allowing a jurist to fine an offender only $1 with no jail sentence if the judge so wishes.

De Camp said the marijuana penalties under LB326 "are now lower than almost any other state in the nation."

"This bill is designed to crack down on the pushers and control drugs at their source," De Camp said. "It cracks down hard on those who are peddlers of dope to our children."

"It takes a reasonable approach to the massive problem of drugs," he explained.

Bills passed on final reading in the Legislature Wednesday (E-emergency clause):

—Transferring certain functions from the State Highway Commisson to the Board of Public Roads Classifications and Standards. LB100. (E). Orme, Elrod, Waldo. 47-1.

Governor Is Inclined To Approve Helmet Bill

Gov. J. J. Exon said Wednesday it is his "inclination" to sign into law a bill passed by the legislature which requires motorcyclists to wear helmets or be subject to a fine of up to $100.

The bill, LB1041, was passed Wednesday by a 32-13 vote on final reading.

The measure is similar to a bill vetoed 10 days ago by Exon with the only difference being that LB1041, unlike the vetoed LB369, does not contain the emergency clause and therefore becomes effective 90 days after the legislature adjourns.

"I haven't yet made a final decision," said Exon, "but my inclination is to sign it if it is the will of the legislature that this bill go through."

Exon said he still has "some reservations" about the bill.

However, he noted LB1041 does not have the emergency clause, one of his main objections to LB369, "and that means that these people will have at least 90 days to get helmets."

LB1041 provides a fine of $10 to $100 for persons convicted of driving a motorcycle without a license or riding on a motorcycle with no helmet.

The law requiring that helmets be worn has been on the statute books since 1967 but has not been enforced in the absence of a penalty clause.

An attempt to override Exon's veto of LB369 had failed and LB1041 was then offered by Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln.

Proposed Shift In Delegate Selection Scrapped

The Legislature Wednesday decided to scrap the proposal to transfer from the voters to the political parties authority to select four delegates to their 1972 national nominating conventions.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly urged his colleagues to knock the proposal out of a 97-page bill changing election procedures, and hold the remaining portions of LB661 for early action in the 1972 legislative session.

Warner's request was approved on a 32-13 vote despite Sen. Gerald Stromer's contention that failure to enact LB661 this year could endanger the opportunity for 18 and 19-year-old's to vote in 1972.

Stromer said the bill provides election changes needed to implement the reduced voting age proposal, should it be approved by the electorate at the primary election next May.

"Ample Time"

Warner said LB661 could be enacted early in the 1972 session in "ample time to take care of the 1972 elections."

The delegate selection proposal would ruin what is now "probably the finest election system for delegates" anywhere in the country, Warner said.

Nebraska voters now elect all delegates to the national nominating conventions.

"And this system works," Warner said.

As an example, he said, in 1968 Republican voters gave their presidential primary votes to Richard Nixon and elected all delegate candidates committed to support him at the GOP national convention.

"The public ought to have the right to select all the delegates who help nominate the presidential candidate," Warner said.

Selection By Party

At issue in LB661 was a proposal which would permit the parties at their state conventions to select four national convention delegates in 1972.

The remainder would continue to be elected either statewide or by congressional district.

The GOP will send 16 delegates to its 1972 convention; Democrats will send 24, including the national committeeman and national committeewoman.

Stromer said the voters would still be dealt into the process of selecting the four persons chosen by the state convention since that decision will be made by Republicans who were selected by county convention delegates elected by the people.

Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway said LB661 would represent the first step by political parties toward a system whereby they, rather than the voters, would choose all national convention delegates.

Here is the roll call vote on Warner's motion to send LB661 back from final reading to second stage floor consideration in order to eliminate the delegate selection proposal:

Luedtke, Proud Join Tax Exemption Backers

Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln and Richard Proud of Omaha broke ranks with their big-city colleagues Wednesday to help pass the compromise personal property tax exemption plan.

The two senators joined Sen. William Swanson of Lincoln, who had been the sole Omaha-Lincoln senator to stay with the earlier tax proposal vetoed by Gov. J. James Exon.

Ten Omaha lawmakers and three Lincoln senators provided 13 of the 16 opposition votes as LB256 cleared its final reading hurdle on a 32-16 vote and jumped into the hands of a gubernatorial veto.

Lancaster County

Lancaster County's six-member delegation split down the middle, with Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly teaming with Luedtke and Swanson to support the bill.

Sens. Wally Barnett, Fern Hubbard Orme and Harold Simpson voted in opposition.

Outstate senators who joined the Omaha-Lincoln opposition team included Donald Elrod of Grand Island, Orval Keyes of Papillion and Richard Marvel of Hastings.

LB256 provided a 20% tax exemption in 1972 for agricultural and business inventory and equipment.

The exemption would jump to 40% in 1973 and stabilize at 50% in 1974.

Some $9.6 million in replacement funds would be required to finance the tax exemption in 1972. Replacement revenue woud come from the state's sales-income tax coffers, and could be financed with less than a 2% hike in personal income tax rates.

The exempted personal property would include business equipment and inventory, agricultural machinery and equipment, livestock, feed, fertilizer, grain, seed, poultry, fish and fur-bearing animals.

Estimated Amounts

Here roughly is the amount of exemption which would be granted to major classes of property:

—business inventories, $3.4 million

—business equipment, $2.6 million.

—agricultural machinery and equipment, $1.2 million.

—livestock and feeds, $2.1 million.

—grain and seed, less than $500,000.

LB256 represented the Legislature's second attempt to implement the constitutional amendment approved last November which authorized lawmakers to reclassify and exempt any or all classes of personal property.

Here is the final reading vote which sent LB256 to Gov. J. James Exon for his promised veto:

For: Burbach, Carpenter, Carsten, Carstens, Clark, Craft, DeCamp, Duis, Epke, Hasebroock, Holmquist, Johnson, Kennedy, Kime, Kokes, Kremer, Lewis, Luedtke, Maresh, Nore, Proud, Schmit, Stromer, Stull, Swanson, Waldo, Waldron, Wallwey, Warner, Whitney, Wiltse, Ziebarth

Bill To Establish Tourism Agency Fails

By The Associated Press:

The drive to establish a State Department of Tourism met final reading failure Wednesday in the Legislature.

LB518, which would have set up the department under the control of the governor, received only a 24-20 approving margin on final reading.

The vote was one short of the majority needed to pass the bill but the measure's sponsor, Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway, said the actual total had to have at least 33 votes since the courts have held a two-thirds vote is necessary to set up an executive agency.

Thus, the bill died and the state's tourism functions formerly under the control of the Game and Parks Commission, are transferred to the Economic Development Department.

Tourism has been funded in the Economic Development Department, a move supported by Gov. J. J. Exon, and the final reading failure Wednesday of LB518 would not affect that funding.

Environment Control Bill Signed

Gov. J. J. Exon Wednesday announced he has signed into law a bill which establishes a new State Department of Environmental Control.

The bill, LB939, was passed Tuesday on a 42-7 vote. Exon also signed LB939A which appropriates $286,755 to fund the department.

The new department will take over functions now performed by the State Water Pollution Control Council and the Air Pollution Control Council.

Two Attempts To Override Vetoes Fall Short

Two attempts to override Gov. J. James Exon's veto of legislation increasing state aid to public schools by $50 million a year fell one vote short of success Wednesday.

The measure, LB264, signed by Sen. Orval Keyes of Papillion but rewritten chiefly by Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton, would have sharply hiked state sales and income tax rates beginning in 1972.

Lawmakers were successful in overriding three of Exon's vetoes during the concluding hours of their 1971 session.

Three Vetoes

Exon formally delivered three vetoes to the Unicameral during the day, and promised to shoot down LB256, the compromise personal property tax exemption plan, after senators concluded their session.

I take this action (on LB256) because I believe this bill, as have other attempts led by Senator (Jules) Burbach in this area of increasing taxes on the working people of Nebraska to the principal benefit of some of our largest business enterprises, is just not fair," Exon said.

Burbach, the governor said, had five months "to push through his pet project."

'Disappointed'

Responding to Exon's decision not to give supporters of the bill an opportunity to override his veto. Burbach said he was "personally very disappointed the governor has taken this means of asserting his will."

Burbach said "many thousands of people throughout the state share our disappointment" in being unable to provide "some tax relief for a large segment of the Nebraska population."

With LB256 out of the way, the legislative spotlight shone Wednesday on LB264, the school aid bill

Terry Shifts

Keyes offered the first motion to override Exon's veto. Needing 30 votes, he lost on a 29-18 count, but Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff thereupon wiped out his affirmative vote in order to be in a parliamentary position to reconsider the motion.

The second attempt, launched by Carpenter, fell on a 29-20 vote.

Both senators who declined to vote the first time — Richard Lewis of Holbrook and J. James Waldron of Callaway — voted no on the second motion.

Two Switches

And there were two switches in the space of a few minutes.

Sen. E. Thome Johnson of Fremont voted no the first time and yes the second; Sen. Gerald Stromer of Kearney voted yes the first time and no the second.

LB264 would have provided increased aid of $150 per pupil, with 20% of the anticipated $50 million in additional assistance used for tax equalization purposes.

That would have boosted total state aid to about $85 million a year.

3rd Try Backfires

A third attempt to consider a motion to override the veto, this one initiated by Sen. Otho Kime of Valentine, backfired on an 18-24 count.

Here is the vote on the Carpenter motion to override:

For: Burbach, Carepnter, Carsten, Carstens, Craft, DeCamp, Duis, Elrod, Epke, Johnson, Keyes, Kokes, Kremer, Luedtke, Maresh, Nore, Proud, Savage, Schmit, Simpson, Snyder, Stahmer, Stull, Swanson, Waldo, Warner, Whitney, Wiltse, Ziebarth.

Against: Barnett, Chambers, Clark, Goodrich, Hasebroock, Holmquist, Kennedy, Kime, Klaver, Lewis, Mahoney, Marvel, Morgan, Moylan, Orme, Skarda, Stromer, Syas, Waldron, Wallwey

Burbach was successful in enacting LB707 over the governor's objections.

Okayed 32-13

That measure, which boosted state aid to counties and cities (most of the additional money going to counties), was approved on a 32-13 vote.

Total cost: about $2.9 million a year.

The vote on Burbach's motion:

For: Burbach, Carpenter, Carsten, Carstens, Craft, DeCamp Duis, Elrod, Epke, Hasebroock, Holmquist, Johnson, Keyes, Kokes, Kremer, Luedtke, Maresh, Moylan, Nore, Proud, Schmit, Simpson, Stahmer, Stromer, Stull, Waldo, Waldron, Wallwey, Warner, Whitney, Wiltse, Ziebarth

Against: Barnett, Chambers, Clark, Kennedy, Klaver, Mahoney, Marvel, Morgan, Orme, Savage, Skarda, Snyder, Syas.

Not Voting: Goodrich, Kime, Lewis, Swanson

Senators also overrode Exon vetoes of LB1031, providing the legislative committee approval of architects and plans for the proposed new state office building and the University of Nebraska fieldhouse, and LB945, a bill giving county boards new property tax equalization powers.

LB 1031 was re-enacted on a 39-6 vote.

LB945 cleared Exon's veto on a 34-11 count.

Unchallenged

Unchallenged was the governor's veto of LB759A, which would have appropriated $412,706 to increase already budgeted state aid to area vocational technical schools and $61,504 to begin administrative implementation of the new statewide community technical college plan.

Sen. Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox, chief sponsor of the community technical college bill, said funding could wait until the 1972 session.

Patrol Quashes Dramatic Ending

Bellevue, Wash. (AP) — A would-be movie maker found the state patrol to be in no mood for high drama.

Sgt. Barrie Cole received a call asking permission to jump from the 60-foot-high- bridge over the east channel of Lake Washington.

The caller said he was making a film and the high dive would be "a sad ending for a love story."

Cole denied the request and, when the caller asked him to suggest another site, said: "How about the Clark Street bridge in Puyallup? It's only 15 feet over the water."

Special Occasion

Leeds, England (AP) — Mrs. F. J. Watson, a magistrates court judge, dismissed drunk and disorderly charges against George Linstrum, 74, without even a stern word because she said it was a special occasion: his 500th court appearance on similar charges.

Two Attempts To Override Vetoes Fall Short

Two attempts to override Gov. J. James Exon's veto of legislation increasing state aid to public schools by $50 million a year fell one vote short of success Wednesday.

The measure, LB264, signed by Sen. Orval Keyes of Papillion but rewritten chiefly by Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton, would have sharply hiked state sales and income tax rates beginning in 1972.

Lawmakers were successful in overriding three of Exon's vetoes during the concluding hours of their 1971 session.

Three Vetoes

Exon formally delivered three vetoes to the Unicameral during the day, and promised to shoot down LB256, the compromise personal property tax exemption plan, after senators concluded their session.

I take this action (on LB256) because I believe this bill, as have other attempts led by Senator (Jules) Burbach in this area of increasing taxes on the working people of Nebraska to the principal benefit of some of our largest business enterprises, is just not fair," Exon said.

Burbach, the governor said, had five months "to push through his pet project."

'Disappointed'

Responding to Exon's decision not to give supporters of the bill an opportunity to override his veto, Burbach said he was "personally very disappointed the governor has taken this means of asserting his will."

Burbach said "many thousands of people throughout the state share our disappointment" in being unable to provide "some tax relief for a large segment of the Nebraska population."

With LB256 out of the way, the legislative spotlight shone Wednesday on LB264, the school aid bill.

Terry Shifts

Keyes offered the first motion to override Exon's veto. Needing 30 votes, he lost on a 29-18 count, but Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff thereupon wiped out his affirmative vote in order to be in a parliamentary position to reconsider the motion.

The second attempt, launched by Carpenter, fell on a 29-20 vote.

Both senators who declined to vote the first time — Richard Lewis of Holbrook and J. James Waldron of Callaway — voted no on the second motion.

Two Switches

And there were two switches in the space of a few minutes.

Sen. E. Thome Johnson of Fremont voted no the first time and yes the second; Sen. Gerald Stromer of Kearney voted yes the first time and no the second.

LB264 would have provided increased aid of $150 per pupil, with 20% of the anticipated $50 million in additional assistance used for tax equalization purposes.

That would have boosted total state aid to about $85 million a year.

3rd Try Backfires

A third attempt to consider a motion to override the veto, this one initiated by Sen. Otho Kime of Valentine, backfired on an 18-24 count.

Here is the vote on the Carpenter motion to override:

Against: Barnett, Chambers, Clark, Goodrich, Hasebroock, Holmquist, Kennedy, Kime, Klaver, Lewis, Mahoney, Marvel, Morgan, Moylan, Orme, Skarda, Stromer, Syas, Waldron, Wallwey.

Burbach was successful in enacting LB707 over the governor's objections.

Okayed 32-13

That measure, which boosted state aid to counties and cities (most of the additional money going to counties), was approved on a 32-13 vote.

Total cost: about $2.9 million a year.

The vote on Burbach's motion:

Against: Barnett, Chambers, Clark, Kennedy, Klaver, Mahoney, Marvel, Morgan, Orme, Savage, Skarda, Snyder, Syas.

Not Voting: Goodrich, Kime, Lewis, Swanson.

Senators also overrode Exon vetoes of LB1031, providing the legislative committee approval of architects and plans for the proposed new state office building and the University of Nebraska fieldhouse, and LB945, a bill giving county boards new property tax equalization powers.

LB 1031 was re-enacted on a 39-6 vote.

LB945 cleared Exon's veto on a 34-11 count.

Unchallenged

Unchallenged was the governor's veto of LB759A, which would have appropriated $412,706 to increase already budgeted state aid to area vocational technical schools and $61,504 to begin administrative implementation of the new statewide community technical college plan.

Sen. Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox, chief sponsor of the community technical college bill, said funding could wait until the 1972 session.

Patrol Quashes Dramatic Ending

Bellevue, Wash. (AP) — A would-be movie maker found the state patrol to be in no mood for high drama.

Sgt. Barrie Cole received a call asking permission to jump from the 60-foot-high- bridge over the east channel of Lake Washington.

The caller said he was making a film and the high dive would be "a sad ending for a love story."

Cole denied the request and, when the caller asked him to suggest another site, said: "How about the Clark Street bridge in Puyallup? It's only 15 feet over the water."

Special Occasion

Leeds, England (AP) — Mrs. F. J. Watson, a magistrates court judge, dismissed drunk and disorderly charges against George Linstrum, 74, without even a stern word because she said it was a special occasion: his 500th court appearance on similar charges.

Seven Bills Seen As Major Achievements Of First Limited Session

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

When the history of the 1971 Legislature is written, seven bills may emerge as the landmark achievements of Nebraska's first limited annual session of the Unicameral.

But five other major enactments fell before Gov. J. James Exon's veto powers.

The bills which may have the broadest long-range impact on the state and its citizens would include:

—LB190, liberalizing payment procedures for citizens displaced by government's use of the power of eminent domain.

Technical Colleges

LB759, which creates a new statewide system of technical community colleges, with the state picking up 75% of the operational costs.

—LB1006, launching with $6.6 million a new state aid program for the construction of municipal waste treatment facilities.

—LB534, which wipes out all requirements for more than a simple majority approval of local bond issues.

—LB152, authorizing broad state financing of federally guaranteed student loans through the Nebraska Investment Council.

Lower Voting Age

—LB221, proposing a state constitutional amendment to lower the voting age in state and local elections from 20 to 18, and LR 31, ratifying a U.S. constitutional amendment to lower the voting age in all elections to 18.

—LB87, increasing the state cigarette tax by five cents a pack to finance construction of a new state office building, a new University of Nebraska fieldhouse and a recreation center at the Beatrice State Home for the mentally retarded; enacted over the governor's veto.

Among other key measures enacted by the Legislature were its austere budget bills, which basically hold the line on state expenditures, and a number of bills reapportioning elective state bodies, including the Unicameral itself.

Order Reapportionment

Senators also ordered city, county and school district units to reapportion by Jan. 1, 1972 or elect their representatives at large.

Another bill which could have lasting impact, pending a certain court test, is LB659, authorizing public school textbook aid for parochial schools.

The major enactments vetoed by the governor included two personal property tax exemption plans, increased state aid to public schools totaling $50 million a year, a boost in the food sales tax credit from $7 to $10 per person (at the current 2½% rate), and a directive to issue an additional $3 million in highway bonds this year.

Here is a list of key legislation added to the law books by the 1971 session:

Wednesday—Day Of Celebration For Max Meyer

Alert and active, Max Meyer, who celebrated his 90th birthday on Wednesday represents the perfect picture of the man who made it from the bottom up. "My family inherited many hard times, and I had to learn to make decisions at a very early age. Having to make those decisions has helped me to be where I am today," he said.

Thrust into business for himself at a tender age, Mr. Meyer recalls "I was a very independent kid, with a great deal of spunk. Once away from home for the first time, I remember a cloudy, rainy day in Kansas City. There was an old man walking down the block selling fish. The smell of the fish, and the rainy day made me feel like running back home. But I stuck it out, and somehow that day I decided that certain things had to get done, and I had to stay with them and finish the job."

Sticking it out paid off for the young man who later started the Credit Bureau in Lincoln. Now, years later, Max Meyer and the Credit Bureau are regarded as integrally one and the same. Still active in the office Mr. Meyer also belongs to many civic, fraternal, and professional organizations. "I guess I am an organization man. Even after office hours, I find that I have enough work to keep me busy."

Aware and optimistic about conditions existing in this country today, Mr. Meyer has the fervent belief that America and its citizenry is indeed lucky. "I have gone through four depressions, and I have faith that this country can work with its problems. Sure, we have many problems, but we are also willing to iron them out."

Wholeheartedly extending his hand to the young people, Mr. Meyer feels that the young of today are sincere and not easily misled. "The most important thing in dealing with young people is to be willing to talk, explain and listen to them."

In honor of Mr. Meyer's ninetieth birthday, Nebraska Wesleyan University has been offered a scholarship fund by Union Loan and Savings in Lincoln. The Scholarship of $500 will be presented today to Dr. Vance Rogers.

The first of the birthday celebrations was held at the Beta Theta Pi house where many of the alumni, as well as the active chapter were on hand to pay tribute to their fraternity brother. Mr. Meyer has been a member of Beta Theta Pi since 1903—the year he returned to the University to enter law school after a five-year absence from the campus.

Visiting with Mr. Meyer as he prepares to cut his birthday cake are, left to right, Burton Folsom, General Secretary of the fraternity—an office that puts him at the top of the Beta totem pole nationally; Dick Ricketta, Ted Barger, Kerry Winterer, president of the active chapter; E. G. Schaumberg, the architect (and Beta) who designed the fraternity house many years ago — and Mr. Meyer.

The birthday celebrant was honored again on Wednesday evening when he joined members of his family for dinner at Tony and Luigi's.

BOOKS—"The Prisoner Of Sex"

BY INDIRA SINGH

Norman Mailer is well versed on anything and everything. Possessing an ego the size of his 14 books combined, he has won the Pulitzer Prize, directed three motion pictures and run unsuccessfully for the Mayor of New York. Included among his many idiosyncracies is the space program, politics and poverty. But above all he has found himself to be most eloquent over the current broil of womanhood.

Poetic, frank and witty, Mailer has a style that deserves substantial credit. However it is a shame to see him devote himself to such trivial and insignificant philosophy as is found in his latest book, "The Prisoner of Sex." This is not to suggest that the women's movements are trivial, or unimportant, but the recent onslaught of women's protest materials have left the publishers numb and seem to hint that perhaps the movement has let the kettle overflow. Mailer's book instead of clarifying, seems to just add more water to already diluted words.

Kate Millet, the outspoken woman for the Lib movement, devoted a full section to Mailer in her best seller, "Sexual Politics." She awarded him the prominent position in the annals of male chauvinism, and cut his "American Dream" into shreds. Unfortunately Mailer took the bait. He rallied on television programs denouncing "pug-nosed wit" Kate, and making statements that stung many women. "Women should be kept in cages . . . We respect the lions in the zoo, but we want them kept in cages too."

Whereas Millet's book devoted only one section to him, Mailer practically writes his whole book on "Good Sister Kate." In his literary perspective Millet's book is "barren and a mediocre terrain, its flora reminiscent of a Ph.D. tract, its road a narrow argument and its horizons low." Sprinkling in retorts against Betty Friedan, Valerie Solanis head of SCUM (Society of Cutting Up Men) and about 15 other prominent members of the sisterhood, Mailer does manage to retain a sense of humor with his sweeping cosmic view.

There is no denying that Mailer is as biased as Millet. They are polarized on two extremes and therefore tend to negate their protests. It is a sad commentary however that authors of Mailer's caliber cannot find more valid and humane subjects to which they can devote their energies.

It's Reunion Time For LHS Girls' Octette

For the past 26 years, Miss Dorothea Gore, a vocal music instructor, has served as director of the Lincoln High School Girl's Octette. During this period of time, fashions, philosophy and song tempos have changed, but the Girl's Octette has sustained a high quality performance.

Miss Gore arrived at Lincoln High in 1946, and took over leadership of the octette that was originated in 1930. Each spring, girls audition for the eight vocal parts, and one accompanist.

Throughout the year, members of the group perform for local organizations, church and civic groups.

Two years ago, Miss Gore decided to expand the group from eight to nine vocalists. The name of the group necessarily changed from the octette to Enneads, which is the number 9 in Greek.

For the past 20 years, Miss Gore has arranged for a reunion of all the past members. This year, in honor of the Lincoln High Centennial, the Girls' Octette reunion will be held this evening at the Lincoln High Cafeteria at 6 o'clock. All former members who have not been contacted are invited to attend the affair.

Town Talk

The approaching weekend is utterly and completely lacking in spare moments. Active is the word for the Friday-to-Sunday period unless, of course, we also choose to add 'varied' to the activity.

There is, first of all, the wedding of Miss Sally Folsom and John Pavalis of Staten Island, N.Y., which will take place at 4 o'clock on Friday afternoon.

Both Miss Folsom and her fiance were graduated from Hastings College last Sunday, and needless to say the bride-elect had scant time for parties prior to commencement. The courtesy merry-go-round really didn't begin spinning until this week, but there were parties. One of the very early ones was the luncheon and kitchen shower for which Mrs. Robert Durrie, Mrs. Richard Knudsen, Mrs. John Thompson, Mrs. Bruce Fullerton and Mrs. Emerson Jones were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Durrie.

Another of the early party hostesses was Mrs. Arthur Baldus who entertained at luncheon at her home. The guest list included, in addition to the honoree, Miss Folsom's bridal attendants, and the mothers.

* * *

The current week's courtesy calendar for Miss Folsom and Mr. Pavlis is generously dotted with past, present and future.

Last Monday evening, for instance, the bride-elect and her fiance shared honors at a dinner for which Mr. and Mrs. John Angle were host and hostess at their home. The party was to have been a patio picnic — but when the rain came and so, it was moved indoors.

There was another picnic party on Tuesday evening when Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Maness, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hyland, Dr. and Mrs. Jon Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Faytinger were hosts and hostesses at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Maness. In addition to the picnic supper there was entertainment — and a shower for the two honorees.

On Thursday evening the bride-elect's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Willard M. Folsom, will preside at dinner at the Lincoln Country Club in prenuptial courtesy to her granddaugter and Mr. Pavalis. The dinner will follow the wedding rehearsal at the Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Then comes Friday, and a brunch at the Lincoln Country Club with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Folsom and Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Folsom as hosts and hostesses. The guest list will include the members of the bridal party and the out of town guests.

* * *

A cruise is a delightful way to spend a relaxing period of time, and that is exactly what 60 Lincoln couples have in mind. Their port of embarkation is Brownville, and the cruise ship is the Belle of Brownville, and the cruise will take them a mile or two — or three — on the Missouri.

Since all of the passengers are members of the Colonial Dancing Club it is logical to surmise that the 'buoys and gulls' will dine and dance while cruising.

The club members will leave the gateway Parking area at 5 o'clock and will board the riverboat immediately upon their arrival in Brownville.

Planning the party are the officers and the members of the club's board of directors, and the group includes Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Owens, presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Probasco, treasurers, and board members Mr. and Mrs. Don Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bonacker, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Tornblom, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sconyers and Mr. and Mrs. Ralson J. Graham.

It's Reunion Time For LHS Girls' Octette

For the past 26 years, Miss Dorothea Gore, a vocal music instructor, has served as director of the Lincoln High School Girl's Octette. During this period of time, fashions, philosophy and song tempos have changed, but the Girl's Octette has sustained a high quality performance.

Miss Gore arrived at Lincoln High in 1946, and took over leadership of the octette that was originated in 1930. Each spring, girls audition for the eight vocal parts, and one accompanist.

Throughout the year, members of the group perform for local organizations, church and civic groups.

Two years ago, Miss Gore decided to expand the group from eight to nine vocalists. The name of the group necessarily changed from the octette to Enneads, which is the number 9 in Greek.

For the past 20 years, Miss Gore has arranged for a reunion of all the past members. This year, in honor of the Lincoln High Centennial, the Girls' Octette reunion will be held this evening at the Lincoln High Cafeteria at 6 o'clock. All former members who have not been contacted are invited to attend the affair.

Town Talk

The approaching weekend is utterly and completely lacking in spare moments. Active is the word for the Friday-to-Sunday period unless, of course, we also choose to add 'varied' to the activity.

There is, first of all, the wedding of Miss Sally Folsom and John Pavalis of Staten Island, N.Y., which will take place at 4 o'clock on Friday afternoon.

Both Miss Folsom and her fiance were graduated from Hastings College last Sunday, and needless to say the bride-elect had scant time for parties prior to commencement. The courtesy merry-go-round really didn't begin spinning until this week, but there were parties. One of the very early ones was the luncheon and kitchen shower for which Mrs. Robert Durrie, Mrs. Richard Knudsen, Mrs. John Thompson, Mrs. Bruce Fullerton and Mrs. Emerson Jones were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Durrie.

Another of the early party hostesses was Mrs. Arthur Baldus who entertained at luncheon at her home. The guest list included, in addition to the honoree, Miss Folsom's bridal attendants, and the mothers.

* * *

The current week's courtesy calendar for Miss Folsom and Mr. Pavlis is generously dotted with past, present and future.

Last Monday evening, for instance, the bride-elect and her fiance shared honors at a dinner for which Mr. and Mrs. John Angle were host and hostess at their home. The party was to have been a patio picnic — but when the rain came and so, it was moved indoors.

There was another picnic party on Tuesday evening when Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Maness, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hyland, Dr. and Mrs. Jon Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Faytinger were hosts and hostesses at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Maness. In addition to the picnic supper there was entertainment — and a shower for the two honorees.

On Thursday evening the bride-elect's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Willard M. Folsom, will preside at dinner at the Lincoln Country Club in prenuptial courtesy to her granddaugter and Mr. Pavalis. The dinner will follow the wedding rehearsal at the Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Then comes Friday, and a brunch at the Lincoln Country Club with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Folsom and Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Folsom as hosts and hostesses. The guest list will include the members of the bridal party and the out of town guests.

* * *

A cruise is a delightful way to spend a relaxing period of time, and that is exactly what 60 Lincoln couples have in mind. Their port of embarkation is Brownville, and the cruise ship is the Belle of Brownville, and the cruise will take them a mile or two — or three — on the Missouri.

Since all of the passengers are members of the Colonial Dancing Club it is logical to surmise that the 'buoys and gulls' will dine and dance while cruising.

The club members will leave the gateway Parking area at 5 o'clock and will board the riverboat immediately upon their arrival in Brownville.

Planning the party are the officers and the members of the club's board of directors, and the group includes Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Owens, presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Probasco, treasurers, and board members Mr. and Mrs. Don Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bonacker, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Tornblom, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sconyers and Mr. and Mrs. Ralson J. Graham.

Opening lead — ten of diamonds.

This deal comes from a team of four match. At the first table, South was in four spades and West led the ten of diamonds. Had East won with the ace, South would have scored ten tricks very easily. He would have lost two spades and a diamond, period.

But East was a very thoughtful player and for the life of him he couldnt' see how his side could score more than three tricks if he took the ace. At the same time he spotted a chance to defeat the contract by ducking the ten of diamonds, and accordingly he played the deuce on it.

South won with the king and led a trump to the queen. East took the king and returned his singleton heart. Declarer won in dummy with the nine and led another trump, taken by East

East now returned the three of diamonds, continuing his well-conceived plan of defense. West was surprised to find himself winning the trick with the nine, but not to surprised to lead back a heart. East ruffed and South went down one.

Strangely enough, at the second table — and against the same contract and opening lead — the East player also ducked the ten of diamonds. But this time the declarer managed to make the contract.

Here South regarded East's play at trick one with considerable apprehension. Analyzing the situation perfectly, he nipped matters in the bud by returning a diamond at trick two. The effect of this farsighted play was that East was now unable to get a heart ruff and South made four spades.

ABBY

you need a lawyer

DEAR ABBY: I am a 34-year-old divorcee with four teen-aged boys to support. It's four years since I've been divorced, and my ex-husband owes me $6.000 in back support. Because of this, I am deeply in debt, could soon lose my home and have my wages garnisheed. If this keeps up I will be forced to file bankruptcy.

My "ex" has remarried and has a wife plus two children to support. He has no interest in our four children, and the only time he visits them is when one of the boys calls him and begs him to come.

The girls at work say I must still love him or I'd have put him in jail long ago. My family says I am crazy. What is your advice?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: See a lawyer. And if you don't take this advice, see a doctor. (Psychiatrist type.)

DEAR ABBY: What is the proper thing to say to a guy in the following situation?

You are out on a date, and he is nice, but you wouldn't want to go out with him again. When you say good night, he asks you for next weekend I'm afraid if I say I have other plans, he will ask me for the next free weekend.

I don't want to hurt his feelings, but I don't want to go out with him again because he likes me in a way that I don't like him.

Please tell me what to say, Abby. I am sure other girls have this problem. I hope it's something I can say easily because I have . . .

NO GUTS

DEAR NO GUTS: All you need is gumption enough to say, "I am complimented that you want to take me out again, but please ask another girl—someone who could like you in more than a sisterly way. I think you're nice, but it's like a brother-sister deal. Okay?" (P.S. And if he says he doesn't mind having you for a "sister," tell him you don't want him for a brother.")

DEAR ABBY: I can really sympathize with any woman who is married to a man who snores but insists he doesn't. (For some strange reason, snorers are usually married to non-snorers, and therefore don't realize how annoying it can be.)

My husband's snoring sounded like a chicken bone ina garbage disposal, and he swore he didn't make a sound. I rented a tape recorder and set it up under the bed while he was gone. That night when he really got tuned up I held the microphone right under his nose and got about 10 beautiful minutes of snoring. Then I reversed the tape, turned up the volume and nearly blasted him out of bed. He took it good naturedly, but with a stubborn husband you can always threaten to give him a nightly concert until he agrees to do something like see a doctor.

By the way, this works beautifully with children who are whiners and fussers. I made my little boy sit down and listen to 30 minutes of his own fussing and it really helped him to stop it. We don't realize how we sound to other people until it's played back to us. This is also a help for nagging wives and screaming mothers.

Miss McAdams, who will become the bride of Nickolas L. Bronzon of Denver, Colo., son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Bronzon of Orange, Calif., formerly of Nebraska City, will have as her bridesmatron Mrs. Steve Chamberlain. Jane Mehurn will serve as flower girl.

Health Council Claims Nursing Home Unneeded

By WAYNE KREUSCHER
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Hospital and Health Council (LHHC) voted Tuesday to recommend that no apparent need exists in Lancaster County for the proposed Villa du Lac Nursing Home.

This decision was based on a resolution from the council's Health Facilities. Planning Committee which said "no apparent need for additional nursing home beds in Lancaster County is recognized at this time."

The proposed nursing care facility, which would be built at 61st St. and Normal Blvd., needs a "Certificate of Need" from the State Health Department in order to receive Federal Housing Administration nursing home mortgage insurance.

Findings Forwarded

The Lincoln council's recommendation that "no apparent need exists" will be forwarded to the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council and the Health Department.

LHHC Executive Director Jerry Woollen said a study had shown that no additional nursing care beds would be needed in the county until 1975. He said the study estimated that 136 beds might be needed in 1975, but that this estimate is probably high because among other things, Lancaster Manor probably will have more beds by then.

William F. Stromer of Continental Mortgage and Investment, who was representing the nursing home developers, said that Villa du Lac would fulfill a need for minimum and moderate levels of care at low prices. The home would be 34% welfare and 66% private.

He pointed out that the proposed $1.3 million, approximately 188-bed home would not have skilled nursing care and therefore would be able to charge prices below the monthly rates of most other nursing homes.

Low Rates Questioned

Several of the council members agreed that there is a need in Lincoln for less expensive nursing homes that provide minimum care, but many questioned rather the Villa du Lac could financially afford to keep its rates low.

It was also pointed out that Lancaster Manor is expected to be able to provide more less expensive, minimum care.

The council also voted to support the Lincoln General Hospital Board of Trustee's plan for an alcoholism rehabilitation program which the hospital hopes will be underway by mid-June.

Dave Henry, the hospital's assistant administrator, said the treatment program will include a 21-day stay in the facility itself, followed by a two-year out-patient care period.

The 22-bed operation will have four detoxication beds and will be patterned after a program in use at a Minneapolis hospital, Henry said.

Dobler Re-Elected

At the meeting, William Dobler was re-elected chairman of the council for another year.

Other new officers elected were Clancy Woolman, vice chairman; Richard Youngscap, secretary, and Burnham Yates, treasurer.

Six new voting members were elected by the council to fill vacancies caused by resignations, expiring terms or changes from the newly adopted by-laws. They were: Frederic Kaufmann, Dale Siefkes, Mike Higgins, Mrs. C. O. Shepard, Neal Tyner and William Dobler.

United Parcel Service Gains Interstate Routing Extension

A five-year quest by the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce for the extension of interstate United Parcel Service (UPS) routing through Lincoln ended this week when UPS began outbound service from Lincoln to points in its 32-state system.

Chamber President Harry Seward, who made the announcement at a board of directors meeting Wednesday, emphasized, however, that Lincoln would not be able to receive shipments from points in the UPS service area until some time in early July.

According to UPS officials, it is easy to inform Lincoln shippers that they now have service to the 32-state area, but it is a much more difficult task to inform shippers in the central, eastern and southeastern states served by UPS that they can now ship to Lincoln. Thus, the five-week delay in inbound service.

"The addition of UPS, which is the nation's largest carrier of small parcels, fills an important transportation void in Lincoln," Seward said. "UPS service will benefit existing industry and our efforts to attract new industry."

The chamber's Freight Traffic Committee has actively sought UPS service since 1966 and supported the company's efforts for additional authority.

In April, 1970, the Interstate Commerce Commission excluded southern Nebraska including Lincoln from the new UPS authority. Concentrated efforts by the chamber and area shippers resulted in the reversal of the ICC's original denial order.

Floyd Hibdon, chairman of the Freight Traffic Committee, said he was extremely pleased that UPS service to Lincoln was starting earlier than had been anticipated. Obtaining UPS service was the committee's Number One priority for 1971.

In other business, the Lincoln chamber was certified as an Associate Office of the U.S. Department of Commerce under its expanded field service program.

George H. Payne, director of the Commerce Field Office at Kansas City, Mo., in presenting the certification to Seward, said "excellent cooperation has long existed between our office and the chamber in advancing (the) mutual objectives of aiding the development of business in this area." He added that the new working relationship for pooling resources will result in even greater benefits for area business.

Death Causes Delay

Bolzano, Italy (UPI) —Italy's state railroad filed a formal complaint with the public prosecutor, charging that Guerrino Cappello, 29, caused the delay of two trains on May 16. Guerrino was killed that same day when he was struck by the first of the two trains.

Telephone Workers Remain On Job During Negotiations

The current contract between Lincoln Local 7470, Communications Workers of America (CWA) and the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. has been extended until midnight, June 29.

The contract reportedly was to expire this week, but both union and management bargaining committees decided to extend the contract during negotiations, according to a union telephone message.

The telephone message, which is used to keep union members informed on the bargaining, reported Tuesday that "we have had very little movement on our proposals" at a meeting Monday.

The message explained that when a new agreement is reached, the union workers' pay will be retroactive to Wednesday.

Neither union nor management spokesman would comment Wednesday on the bargaining issues.

The local CWA union, which has more than a 1,000 members, also represents the Southeast Nebraska Telephone Co. of Falls City.

Don't miss it. News of friends on vacation, marriages, engagements, parties, P.T.A. notes and club meetings makes good reading in the family section of "Sunday Journal and Star."

Chapin

Swenson

Richard Chapin was named Lincoln "Ad Man of the Year" and Harvey Swenson president of the Lincoln Ad Club at a luncheon meeting Wednesday.

Chapin, president of Stuart Enterprises, has served as chairman of the National Association of Broadcasters board and in 1969 received the award as the distinguished Nebraskan in broadcasting.

He is a member of the board of directors of the National Bank of Commerce, the Lincoln Airport Authority, board of trustees of the University of Nebraska Foundation and is chairman of the Pershing Municipal Auditorium advisory council.

Swenson is owner of KLMS radio. Other ad club officers are Robert Essman, Central Telephone and Utilities Corp., first vice president; Pamela Holloway, Ayres & Associates Inc., second vice president; Judith Childers, Central Telephone and Utilities Corp., secretary-treasurer.

Elected to four-year terms on the board of directors were: Dale Hansen, Jacob North Printing; Lynne Grasz, KOLN-KGIN TV; and Jim Vanderslice, Lincoln Telephone Co.

Telephone Workers Remain On Job During Negotiations

The current contract between Lincoln Local 7470, Communications Workers of America (CWA) and the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. has been extended until midnight, June 29.

The contract reportedly was to expire this week, but both union and management bargaining committees decided to extend the contract during negotiations, according to a union telephone message.

The telephone message, which is used to keep union members informed on the bargaining, reported Tuesday that "we have had very little movement on our proposals" at a meeting Monday.

The message explained that when a new agreement is reached, the union workers' pay will be retroactive to Wednesday.

Neither union nor management spokesman would comment Wednesday on the bargaining issues.

The local CWA union, which has more than a 1,000 members, also represents the Southeast Nebraska Telephone Co. of Falls City.

Laird Reassures Brandt Of U.S. Interest In Settling Berlin Problem

The New York Times

Bonn — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has reassured Chancellor Willy Brandt that West Germany need not fear a loss of U.S. interest in settlement of the Berlin problem in favor of agreements with the Soviet Union on troop reductions and strategic arms cuts.

Last week the Brandt government had become concerned lest U.S. interest in recent Soviet proposals to negotiate mutually balanced reduction of forces in Central Europe and to limit strategic arms overshadow the 14-month-old negotiations on the Berlin issue.

Brandt himself hinted at this concern in a luncheon toast Tuesday at Mittenwald, Bavaria. But a Western official disclosed that Laird took the chancellor aside at an Atlantic Alliance conference there Tuesday and conveyed assurances from the White House of U.S. interest on a Berlin settlement.

Laird's message, together with his explanation that U.S.-Soviet talks on troop reductions would take a long time if they ever got started, served to assuage the West Germans, the Western official said.

"What we are witnessing is the beginning of a big operation by the Russians," a Bonn government source said, "and we are in agreement with the Americans on its scope and intent. We believe it contains both positive and negative elements."

According to this estimate, the Soviet leadership plans to expand its efforts to reduce tensions with the West.

"On the other hand," the source said, "we agree that the Soviets would like to use the troop cuts bid and perhaps even the SALT (strategic arms limitations) negotiations to outmaneuver the West on the Berlin problem."

Interest In Compromise

Western officials noted that the Soviet Union again demonstrated an interest in compromise on several key elements of the Berlin problem Tuesday in the latest round of four-power talks on the issue.

A German familiar with the details of the talks between the U.S., Soviet Union, Britain and France said:

"We now have the feeling that the Russians intend to carry these negotiations to the point where agreement is almost but not quite within reach. Then they will bring the SALT talks or perhaps the troop cuts idea into play as a means of pressuring the West to last-minute concessions on Berlin. It would be a three-ring circus and that is the kind of circus the Russians love to conduct in their diplomacy."

The official who disclosed Laird's message to Brandt concurred with most of this estimate, but added: "Our feeling is that the talks on troop cuts will be at least as difficult as those on strategic arms already have been — so that a Berlin settlement will precede agreement on troop cuts — if there is to be a Berlin settlement at all."

Tenants Association Head Urges Housing Problem Fight

A plea was made Wednesday by City Wide Tenants Association President Bea Richmond to fight the "epidemic housing problem" that exists in Lincoln.

She said more and more people are getting evicted from homes every day. "There are many desperate — really desperate families calling me everyday." She cited many examples of families that have been broken up while trying to find adequate housing.

Mrs. Richmond told of families facing rental down-payments of more than $120 and utility down-payments of $85. Exorbitant rents, poor maintenance of the rental unit, often turning the unit into a "red tag" or a house unfit for habitation, discrimination and the shut-down of utilities from the landlord are real problems to the tenant in Lincoln, she said.

Suggestions came from the group including an overall "umbrella" organization to inform the people of power in government and city planning of the need for low income housing.

A recent poll made by a local television station seemed to indicate to Carol Yoakum, who works with the County Welfare Dept., that there are too many "people who are not informed." She cited the lack of emphasis many diversified people, including businessmen, politicians, the clergy, the elderly, the moderate and low income people and students, place on housing.

"We must get to the power base of the community," she said. She suggested the preparation of an information packet to be distributed to Lincoln residents and organizations, as well as a speaking group who could inform citizens of the problems faced by low income tenants.

Mrs. Richmond, with a suggestion from a Lincoln Air Park Citizen's Organization representative, asked low income tenants to attend the meeting at the County-City Building at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and discuss the problems that they face with others who will attend the Goals and Policy Committee meeting.

Driving into Lincoln on Highway 2, I was about eight miles out when I noticed high voltage power poles without line running north-south. I wonder what this will be.
—Driver, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Scheduled to be completed by the end of the year, this is a 345 kilovolt power line loop connecting the Cooper Nuclear Station at Brownville with the Ft. Calhoun Nuclear Station. The line also connects to a substation on the east edge of Lincoln.

The line will provide an additional source of power for Lincoln.

Is it truly advisable to pull out all electrical plugs during a thunderstorm or is this just a so-called old wives tales?
—Gordon Winters, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: There is nothing wrong with unplugging your electrical appliances during an electrical storm, says James Eckstrand of the Lincoln Electric System, since lightning occasionally will strike the wiring which could destroy an appliance.

The television set is especially vulnerable, he explains, since the antenna atop the house frequently attracts lightning. If the lightning travels down into the set, it could destroy it. Eckstrand suggests unplugging the TV even if no other appliances.

A newspaper picture featured Grand Island's Tom Bosley with his hand raised in victory just as he was about to hit the tape in the state track tournament two-mile run which he completed in 9:43.1 in Class A competition. Fred Carnahan, running in Class C competition, won his two-mile event in 9:43. Why did the news article describing the picture, report that young Bosley lost the race just because he raised his hand?
—S.F., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: In the exuberance of victory, Bosley, far in front of his rivals at the time, raised his hand in happy gesture and cost himself one-tenth of a second total running time, say sports writers. He won the class A competition at 9:43.1. Carnahan won his race in Class C competition with a time of 9:43.

Only one gold medal is given for the best time in all four classes. Therefore, with a 9:43 clocking, Carnahan beat out Bosley by the one-tenth of a second that possibly was lost when Bosley put his hand is the air.

The news article pointed out that Bosley perhaps beat himself out of that gold medal, not the first place in the race, by raising his hand.

Saw a man the other night light up a cigaret in a local movie house. I thought this was agains the law.—Citizen, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: No, says an official of the State Fire Marshal's office, with agreement from a Lincoln Fire Dept. spokesman.

There is no local or state law prohibiting anyone lighting up a cigaret in a theater. However, the management of that theater can have a policy against smoking.

I would like information on genealogy. I read somewhere that the Mormon Church has huge vaults underground where they keep records on many family names, not all of whom are Mormon.
—Mrs. W.C., Ashland

ACTION LINE: Material has been forwarded to you on the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints — The Mormon Church—Granite Mountain Records Vault outside Salt Lake City, Utah.

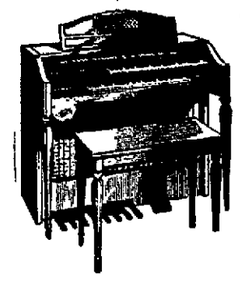

Extensive records, including marriage, birth and death certificates, will and probate information, etc., has been microfilmed all over the world since 1938 by the Church. The vault was built about four years ago and has a capacity of 26 million 300-page volumes.

The Mormon Church desires to retain these records for all time inside the vault in the hope that eventually family ties can be established to link mankind is an eternal chain extending to the beginning of recorded history.

Persons outside the Church are welcome to use the genealogical library collection. There are 301 branch libraries in the U.S. and each has an inter-library loan relationship with the main library in Salt Lake City. ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Thursday

Leo loves to give gifts. Natives of this zodiacal sign are not adverse to receiving, but actually have more fun presenting — that is part of the showmanship identified with Leo. The typical Leo needs an audience and usually has a big one. But no matter how many persons are involved, the spotlight shines on Leo. On negative side, this leads to arrogance. On positive side, Leo is fun-loving, generous and talented enough to entertain groups, large and small. Some famous persons born under Leo include Robert Mitchum, Mae West and Dustin Hoffman.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Go slow-and-easy. Many make commitments. Be sure you clear actions with family, professional associates. You can have fun, but you are not entirely free. Tangle of red tape could irritate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Health conditions and travel mix; you find that energy surges and wanes. You are not positive. Key now is to nourish ideas. But don't commit yourself to definite course of action.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Vital events occur. Be ready, willing. You certainly are able. Realize this and respond with enthusiasm. Key is to experiment, to live life to hilt. No backing down. No wallflower.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Finish what you start. Leave no loose ends. Concentrate on completion. Lunar cycle is high; family member acts in eccentric manner. What appears setback will boomerang in your favor.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): One close to you is restless. You find out what you need to know by being subtle. Direct approach will not suffice. Be willing to accept challenge. Welcome new concept. Be original.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Mixing friendship and business will be costly. Realize this; maintain balance. You cannot buy your way. But you can charm, win, persuade. Some fond wishes now will be fulfilled.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Unorthodox approach proves constructive. Be experimental, daring. Learn rules so you can break them. Following crowd now would be error. Set your own pace, policy. You will win.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Some secrets may be revealed. Check details. Avoid jumping to conclusions. What you need may be at a distance. Keep communication lines open. Special message is coming your way.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emotions fly high; strive to give equal time to logic. Don't be satisfied to know merely what occurred; discover why. Probe deep; reject superficial indications. Get beneath the surface.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some who make promises should be pinned down. Your own security must be considered. Empty statements do no good. Be analytical when dealing with Taurus, Libra individuals.

Want a question answered? Action on something? Phone or write ACTION LINE, Sunday Journal and Star, giving name, town, daily paper (Star, Journal or Sunday) plus your request. Calls or letters from unidentified persons are not used. A pen name or initial will be used with the town if requested and if the caller or writer also provides his correct name and address.

Driving into Lincoln on Highway 2, I was about eight miles out when I noticed high voltage power poles without line running north-south. I wonder what this will be.
—Driver, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Scheduled to be completed by the end of the year, this is a 345 kilovolt power line loop connecting the Cooper Nuclear Station at Brownville with the Ft. Calhoun Nuclear Station. The line also connects to a substation on the east edge of Lincoln.

The line will provide an additional source of power for Lincoln.

Is it truly advisable to pull out all electrical plugs during a thunderstorm or is this just a so-called old wives tales?
—Gordon Winters, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: There is nothing wrong with unplugging your electrical appliances during an electrical storm, says James Eckstrand of the Lincoln Electric System, since lightning occasionally will strike the wiring which could destroy an appliance.

The television set is especially vulnerable, he explains, since the antenna atop the house frequently attracts lightning. If the lightning travels down into the set, it could destroy it. Eckstrand suggests unplugging the TV even if no other appliances.

A newspaper picture featured Grand Island's Tom Bosley with his hand raised in victory just as he was about to hit the tape in the state track tournament two-mile run which he completed in 9:43.1 in Class A competition. Fred Carnahan, running in Class C competition, won his two-mile event in 9:43. Why did the news article describing the picture, report that young Bosley lost the race just because he raised his hand?
—S.F., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: In the exuberance of victory, Bosley, far in front of his rivals at the time, raised his hand in happy gesture and cost himself one-tenth of a second total running time, say sports writers. He won the class A competition at 9:43.1. Carnahan won his race in Class C competition with a time of 9:43.

Only one gold medal is given for the best time in all four classes. Therefore, with a 9:43 clocking, Carnahan beat out Bosley by the one-tenth of a second that possibly was lost when Bosley put his hand is the air.

The news article pointed out that Bosley perhaps beat himself out of that gold medal, not the first place in the race, by raising his hand.

Saw a man the other night light up a cigaret in a local movie house. I thought this was agains the law.—Citizen, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: No, says an official of the State Fire Marshal's office, with agreement from a Lincoln Fire Dept. spokesman.

There is no local or state law prohibiting anyone lighting up a cigaret in a theater. However, the management of that theater can have a policy against smoking.

I would like information on genealogy. I read somewhere that the Mormon Church has huge vaults underground where they keep records on many family names, not all of whom are Mormon.
—Mrs. W.C., Ashland

ACTION LINE: Material has been forwarded to you on the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints — The Mormon Church—Granite Mountain Records Vault outside Salt Lake City, Utah.

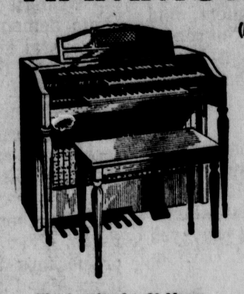

Extensive records, including marriage, birth and death certificates, will and probate information, etc., has been microfilmed all over the world since 1938 by the Church. The vault was built about four years ago and has a capacity of 26 million 300-page volumes.

The Mormon Church desires to retain these records for all time inside the vault in the hope that eventually family ties can be established to link mankind is an eternal chain extending to the beginning of recorded history.

Persons outside the Church are welcome to use the genealogical library collection. There are 301 branch libraries in the U.S. and each has an inter-library loan relationship with the main library in Salt Lake City. ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Thursday

Leo loves to give gifts. Natives of this zodiacal sign are not adverse to receiving, but actually have more fun presenting — that is part of the showmanship identified with Leo. The typical Leo needs an audience and usually has a big one. But no matter how many persons are involved, the spotlight shines on Leo. On negative side, this leads to arrogance. On positive side, Leo is fun-loving, generous and talented enough to entertain groups, large and small. Some famous persons born under Leo include Robert Mitchum, Mae West and Dustin Hoffman.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Go slow-and-easy. Many make commitments. Be sure you clear actions with family, professional associates. You can have fun, but you are not entirely free. Tangle of red tape could irritate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Health conditions and travel mix; you find that energy surges and wanes. You are not positive. Key now is to nourish ideas. But don't commit yourself to definite course of action.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Vital events occur. Be ready, willing. You certainly are able. Realize this and respond with enthusiasm. Key is to experiment, to live life to hilt. No backing down. No wallflower.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Finish what you start. Leave no loose ends. Concentrate on completion. Lunar cycle is high; family member acts in eccentric manner. What appears setback will boomerang in your favor.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): One close to you is restless. You find out what you need to know by being subtle. Direct approach will not suffice. Be willing to accept challenge. Welcome new concept. Be original.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Mixing friendship and business will be costly. Realize this; maintain balance. You cannot buy your way. But you can charm, win, persuade. Some fond wishes now will be fulfilled.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Unorthodox approach proves constructive. Be experimental, daring. Learn rules so you can break them. Following crowd now would be error. Set your own pace, policy. You will win.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Some secrets may be revealed. Check details. Avoid jumping to conclusions. What you need may be at a distance. Keep communication lines open. Special message is coming your way.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emotions fly high; strive to give equal time to logic. Don't be satisfied to know merely what occurred; discover why. Probe deep; reject superficial indications. Get beneath the surface.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some who make promises should be pinned down. Your own security must be considered. Empty statements do no good. Be analytical when dealing with Taurus, Libra individuals.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Avoid fooling yourself. See situations in realistic light. Accent on practical matters. But you tend now toveer away from the practical. Timing will improve. Ultimate gain is shown.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Not wise to depend on financial promises of others. Get house in order. Take inventory. Adhere to your own style. Stick to principles. Stand tall. Maintain dignity. Money picture improves.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are due for greater freedom of thought, action. If single, marriage may be on agenda. You attract people to you with their problems. You are concerned with social welfare, law in relation to fair play. Your mind races, is active even when you are physically at rest. By October, you may be changing residence.

Slender Capital Construction Program Approved

The Legislature Wednesday gave final approval to a slender 1971-72 capital construction program which contains planning funds for more than $17 million in future projects.

LB1037 appropriates only $6.1 million in funds for the state tax supported general fund for new construction during the coming fiscal year.

A $675,000 food service facility at the Beatrice State Home is the largest project in the program.

Other major items in the bill include $750,000 for land acquisition at the University of Nebraska at Omaha, and $747,488 in state matching funds for outdoor recreation facilities in Nebraska municipalities.

Planning funds are provided for a library addition, a new College of Law and a new home economics building on the University of Nebraska's Lincoln campuses.

Here are the major proposed projects, with funds appropriated for planning and projected future construction costs:

—classroom and administration building at Kearney State College, $95,000 planning, $1,777,394.

—applied arts building at Wayne State College, $60,000 planning $1,200,000.

—NU library addition, $180,000 planning, $3,320,000.

—NU College of Law, $50,000 planning, $2,950,000.

—NU home economics building, $90,000 planning, $1,410,000.

—School of Nursing building at the NU Medical Center in Omaha, $54,000 planning, $1,692,000.

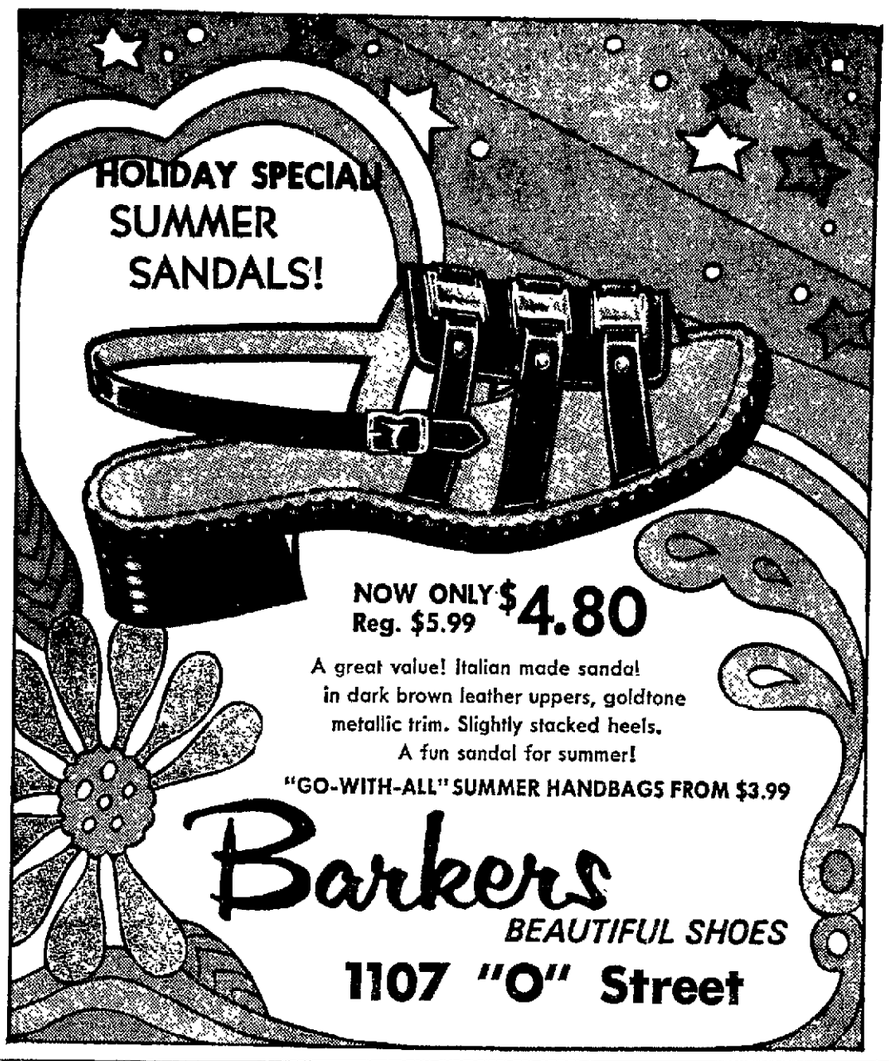

—classroom building at UNO, $200,000 planning, $4,300,000.

A companion capital construction budget bill, LB1038, reappropriates funds for projects already underway or committed to construction.

Both bills were approved in the exact form recommended by the Appropriations Committee.

Libraries To Close

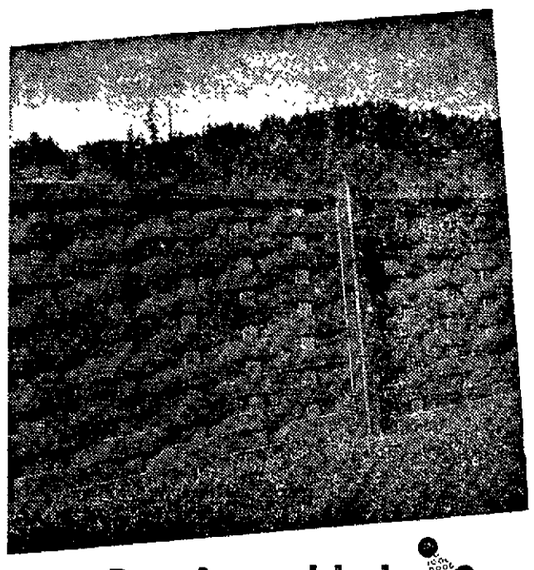

The Lincoln City Libraries including Bennett Martin Public Library and the branches will be closed in observance of Memorial Day, May 31, 1971.

Slender Capital Construction Program Approved

The Legislature Wednesday gave final approval to a slender 1971-72 capital construction program which contains planning funds for more than $17 million in future projects.

LB1037 appropriates only $6.1 million in funds for the state tax supported general fund for new construction during the coming fiscal year.

A $675,000 food service facility at the Beatrice State Home is the largest project in the program.

Other major items in the bill include $750,000 for land acquisition at the University of Nebraska at Omaha, and $747,488 in state matching funds for outdoor recreation facilities in Nebraska municipalities.

Planning funds are provided for a library addition, a new College of Law and a new home economics building on the University of Nebraska's Lincoln campuses.

Here are the major proposed projects, with funds appropriated for planning and projected future construction costs:

—classroom and administration building at Kearney State College, $95,000 planning, $1,777,394.

—applied arts building at Wayne State College, $60,000 planning $1,200,000.

—NU library addition, $180,000 planning, $3,320,000.

—NU College of Law, $50,000 planning, $2,950,000.

—NU home economics building, $90,000 planning, $1,410,000.

—School of Nursing building at the NU Medical Center in Omaha, $54,000 planning, $1,692,000.

—classroom building at UNO, $200,000 planning, $4,300,000.

A companion capital construction budget bill, LB1038, reappropriates funds for projects already underway or committed to construction.

Both bills were approved in the exact form recommended by the Appropriations Committee.

Individual Waste Stabilization Lagoon Proposal Is Opposed

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

Allowing individuals in a subdivision not served by city sewer facilities to have their own waste treatment lagoon is too risky, the City-County Planning Commission was told Wednesday by state and city health officials.

Before the commission was a request for a preliminary subdivision plat of land east of 84th on the north side of Van Dorn. The developer had proposed installing a package treatment plant and lagoon — known as a waste stabilization pond — on each of the 23 lots to be created.

Les Sanger, chief of the health department's environmental health office, said expecting each of the 23 families to always properly maintain the stabilization ponds is "too much to expect."

In cases of faulty maintenance or failure, Sanger said, the ponds would produce foul odors.

Important Matter

"Community wastewater treatment and disposal cannot be left to the whims of a disorganized cluster of private property owners," he said.

Sanger said he would prefer to see a single wastewater stabilization pond installed by the developer to serve the entire 17-acre tract.

He said such a stabilization pond, if adequately designed and handling only domestic waste, "can do a real good job in treating wastes."

Ted Filipi, chief of the state's Bureau of Environmental Health Services, said he also disapproved as being too risky the use of lagoons for each of 23 lots.

The commission decided to defer action on the preliminary plat request to give the developer a chance to explore the possibility of using the method outlined by Sanger.

The planning commission also received some favorable comments from someone who had been turned down by the commission.

Jim Johnson, a local realtor, praised the commission for its interest in good planning and its assistance to applicants seeking changes before the planning body and its open discussions on proposed changes.

Request Denied

Johnson earlier had been turned down for a change of zone from F Restricted Commercial to G Local Business on the southwest corner of 37th and O. He had petitioned for the change at the request of one of the tenants in the building for a directory sign because the building across the street had been granted such a change.

But planning commissioners felt they did not want to see the rest of the portion of O St. turn into G Business zoning by approving another error. The group also requested the council to reconsider its approval of the earlier change of zone to G Local Business.

The approved change, requested by Austin Realty to allow a directory sign, was vetoed by the mayor, with the old council overriding the mayor's veto.

The commission also requested Planning Director Doug Brogden to explore alternatives to the present procedure of allowing non-conforming uses to be expanded to accomplish a more restrictive policy.

Several commission members, particularly George Williamson, said that the non-conforming uses instead of being phased out are in fact being perpetuated since new structures can be built.

Other recommendations:

—Denial of change of zone from A-2 Single Family to B Two Family and special permit for community unit plan for area in vicinity of 36th and Vine, requested by John Vestecka.

—Denial of change of zone from B Two Family to I Commercial on property at 27th and Dudley, requested by Ernest Johnson.

—Denial of change of zone from D Multiple to I Commercial on property at southwest corner of 22nd and Q, requested by Crosstown Investment Co.

—Approval of change of zone from A-2 Single Family and H-2 Highway Commercial to C Multiple on property in vicinity of 44th and Cornhusker, requested by Western Investors Inc.

—Approval of change of zone from D Multiple Dwelling to K Light Industrial on property at 25th and P, requested by planning commission.

—Approval of change of zone from D Multiple to I Commercial on property at 33rd and Holdrege, requested by Mrs. Marie Piazza.

—Denial of change of zone from A-2 Single Family to G Local Business on property at 70th and Ballard, requested by Harvey Robinson.

—Denial of special permit to operate an auto wrecking or salvage business at 20th and Q, requested by Mrs. Toby Leshinsky.

—Approval of special permit to develop a community unit plan at 84th and Holdrege and also preliminary and final plat for area.

—Denial of special permit to construct a retirement residence at 65th and O, requested by Eastmont Manor Inc.

—Denial of special permit to develop community unit plan in vicinity of 25th and Norman Rd., requested by Regency Estates Inc.

—Denial of change of zone from A-2 Single Family to B Two Family on property at northeast corner of 46th and High, requested by Elmer Shamberg.

—Approval of vacation of public right-of-way south from Cornhusker Hwy. approximately 350 feet, west of 33rd St.

Touring Green Berets Reach Nebraska

By SAM THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Rulo — Two assault teams of U.S. Army Green Berets invaded Nebraska soil at the mouth of the Nemaha southeast of here Wednesday and spent the night in Falls City.

The two twelve-man special forces units and their five-men ground-support team are along the route taken by Louisiana Territory explorers Lewis and Clark in 1804 — from St. Louis up the Missouri to its headwaters by Army assault craft, across the Rockies by foot, and down the Snake and Columbia Rivers by rubber raft to the Pacific.

Whereas the original explorers took 17 months to cover the 3,000 miles, the Green Berets' combination training mission and domestic pacification program will cover the distance in some 118 days.

A welcoming committee, consisting of representatives of Rulo, Falls City, the State Game and Parks Commission, Indians from the nearby Iowa Indian Reservation and some 90 onlookers welcomed the Green Berets to Nebraska.

Game and Parks Commission Director Willard Barbee was on hand to present each soldier with a Nebraska No. 1 pin, and thanked them "for drawing attention to the river," which, he said, will soon attain its full recreational potential.

Robert Killen of the Division of Parks made a few historical comments, noting that the spot where the Green Berets landed was Lewis and Clark's first permanent camp in Nebraska Territory. The expedition struck camp June 15, 1804, on what they described in their journals as a "sand island at the mouth of the Nemaha," and carved their names in the sand bluffs nearby (the carving has long since eroded).

"They had a discipline problem which you probably don't have now," Killen said, addressing the Green Berets. One man was court-martialed for falling asleep at his post, he said; and was sentenced to 100 lashes across the back, in four installments.

Several of the nine who kept diaries described the waving grass, the profusion of fruit and berries, and the Osage plum trees, Killen said. They also traveled "inland" along the Nemaha and discovered one of the largest Indian burial sites in Nebraska.

The Nemaha camp was notable for being the site of the expedition's first court martial and first reconnaissance of the countryside, Killen said.

He described the Louisiana purchase as "the biggest real estate deal in history," doubling the size of the United States.

"If Lewis and Clark experienced the amenities that you are, though, they never would have gone on up the river," Killen concluded, referring to the banquets and entertainment given the Berets on their way up the Missouri

One such banquet was scheduled for their first night in Nebraska by the Falls City Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, and Veterans of Foreign Wars. The men were to spend the night in the Falls City Armory, make their way to Brownville on Thursday, Nebraska City on Friday, and assault Omaha Beach Saturday.

The program was concluded with an Indian dance by fifth-generation Iowa Chief Jim Rhodd and several men and women of his and other neighboring tribes. The Iowas occupied the land around the Nemaha-Missouri confluence at the time of the Lewis and Clark expedition.

McCook College Post To Potter

McCook (UPI) — The McCook College Board of Education, at a special meeting Wednesday night, named Dr. Myron Potter as new president of Mc-Cook College.

Potter, 48, is currently director of secondary education at Doane College at Crete. He was one of five candidates considered for the post.

Potter served for approximately 15 years as a teacher in Bartley, Cambridge and Wilsonville, including being superintendent at Cambridge from 1966-68. He was also a graduate assistant in the department of educational administration at the University of Nebraska for one year.

Touring Green Berets Reach Nebraska

By SAM THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Rulo — Two assault teams of U.S. Army Green Berets invaded Nebraska soil at the mouth of the Nemaha southeast of here Wednesday and spent the night in Falls City.

The two twelve-man special forces units and their five-men ground-support team are using the route taken by Louisiana Territory explorers Lewis and Clark in 1804 — from St. Louis up the Missouri to its headwaters by Army assault craft, across the Rockies by foot, and down the Snake and Columbia Rivers by rubber raft to the Pacific.

Whereas the original explorers took 17 months to cover the 3,000 miles, the Green Berets' combination training mission and domestic pacification program will cover the distance in some 118 days.

A welcoming committee, consisting of representatives of Rulo, Falls City, the State Game and Parks Commission, Indians from the nearby Iowa Indian Reservation and some 90 onlookers welcomed the Green Berets to Nebraska.

Game and Parks Commission Director Willard Barbee was on hand to present each soldier with a Nebraska No. 1 pin, and thanked them "for drawing attention to the river," which, he said, will soon attain its full recreational potential.

Robert Killen of the Division of Parks made a few historical comments, noting that the spot where the Green Berets landed was Lewis and Clark's first permanent camp in Nebraska Territory. The expedition struck camp June 15, 1804, on what they described in their journals as a "sand island at the mouth of the Nemaha," and carved their names in the sand bluffs nearby (the carving has long since eroded).

"They had a discipline problem which you probably don't have now," Killen said, addressing the Green Berets. One man was court-martialed for falling asleep at his post, he said, and was sentenced to 100 lashes across the back, in four installments.

Several of the nine who kept diaries described the waving grass, the profusion of fruit and berries, and the Osage plum trees, Killen said. They also traveled "inland" along the Nemaha and discovered one of the largest Indian burial sites in Nebraska.

The Nemaha camp was notable for being the site of the expedition's first court martial and first reconnaissance of the countryside, Killen said.

He described the Louisiana purchase as "the biggest real estate deal in history," doubling the size of the United States.

"If Lewis and Clark experienced the amenities that you are, though, they never would have gone on up the river," Killen concluded, referring to the banquets and entertainment given the Berets on their way up the Missouri.

One such banquet was scheduled for their first night in Nebraska by the Falls City Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, and Veterans of Foreign Wars. The men were to spend the night in the Falls City Armory, make their way to Brownville on Thursday, Nebraska City on Friday, and assault Omaha Beach Saturday.

The program was concluded with an Indian dance by fifth-generation Iowa Chief Jim Rhodd and several men and women of his and other neighboring tribes. The Iowas occupied the land around the Nemaha-Missouri confluence at the time of the Lewis and Clark expedition.

McCook College Post To Potter

McCook (UPI) — The McCook College Board of Education, at a special meeting Wednesday night, named Dr. Myron Potter as new president of Mc-Cook College.

Potter, 48, is currently director of secondary education at Doane College at Crete. He was one of five candidates considered for the post.

Potter served for approximately 15 years as a teacher in Bartley, Cambridge and Wilsonville, including being superintendent at Cambridge from 1966-68. He was also a graduate assistant in the department of educational administration at the University of Nebraska for one year.

TIME OUT

By Steve Gillispie
Star Sports Writer

Congratulations Due To NP

Congratulations are due to coach Darrell Hildebrand and his North Platte Junior College track team.

Hildebrand, in his seventh year at the North Platte school, guided the Knights to fourth place in the National Junior College meet over the weekend.

North Platte had three national champions — Karl Webb, Bruce Borden and Ralph Fischer — who scored 38 points. Webb, a freshman from Omaha, was the most versatile in winning the 220, placing third in the 100 and fifth in the triple jump.

Despite many lucrative offers Hildebrand says Webb indicated he'll stay at North Platte for another year and then wants to come to Nebraska.

Borden, a sophomore, won the discus after not placing in the shot put while Fischer, a freshman, won the 120-yard high hurdles by a half-second over second place.

Success is no stranger to Hildebrand as the Knights won the Nebraska Junior College Conference, Empire Conference and Region 9 meets this year. His teams have won the NJCC title four times.

Bean Good Recruiter

The Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference track coaches feel the main reason Jerry Bean has been so successful at Hastings College is his ability to recruit

"Jerry was able to go out and get good athletes," Nebraska Wesleyan's Woody Greeno says. "He started with almost a nonexistent program and had a powerhouse this year," Doane's Fred Beile adds.

Besides taking a bleak program at Hastings and building it up, Bean also started the Bronco Relays which is now known as one of the top meets for high schools and colleges.

Beile and Greeno say they will miss the mod-style Bean in the NIAC conference and his competitive teams. The Broncos won the NIAC this year.

"I tried to get the team to peak for the conference meet this year," Bean said, "Last year I felt we peaked too early and it hurt us at the conference meet."

Bean, 32, will take over a highly successful program at Western Kentucky on June 15 and has already been busy in recruiting prospective athletes.

Cloeter Adds Honor

Concordia freshman Dan Cloeter has been awarded another honor by the Seward school.

He was voted the most valuable member of the Bulldog track team. So far Cloeter has school records in the mile, three-mile and six-mile.

Last fall Cloeter was picked most valuable for the cross country team and led the Bulldogs to second place at the NIAC meet by winning the individual title. Rich Bergt was voted most improved on the Concordia track team and set a school record in the 880 with a 1:54.6

Last week the Bulldogs won the Tri-State Conference track title in their last year in the conference. Next year Concordia will only compete in the NIAC

Three other athletes were honored as most valuable in golf, baseball and tennis for Concordia. There are Ken Krause in golf, Mike Teuscher in baseball and Rick Herzog in tennis.

The Bulldogs' Lou Seddelmeyer was named the most improved golfer.

Concordia, after winning the NIAC football crown and the improvement shown in other sports, has been the most pleasant surprise in the NAIC this year according to conference coaches. And the Seward school's coaches are looking forward to a better year with underclassmen dominating the athletic teams.

Same Day Telecast Set For Indianapolis 500

New York (UPI) — The auto race has been with us in one form or another ever since man wedded the wheel to gasoline, and it has always been a popular spectator sport, but network home television has given it a phenomenal boost in recent years.

Video coverage, live or on delayed tape, of races in various parts of the world has increased steadily both as to the number of events and the air time allotted to them.

This Saturday, for the first time, the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Speedway, a Memorial Day perennial, will be available on the home screen the same day the contest is held.

The American Broadcasting Co. which is the leader in covering auto races, will record the event on tape as it is run and then put an edited two-hour version on the network at 8:30 p.m. Saturday. The race takes a little over three hours.

In recent years, the race has been available live on closed-circuit, paid, theater television, but that is not being done this year.

"In general, auto racing has been one of the most difficult sports to cover on television," said Chuck Howard, vice president in charge of program production for ABC sports and producer of the Indianapolis event.

"To show the full scope of the racing action, it has become necessary at some point to sacrifice the feeling of speed. When we do capture this speed sensation, using low cameras focused on a car or two whipping around a turn, it is possible for the viewer at home to become disoriented and miss for a time the main storyline of the race.

"For instance, I doubt the viewer would forgive us if we showed him a dramatic speed shot and caused him to miss the pass for first place."

More cameras, possibly 13, will be used at the Indianapolis event than have been employed by ABC in covering any other race, Howard said.

"Because of the unusual layout of the speedway," he said "it is impossible, for instance, even for a spectator in the best seat to see everything taking place on the track. So, more cameras.

"And to do the best possible job, we will have special reporters at each turn who are equipped to give first-hand commentaries immediately should anything unusual take place in their areas."

ABC's first racing telecast was on its Saturday "Wide World of Sports" program on May 27, 1961, when it showed some time trials for that year's Indianapolis 500. "Wide World" carried two other auto events that year, including France's Le Mans Grand Prix.

In the first five months of 1971, "Wide World" has presented 12 auto competitions, three of them live, and, in addition, ABC has televised Sunday races in three cities.

An ABC sports spokesman said that some 215 stations have been lined up for the Indianapolis telecast, a record for any of that network's prime-time sports specials. The National Basketball Association's championship playoffs this year, for example, went to about 185 stations.

Should weather prevent the Indianapolis race on Saturday, it will be run Sunday and ABC's program will be on at 8:30 p.m. that day.

Gross' Trophy Case No Longer Vacant

. . . OMAHA CLUB SNARES PREP 'B' BASEBALL TITLE

By DAVE WALLNER
Star Sports Writer

Wipe off the showcase dust, friend, Omaha Gross has won a trophy.

Gross leaped two hurdles Wednesday in winning the State Class B high school baseball tournament on the NU diamond and bringing home its premier first-place sports award in three years of effort.

Coach Stan Macaitis' Cougars knocked off Superior, 6-3, in the first round before coming back for a 3-0 title triumph over Centennial, which had ousted defending king Wayne, 4-1, in its first outing.

Joe Stanek, a skinny kid with a snappy curveball, carried the load in the championship. Stanek fanned ten, walked just one and held Centennial to four scattered singles.

Gross' low-scoring success was typical of the three-game event — a pitcher's paradise which yielded just 24 hits and only one extra-base rap.

Stanek had hurled a ten strikeout, no-hit performance in the district finals and started the day off in like fashion by whiffing Centennial's Jack Miller.

But Centennial quickly killed any dream that Stanek might have had of another no-hitter with singles in the first by Ron Luth and Mike Geis.

But from then on the 6-3 sophomore was in supreme command. He ran off a string of four straight strikeouts over the second and third innings and didn't give up another hit until the fourth.

"I was a little nervous at first because of the state competition," Stanek explained after his fourth win of the year. "But I settled down and tried to challenge the hitters. I look at batters as enemies of mine and I'm not going to let them cross my territory, the plate."

And Wednesday, the enemy never even got close.

His mates, while managing only five hits off the Broncos' Dennis Morner, displayed the most consistant fielding of the day and bailed Stanek out on the few occasions when he needed such assistance.

Gross picked up single runs in the second, third and fourth to give the righthander everything he needed in the way of runs.

Jerry Jaksich led off the second with a poke-single to right before being forced by Ed Kresl. Kresl stole second and advanced to third on a wild pitch. Dan Gillispie then rolled a slow bouncer to second and Kresl beat the throw to the plate.

The Cougars added another in the third on a walk, a single by Lou Kresl, a double steal and a sacrifice fly to center by Jaksich.

The final run scored with two outs as Tom Riha lashed a single to center that got by Miller for an added two bases After Stanek walked, Gross got away with what looked like an unintentional double steal in slow motion. Stanek headed for second, almost nonchalantly, drew a throw from Morner to second and a return toss to first and made it in safely while Riha sneaked home.

Macaitis cited solid pitching and improved defense over the last half of the season as the keys to opening the championship door.

"The kids really wanted this," Macaitis said, "and I don't think anybody could have taken it from them."

With a team that lacks a senior on its roster, that one trophy may not be single for long

Golfer Hints Possible Suit

. . . ATTORNEYS CONSULTED

Memphis, Tenn. (AP) — Dave Hill reluctantly paid a $500 fine Wednesday, planned an appeal and his attorneys even hinted at the possibility of a suit against the Tournament Players Division of the Professional Golfers Association.

Legal action "has been discussed," Hill's attorney, John P. Colton of Memphis admitted under questioning.

First, however, the oft-fined and sometimes-suspended Hill planned to appeal the fine to the policy board of the Tournament Players Division at the Board's regularly scheduled meeting in Atlanta next week.

The fine was assessed for "conduct unbecoming a professional golfer," TPD spokesman Ron Coffman said. It concerned Hill's actions during the second round of last week's Colonial National Invitation tournament at Fort Worth.

Hill, playing poorly that day, threw his ball out of a sand trap on the 18th hole and purposely signed an incorrect scorecard. He was disqualified on the spot and early this week was informed he had been fined.

Coffman said the fine was larger than usual "because Mr. Hill is not a first-time offender."

Hill, winner of the title in three of the last four Danny Thomas Memphis Classics, was told he must pay the fine before teeing off in the pro-am event Wednesday or he would not be allowed to compete in the event which starts today.

He met with a battery of attorneys and his agent, Ed Barner, for several hours, marched to the tee and handed the check to TPD official Gordy Glenz. He said nothing, and quickly turned his back on the official.

"I'm paying the fine because I wouldn't want to do anything to hurt the tournament," he said.

"But we're not through with this," he continued. "We're gonna have a lot of fun. They've messed with old Davey for the last time. It's going to cost me a lot of money, maybe, but I'll spend every quarter I have to prove that the Constitution of the United States covers everybody," he said.

Hill, center of a number of major controversies in recent years, including his highly-publicized criticism of the United States Open course at Chaska, Minn., last year, said he was basing his appeal on three major points:

"I've had a lot of fines, but they've never once put anything in writing," he said.

"But if I want to appeal I've got to put it in writing. I've got to appeal in writing and I don't even know what I'm charged with. I want to see it in writing what that 'conduct unbecoming' means. As far as I know if they don't like the way I comb my hair they can fine me.

"Every man should have the right to play or not to play as he sees fit. If I'm playing bad I ought to be able to pick it up. I should be able to go to the sponsor and say 'I'm sick. I'm sick of hitting it.

"But their rules force me to lie. I've got to lie to the sponsor and tell him I'm really sick. That's not right. God's laws were here before man's laws and they're forcing me to break God's law and die.

"And the fines ought to be the same for everybody, no matter who he is or how he's playing. They ought to be the same. Not one thing for me and another for someone else"

The Associated Press had learned earlier in the day that the match would be made for sometime this summer.

Omaha (AP) — Larry Cochell announced Wednesday he was resigning as head baseball coach at Creighton University to take over the diamond job at California State of Los Angeles.

He will succeed Jim Reeder, who is retiring at Cal State after 15 years as baseball coach.

Cochell had a record of 49 victories and 28 defeats at Creighton in two seasons. He was baseball coach at Emporia State in Kansas three years before coming to Creighton.

No successor at Creighton has been named.

Stander Matched With Patterson?

Omaha (AP) — The Cornhusker Boxing Club is going to try to sign Floyd Patterson Thursday as an opponent for Ron Stander of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Stander's manager, Dick Noland, said plans are to get Patterson to Omaha Aug. 31. Noland said the appearance of the former world's champion would cost about $15,000.

Stander knocked out Lee Carr in the Omaha City Auditorium Monday night to make his record 18-0-1.

Miss Spy Song Seeking First Ak Triumph

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Miss Spy Song seeks to make amends today for her previous non-winning Ak-Sar-Ben appearances.

The 3-year-old pride of Rex Ekwall and Don Clugston of Millard is set to compete against seven 3-year-old fillies at Ak-Sar-Ben in the first running of the $10,000 added Princess Stakes.

After winning her first two starts of the year at Fonner Park, Miss Spy Song was beaten by six lengths by Joey Bob in the second division of the Ak Inaugural Handicap. She then was edged by Pelani by three lengths in an allowance test on May 5.

While those chases were 5½ furlongs, the Princess is set for 6 furlongs. Miss Spy Song will carry top weight of 122 pounds and regular rider Ken Jones.

Pelani, who zipped past Miss Spy Song in that $5,500 allowance race just over three weeks ago will carry second top weight of 120 pounds as will three others. Trained by J. Hughes and owned by the Monaghan Farms, Inc. of Denver, Pelani will be piloted by Don Lewis.

Others who will tote 120 pounds include William A. Toski's Rulers Mistress, Sarival Farms' Capetown and Hoss Inman and Bud Ogden's Cornish Sister.

Capetown and Cornish Sister both finished well behind Miss Spy Song on May 5 with Capetown placing fourth — 7½ lengths back and Cornish Sister finishing sixth — 8½ lengths behind.

Capetown will be driven by Basil Frazier while Cornish Sister will be guided by Ak-Sar-Ben's leading jockey J. L. Lively. Rulers Mistress will be steered by familiar Ak performer Don Macbeth.

American Martini, owned and trained by T. F. Russell Jr. of Dallas and O. D. Hare's Goyama's Star both get in at 118 pounds. Goyama's Star scored one of the season's biggest upsets in racing to a 1½-length victory in an allowance chase last Thursday and returning $55.40.

Goyama's Star will be ridden by Ak's only female jockey — Penny Gardiner.

Quiet Smile, with Jerry Engle aboard, gets in at low weight of 116 pounds.

At Ak-Sar-Ben Wednesday, Swift Capture raced to his second Ak victory by clipping nine other 3-year-olds and up in the featured seventh race.

Ridden by Wayne Anderson, the 4-year-old brown colt scampered around the mile and 70-yard course in 1:42 3-5 for the $7,000 allowance race.

Swift Capture returned $6.40, $3.80 and $3.00, while Champagne Kid, ridden by Don Lewis, placed for $4.40 and $3.00 and Navareigh, piloted by Terry Barnes, showed for $3.40.

Congratulations Due To NP

Congratulations are due to coach Darrell Hildebrand and his North Platte Junior College track team.

Hildebrand, in his seventh year at the North Platte school, guided the Knights to fourth place in the National Junior College meet over the weekend.

North Platte had three national champions — Karl Webb, Bruce Borden and Ralph Fischer — who scored 38 points. Webb, a freshman from Omaha, was the most versatile in winning the 220, placing third in the 100 and fifth in the triple jump.

Despite many lucrative offers Hildebrand says Webb indicated he'll stay at North Platte for another year and then wants to come to Nebraska.

Borden, a sophomore, won the discus after not placing in the shot put while Fischer, a freshman, won the 120-yard high hurdles by a half-second over second place.

Success is no stranger to Hildebrand as the Knights won the Nebraska Junior College Conference, Empire Conference and Region 9 meets this year. His teams have won the NJCC title four times.

Bean Good Recruiter

The Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference track coaches feel the main reason Jerry Bean has been so successful at Hastings College is his ability to recruit.

"Jerry was able to go out and get good athletes," Nebraska Wesleyan's Woody Greeno says. "He started with almost a nonexistent program and had a powerhouse this year," Doane's Fred Beile adds.

Besides taking a bleak program at Hastings and building it up, Bean also started the Bronco Relays which is now known as one of the top meets for high schools and colleges.

Beile and Greeno say they will miss the mod-style Bean in the NIAC conference and his competitive teams. The Broncos won the NIAC this year.

"I tried to get the team to peak for the conference meet this year," Bean said, "Last year I felt we peaked too early and it hurt us at the conference meet."

Bean, 32, will take over a highly successful program at Western Kentucky on June 15 and has already been busy in recruiting prospective athletes.

Cloeter Adds Honor

Concordia freshman Dan Cloeter has been awarded another honor by the Seward school.

He was voted the most valuable member of the Bulldog track team. So far Cloeter has school records in the mile, three-mile and six-mile.

Last fall Cloeter was picked most valuable for the cross country team and led the Bulldogs to second place at the NIAC meet by winning the individual title. Rich Bergt was voted most improved on the Concordia track team and set a school record in the 880 with a 1:54.6.

Last week the Bulldogs won the Tri-State Conference track title in their last year in the conference. Next year Concordia will only compete in the NIAC.

Three other athletes were honored as most valuable in golf, baseball and tennis for Concordia. There are Ken Krause in golf, Mike Teuscher in baseball and Rick Herzog in tennis.

The Bulldogs' Lou Seddelmeyer was named the most improved golfer.

Concordia, after winning the NIAC football crown and the improvement shown in other sports, has been the most pleasant surprise in the NAIC this year according to conference coaches. And the Seward school's coaches are looking forward to a better year with underclassmen dominating the athletic teams.

Same Day Telecast Set For Indianapolis 500

New York (UPI) — The auto race has been with us in one form or another ever since man wedded the wheel to gasoline, and it has always been a popular spectator sport, but network home television has given it a phenomenal boost in recent years.

Video coverage, live or on delayed tape, of races in various parts of the world has increased steadily both as to the number of events and the air time allotted to them.

This Saturday, for the first time, the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Speedway, a Memorial Day perennial, will be available on the home screen the same day the contest is held.

The American Broadcasting Co. which is the leader in covering auto races, will record the event on tape as it is run and then put an edited two-hour version on the network at 8:30 p.m. Saturday. The race takes a little over three hours.

In recent years, the race has been available live on closed-circuit, paid, theater television, but that is not being done this year.

"In general, auto racing has been one of the most difficult sports to cover on television," said Chuck Howard, vice president in charge of program production for ABC sports and producer of the Indianapolis event.

"To show the full scope of the racing action, it has become necessary at some point to sacrifice the feeling of speed. When we do capture this speed sensation, using low cameras focused on a car or two whipping around a turn, it is possible for the viewer at home to become disoriented and miss for a time the main storyline of the race.

"For instance, I doubt the viewer would forgive us if we showed him a dramatic speed shot and caused him to miss the pass for first place."

More cameras, possibly 13, will be used at the Indianapolis event than have been employed by ABC in covering any other race, Howard said.

"Because of the unusual layout of the speedway," he said "it is impossible, for instance, even for a spectator in the best seat to see everything taking place on the track. So, more cameras.

"And to do the best possible job, we will have special reporters at each turn who are equipped to give first-hand commentaries immediately should anything unusual take place in their areas."

ABC's first racing telecast was on its Saturday "Wide World of Sports" program on May 27, 1961, when it showed some time trials for that year's Indianapolis 500. "Wide World" carried two other auto events that year, including France's Le Mans Grand Prix.

In the first five months of 1971, "Wide World" has presented 12 auto competitions, three of them live, and, in addition, ABC has televised Sunday races in three cities.

An ABC sports spokesman said that some 215 stations have been lined up for the Indianapolis telecast, a record for any of that network's prime-time sports specials. The National Basketball Association's championship playoffs this year, for example, went to about 185 stations.

Should weather prevent the Indianapolis race on Saturday, it will be run Sunday and ABC's program will be on at 8:30 p.m. that day.

HILL SET TO APPEAL FINE

Golfer Hints Possible Suit

. . . ATTORNEYS CONSULTED

Memphis, Tenn. (AP) — Dave Hill reluctantly paid a $500 fine Wednesday, planned an appeal and his attorneys even hinted at the possibility of a suit against the Tournament Players Division of the Professional Golfers Association.

Legal action "has been discussed," Hill's attorney, John P. Colton of Memphis admitted under questioning.

First, however, the oft-fined and sometimes-suspended Hill planned to appeal the fine to the policy board of the Tournament Players Division at the Board's regularly scheduled meeting in Atlanta next week.

The fine was assessed for "conduct unbecoming a professional golfer," TPD spokesman Ron Coffman said. It concerned Hill's actions during the second round of last week's Colonial National Invitation tournament at Fort Worth.

Hill, playing poorly that day, threw his ball out of a sand trap on the 18th hole and purposely signed an incorrect scorecard. He was disqualified on the spot and early this week was informed he had been fined.

Coffman said the fine was larger than usual "because Mr. Hill is not a first-time offender."

Hill, winner of the title in three of the last four Danny Thomas Memphis Classics, was told he must pay the fine before teeing off in the pro-am event Wednesday or he would not be allowed to compete in the event which starts today.

He met with a battery of attorneys and his agent, Ed Barner, for several hours, marched to the tee and handed the check to TPD official Gordy Glenz. He said nothing, and quickly turned his back on the official.

"I'm paying the fine because I wouldn't want to do anything to hurt the tournament," he said.

"But we're not through with this," he continued. "We're gonna have a lot of fun. They've messed with old Davey for the last time. It's going to cost me a lot of money, maybe, but I'll spend every quarter I have to prove that the Constitution of the United States covers everybody," he said.

Hill, center of a number of major controversies, in recent years, including his highly-publicized criticism of the United States Open course at Chaska, Minn., last year, said he was basing his appeal on three major points:

"I've had a lot of fines, but they've never once put anything in writing," he said.

"But if I want to appeal I've got to put it in writing. I've got to appeal in writing and I don't even know what I'm charged with. I want to see it in writing what that 'conduct unbecoming' means. As far as I know if they don't like the way I comb my hair they can fine me.

"Every man should have the right to play or not to play as he sees fit. If I'm playing bad I ought to be able to pick it up. I should be able to go to the sponsor and say 'I'm sick. I'm sick of hitting it.

"But their rules force me to lie. I've got to lie to the sponsor and tell him I'm really sick. That's not right. God's laws were here before man's laws and they're forcing me to break God's law and die.

"And the fines ought to be the same for everybody, no matter who he is or how he's playing. They ought to be the same. Not one thing for me and another for someone else."

Gross' Trophy Case No Longer Vacant

. . . OMAHA CLUB SNARES PREP 'B' BASEBALL TITLE

By DAVE WALLNER
Star Sports Writer

Wipe off the showcase dust, friend, Omaha Gross has won a trophy.

Gross leaped two hurdles Wednesday in winning the State Class B high school baseball tournament on the NU diamond and bringing home its premier first-place sports award in three years of effort.

Coach Stan Macaitis' Cougars knocked off Superior, 6-3, in the first round before coming back for a 3-0 title triumph over Centennial, which had ousted defending king Wayne, 4-1, in its first outing.

Joe Stanek, a skinny kid with a snappy curveball, carried the load in the championship. Stanek fanned ten, walked just one and held Centennial to four scattered singles.

Gross' low-scoring success was typical of the three-game event — a pitcher's paradise which yielded just 24 hits and only one extra-base rap.

Stanek had hurled a ten strikeout, no-hit performance in the district finals and started the day off in like fashion by whiffing Centennial's Jack Miller.

But Centennial quickly killed any dream that Stanek might have had of another no-hitter with singles in the first by Ron Luth and Mike Geis.

But from then on the 6-3 sophomore was in supreme command. He ran off a string of four straight strikeouts over the second and third innings and didn't give up another hit until the fourth.

"I was a little nervous at first because of the state competition," Stanek explained after his fourth win of the year. "But I settled down and tried to challenge the hitters. I look at batters as enemies of mine and I'm not going to let them cross my territory, the plate."

And Wednesday, the enemy never even got close.

His mates, while managing only five hits off the Broncos' Dennis Morner, displayed the most consistant fielding of the day and bailed Stanek out on the few occasions when he needed such assistance.

Gross picked up single runs in the second, third and fourth to give the righthander everything he needed in the way of runs.

Jerry Jaksich led off the second with a poke-single to right before being forced by Ed Kresl. Kresl stole second and advanced to third on a wild pitch. Dan Gillispie then rolled a slow bouncer to second and Kresl beat the throw to the plate.

The Cougars added another in the third on a walk, a single by Lou Kresl, a double steal and a sacrifice fly to center by Jaksich.

The final run scored with two outs as Tom Riha lashed a single to center that got by Miller for an added two bases. After Stanek walked, Gross got away with what looked like an unintentional double steal in slow motion. Stanek headed for second, almost nonchalantly, drew a throw from Morner to second and a return toss to first and made it in safely while Riha sneaked home.

Macaitis cited solid pitching and improved defense over the last half of the season as the keys to opening the championship door.

"The kids really wanted this," Macaitis said, "and I don't think anybody could have taken it from them."

With a team that lacks a senior on its roster, that one trophy may not be single for long.

The Associated Press had learned earlier in the day that the match would be made for sometime this summer.

No successor at Creighton has been named.

Stander Matched With Patterson?

Omaha (AP) — The Cornhusker Boxing Club is going to try to sign Floyd Patterson Thursday as an opponent for Ron Stander of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Stander's manager, Dick Noland, said plans are to get Patterson to Omaha Aug. 31. Noland said the appearance of the former world's champion would cost about $15,000.

Stander knocked out Lee Carr in the Omaha City Auditorium Monday night to make his record 18-0-1.

Miss Spy Song Seeking First Ak Triumph

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Miss Spy Song seeks to make amends today for her previous non-winning Ak-Sar-Ben appearances.

The 3-year-old pride of Rex Ekwall and Don Clugston of Millard is set to compete against seven 3-year-old fillies at Ak-Sar-Ben in the first running of the $10,000 added Princess Stakes.

After winning her first two starts of the year at Fonner Park, Miss Spy Song was beaten by six lengths by Joey Bob in the second division of the Ak Inaugural Handicap. She then was edged by Pelani by three lengths in an allowance test on May 5.

While those chases were 5½-furlongs, the Princess is set for 6 furlongs. Miss Spy Song will carry top weight of 122 pounds and regular rider Ken Jones.

Pelani, who zipped past Miss Spy Song in that $5,500 allowance race just over three weeks ago will carry second top weight of 120 pounds as will three others. Trained by J. Hughes and owned by the Monaghan Farms, Inc. of Denver, Pelani will be piloted by Don Lewis.

Others who will tote 120 pounds include William A. Toski's Rulers Mistress, Sarival Farms' Capetown and Hoss Inman and Bud Ogden's Cornish Sister.

Capetown and Cornish Sister both finished well behind Miss Spy Song on May 5 with Capetown placing fourth — 7½ lengths back and Cornish Sister finishing sixth — 8½ lengths behind.

Capetown will be driven by Basil Frazier while Cornish Sister will be guided by Ak-Sar-Ben's leading jockey J. L. Lively. Rulers Mistress will be steered by familiar Ak performer Don Macbeth.

American Martini, owned and trained by T. F. Russell Jr. of Dallas and O. D. Hare's Goyama's Star both get in at 118 pounds. Goyama's Star scored one of the season's biggest upsets in racing to a 1½-length victory in an allowance chase last Thursday and returning $55.40.

Goyama's Star will be ridden by Ak's only female jockey — Penny Gardiner.

Quiet Smile, with Jerry Engle aboard, gets in at low weight of 116 pounds.

At Ak-Sar-Ben Wednesday, Swift Capture raced to his second Ak victory by clipping nine other 3-year-olds and up in the featured seventh race.

Ridden by Wayne Anderson, the 4-year-old brown colt scampered around the mile and 70-yard course in 1:43 3-5 for the $7,000 allowance race.

Swift Capture returned $6.40, $3.80 and $3.00, while Champagne Kid, ridden by Don Lewis, placed for $4.40 and $3.00 and Navareigh, piloted by Terry Barnes, showed for $3.40.

Mets Tumble From Top Spot

. . . CARDINALS IN FIRST

By Associated Press

The St. Louis Cardinals, despite six straight defeats by the New York Mets this season, supplanted the Mets in first place in the National League East Wednesday night.

This unusual happening in major league baseball came about when Philadelphia rallied to edge the Mets, 3-2, in 12 innings and St. Louis whipped the Chicago Cubs, 9-4.

The Cardinals now have a won-lost record of 27-17 for .614 compared to the Mets' 25-16 for .610.

With Gary Gentry working on a one-hitter and only one strike away from victory, the Phils rallied to tie the score at 2-2 in the ninth, then defeat the Mets in the 12th on Larry Bowa's RBI single.

A two-run single by Julian Javier and Jerry McNerty's two-run homer gave the Cards four runs in the seventh to down the Cubs.

In other National League action Montreal bombed Atlanta, 11-1 and Pittsburgh blanked Cincinnati, 2-0.

Houston nipped San Diego, 2-1, in the first of a doubleheader.

In the American League, Boston edged Washington, 3-2; Baltimore slipped by Cleveland, 3-2; New York stopped Detroit, 2-1; Chicago hit Kansas City, 7-2 and Minnesota clipped Milwaukee, 4-1.

California was at Oakland in a late West coast game.

And San Francisco was at Los Angeles also on a late West coast contest.

Trainer Neloy Dies

New York (AP) — Trainer Eddie Neloy, a key figure in the Phipps family's thoroughbred racing empire, died Wednesday at Belmont Park of an apparent heart attack.

Neloy had complained of chest and arm pains and was being examined by Dr. John J. McKenna at the track's first aid room when he collapsed and was pronounced dead. He was 50.

Neloy trained horses for the Wheatley Stable of the late Mrs. H. C. Phipps; her son, Ogden, and her grandson, Ogden M., a job he took in 1965.

His greatest year was in 1966 when Buckpasser was voted horse of the year and Successor was named the 2-year-old champion. That year Neloy saddled 93 winners from 282 starters and his horses earned $2,456,250, a record for a trainer.

Neloy's greatest horse was Buckpasser, winner of 25 of 31 races and $1,462,000. He was syndicated for stud for $4.8 million.

He also trained Gun Bow for Gedney Farm. Gun Bow was the leading money winner of 1964.

Saldana Set For Knoxville

Knoxville, Iowa — Former Lincoln driver Joe Saldana, an ex-national super modified racing champion who has invaded the big-time of USAC sprint car racing, will compete June 5.

Saldana will match driving skills with such USAC standouts as Gary Bettenhausen and Larry Dickson, who have dominated the sprint car picture for the last three years.

They will highlight a seven-event program topped by a 40-lap feature on the half-mile dirt oval.

In time trials, drivers will be shooting for the track record of 20.66 seconds established by Greg Weld in 1968.

King And Court To Play Regardless Rain, Shine

There will be no rainchecks Saturday night at Sherman Field when Eddie Feigner's famed King and His Court softball team plays local Triple A powerhouse KOLN-KGIN-TV.

There won't be a need for any because the game will go on rain or shine. Feigner's four-man troupe isn't about to let his fans down because of a little rain and Feigner's philosophy is that as long as the fans are protected from the elements, the show will go on.

Tickets for the game, which is scheduled for 9 p.m. following a contest between King's, last year's Lincoln City champion, and Kearney, the 1970 State titleholder, are now on sale at Russell Sporting Goods in Lincoln.

Bucks Rehire Costello, Dallas Grabs Nissalke

Milwaukee (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks announced Wednesday that Larry Costello, who coachhed the expansion team to the National Basketball Association championship this past season, has signed a new three-year contract.

President Ray Patterson also announced that Tom Nissalke, assistant coach, had accepted the post of head coach of the Texas Chaparrals of the American Basketball Association. He said Nissalke would not be replaced and the Bucks will continue without an assistant coach.

Mets Tumble From Top Spot

. . . CARDINALS IN FIRST

By Associated Press

The St. Louis Cardinals, despite six straight defeats by the New York Mets this season, supplanted the Mets in first place in the National League East Wednesday night.

This unusual happening in major league baseball came about when Philadelphia rallied to edge the Mets, 3-2, in 12 innings and St. Louis whipped the Chicago Cubs, 9-4.

The Cardinals now have a won-lost record of 27-17 for .614 compared to the Mets' 25-16 for .610.

With Gary Gentry working on a one-hitter and only one strike away from victory, the Phils rallied to tie the score at 2-2 in the ninth, then defeat the Mets in the 12th on Larry Bowa's RBI single.

A two-run single by Julian Javier and Jerry McNerty's two-run homer gave the Cards four runs in the seventh to down the Cubs.

In other National League action Montreal bombed Atlanta, 11-1 and Pittsburgh blanked Cincinnati, 2-0.

Houston nipped San Diego, 2-1, in the first of a doubleheader.

In the American League, Boston edged Washington, 3-2; Baltimore slipped by Cleveland, 3-2; New York stopped Detroit, 2-1; Chicago hit Kansas City, 7-2 and Minnesota clipped Milwaukee, 4-1.

California was at Oakland in a late West coast game.

And San Francisco was at Los Angeles also on a late West coast contest.

Trainer Neloy Dies

New York (AP) — Trainer Eddie Neloy, a key figure in the Phipps family's thoroughbred racing empire, died Wednesday at Belmont Park of an apparent heart attack.

Neloy had complained of chest and arm pains and was being examined by Dr. John J. McKenna at the track's first aid room when he collapsed and was pronounced dead. He was 50.

Neloy trained horses for the Wheatley Stable of the late Mrs. H. C. Phipps; her son, Ogden, and her grandson, Ogden M., a job he took in 1965.

His greatest year was in 1966 when Buckpasser was voted horse of the year and Successor was named the 2-year-old champion. That year Neloy saddled 93 winners from 282 starters and his horses earned $2,456,250, a record for a trainer.

Neloy's greatest horse was Buckpasser, winner of 25 of 31 races and $1,462,000. He was syndicated for stud for $4.8 million.

He also trained Gun Bow for Gedney Farm. Gun Bow was the leading money winner of 1964.

Saldana Set For Knoxville

Knoxville, Iowa — Former Lincoln driver Joe Saldana, an ex-national super modified racing champion who has invaded the big-time of USAC sprint car racing, will compete June 5.

Saldana will match driving skills with such USAC standouts as Gary Bettenhausen and Larry Dickson, who have dominated the sprint car picture for the last three years.

They will highlight a seven-event program topped by a 40-lap feature on the half-mile dirt oval.

In time trials, drivers will be shooting for the track record of 20.66 seconds established by Greg Weld in 1968.

King And Court To Play Regardless Rain, Shine

There will be no rainchecks Saturday night at Sherman Field when Eddie Feigner's famed King and His Court softball team plays local Triple A powerhouse KOLN-KGIN-TV.

There won't be a need for any because the game will go on rain or shine. Feigner's four-man troupe isn't about to let his fans down because of a little rain and Feigner's philosophy is that as long as the fans are protected from the elements, the show will go on.

Tickets for the game, which is scheduled for 9 p.m. following a contest between King's, last year's Lincoln City champion, and Kearney, the 1970 State titleholder, are now on sale at Russell Sporting Goods in Lincoln.

Bucks Rehire Costello, Dallas Grabs Nissalke

Milwaukee (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks announced Wednesday that Larry Costello, who coachhed the expansion team to the National Basketball Association championship this past season, has signed a new three-year contract.

President Ray Patterson also announced that Tom Nissalke, assistant coach, had accepted the post of head coach of the Texas Chaparrals of the American Basketball Association. He said Nissalke would not be replaced and the Bucks will continue without an assistant coach.

NFL Makes Rule Change

. . . BALL POSSESSION PLAY

New York (AP) — National Football League owners adopted Wednesday a "clean hands" rule involving penalties called during a play in which possession of the ball changes from one team to another.

Under the old rule, if a team intercepted a pass or recovered a fumble and offsetting fouls were committed on the same play after the interception or fumble the play was nullified.

The owners felt that penalized a club which made an interception or fumble with "clean hands" up to the time they actually gained possession of the ball. Under the new interpretation they will retain possession even if penalties are incurred after the ball changes hands.

In an afternoon session the owners decided on two other rules changes.

One will permit attempted field goals to be run out of the end zone. In the other offensive fouls such as holding, clipping and illegal use of the hands, each 15 yards will be marked off from the line of scrimmage rather than from the point of the foul.

The owners also changed several of the methods involved in breaking ties in determining playoff spots. There are now six instead of five. Two rating systems were added and eliminated was a provision that said the last team to qualify couldn't go.

Trailer Camping For Two Rivers Area To Reopen

Two Rivers State Recreation Area's trailer camping, south of the administration building, will reopen to public use on Friday, according to Willard Barbee, director of the Game and Parks Commission.

Portions of Two Rivers were closed due to spring flood damage. However, repairs on interior roads and parking areas are being made and will be completed in the near future. Because of this work, the north and west camping areas will remain closed until further notice.

There are only 23 sites at the trailer area, and campers must register at the park office. Space will be available on a first-come, first-served basis.

The put-and-take trout lake and other fishing lakes have been open to public access for fishing since April 1, in spite of flood-damaged roads and parking areas. A day-use area, located south of the administration building adjacent to the swimming area and camping pads, is also open mainly for picnicking.

The swimming area and bathhouses there will open on June 10.

Commission Set To Tour Office

The Game Commission announced Tuesday it will meet June 3 to tour the agency's new wildlife laboratory and nearly-completed headquarters building in Lincoln.

The new facility will consolidate commission staff workers which have been operating from five different offices in the city.

Commissioners also will meet with Information and Tourism Division personnel to discuss 1971 nonresident hunter promotions and Nebraska's participation in the Discover America "Man and His World" exhibition in Montreal this summer.

Anderson To Coach Cagers From Peru

Scottsbluff — Forddy Anderson, whose Hiram Scott College coaching career was ended when the school eliminated athletics, has accepted an invitation to coach the Peruvian basketball team for the Pan American Games this summer.

Anderson had coached the Peruvian team in the South American tournament in March.

Doane Athletes Receive Honors

Crete — Three Doane College athletes, James Katzmann, Burrell Williams and Richard Zenger, have claimed coveted awards for the 1970-71 school year.

Katzmann is the recipient of the Bert Knapp Trophy, established in 1940 by the late H. S. Knapp of Lincoln and awarded annually to a Doane football player who maintains the highest scholarship.

Williams and Zenger were awarded Sanderson prizes, cash awards for achievements in athletics and scholarship.

Williams and Zenger each share in three school relay records and claim one individual record. The Sanderson prizes were established in 1931 by Mr. and Mrs. Sewall Sanderson of Lincoln.

Pan American To CWS, Eliminates Texas

Kansas City — Pan American, avenging two previous playoff losses to teams in 1968 and 1970, downed Texas by posting back-to-back shoutout victories, 1-0, 4-0 last weekend.

The whitewash of the Longhorns wrapped up the District Six title for the Broncs and will send them to Omaha as the first qualifier for the 25th College World Series June 11-17.

Michigan State, Ohio University, Iowa State, and Southern California, the 1970 National Collegiate champion, won their respective conference championships last weekend to win automatic bids to the district playoffs.

All bids for the district playoff phase of the National Collegiate Baseball Championship have been extended, and now seven qualifiers still are to be determined to join Pan American for the College World Series. The district playoffs shape up like this:

District One — Massachusetts (20-6), winner of the Yankee Conference, will play at Harvard (23-6), the Eastern Intercollegiate pennant winner, in a best of three series. A doubleheader is scheduled May 30th, with a single game, if necessary, on May 31.

District Two — St. Joseph's (17-5), Middle Atlantic winner, will meet at-large qualifiers Seton Hall (14-12), Penn State (13-4) and Buffalo (17-5) at Princeton May 27-28-29.

District Three — Maryland (15-8), Atlantic Coast Conference champion, Mississippi State (29-9), winner of an at-large berth by virtue of its title in the Southeastern Conference, Miami (34-9), and Georgia Tech (27-2) will decide the area's representative to Omaha.

District Four — Michigan State (34-8), Big Ten winners, will host Ohio University (29-5), which edged out Miami (O.) for the Mid-American title. Southern Illinois (31-4), and Cincinnati (22-14) May 27-30.

District Five — Iowa State (17-12) swept a doubleheader from Nebraska last Sunday to grab the Big Eight crown from Colorado and Oklahoma and put them against Tulsa (30-10) for the District Five title. The best two-out-of-three series will be played at Tulsa June 3-4.

District Six — Pan American (42-7) has qualified.

District Seven —Gonzaga has won the Big Sky and is waiting to meet the Western Athletic Conference winner which will be determined this weekend. Arizona State (49-11) will host Brigham Young (27-11) to decide the WAC representative. If Arizona State wins, Gonzaga will play at Mesa, Arizona, June 3-4. If Brigham Young wins, Gonzaga will travel to Provo, Utah, to play June 4-5.

District Eight — Southern Cal (49-10) won the Pacific-8 playoff last week, and will play Santa Clara (40-10) May 29-30 in a best two-out-of-three, probably on a home-and-home basis. Santa Clara defeated San Jose last weekend to earn the right to play the Trojans.

Pan American To CWS, Eliminates Texas

Kansas City — Pan American, avenging two previous playoff losses to teams in 1968 and 1970, downed Texas by posting back-to-back shoutout victories, 1-0, 4-0 last weekend.

The whitewash of the Longhorns wrapped up the District Six title for the Broncs and will send them to Omaha as the first qualifier for the 25th College World Series June 11-17.

Michigan State, Ohio University, Iowa State, and Southern California, the 1970 National Collegiate champion, won their respective conference championships last weekend to win automatic bids to the district playoffs.

All bids for the district playoff phase of the National Collegiate Baseball Championship have been extended, and now seven qualifiers still are to be determined to join Pan American for the College World Series. The district playoffs shape up like this:

District One — Massachusetts (20-6), winner of the Yankee Conference, will play at Harvard (23-6), the Eastern Intercollegiate pennant winner, in a best of three series. A doubleheader is scheduled May 30th, with a single game, if necessary, on May 31.

District Two — St. Joseph's (17-5), Middle Atlantic winner, will meet at-large qualifiers Seton Hall (14-12), Penn State (13-4) and Buffalo (17-5) at Princeton May 27-28-29.

District Three — Maryland (15-8), Atlantic Coast Conference champion, Mississippi State (29-9), winner of an at-large berth by virtue of its title in the Southeastern Conference, Miami (34-9), and Georgia Tech (27-2) will decide the area's representative to Omaha.

District Four — Michigan State (36-8), Big Ten winners, will host Ohio University (29-5), which edged out Miami (O.) for the Mid-American title, Southern Illinois (31-6), and Cincinnati (22-14) May 27-30.

District Five — Iowa State (17-12) swept a doubleheader from Nebraska last Sunday to grab the Big Eight crown from Colorado and Oklahoma and put them against Tulsa (30-10) for the District Five title. The best two-out-of-three series will be played at Tulsa June 3-4.

District Six — Pan American (42-7) has qualified.

District Seven —Gonzaga has won the Big Sky and is waiting to meet the Western Athletic Conference winner which will be determined this weekend. Arizona State (49-11) will host Brigham Young (27-11) to decide the WAC representative. If Arizona State wins, Gonzaga will play at Mesa, Arizona, June 3-4. If Brigham Young wins, Gonzaga will travel to Provo, Utah, to play June 4-5.

District Eight — Southern Cal (49-10) won the Pacific-8 playoff last week, and will play Santa Clara (40-10) May 29-30 in a best two-out-of-three, probably on a home-and-home basis. Santa Clara defeated San Jose last weekend to earn the right to play the Trojans.

Lincoln General Patients Averaging Shorter Stay

Lincoln General Hospital Administrator Robert Brungard said Wednesday the average length of stay for patients dropped significantly last month.

In a report at the monthly meeting of the board of trustees, Brungard said the average stay in April was 6.9 days compared with 7.2 days last April and an average of 7.4 all last year.

At the same time, he said, the average stay for Medicare patients dropped from 12.8 a year ago to 11.4 this year.

That "is substantially below the national average of 12.5 to 14 days," he said.

Brungard called both a "good sign," adding he believes the decreases are the result of efforts by the hospital and its physicians to reduce the average stays.

Holding patients longer than necessary is often cited as a factor in increasing costs to patients, he noted, and he said work by hospital utilization review committees appears to be paying off.

Brungard said Medicare occupancy had dropped from 42% to 36% of the total number of occupied beds during the month of April.

Brungard also theorized that the larger deductions allowed Medicare patients may be a factor in the drop in length of stay.

Total admissions of all patients remained about the same recently, Brungard said, although length of stay dropped.

The average daily occupancy for April was 187, compared with 198 last year in April. The high rate last year was probably influenced by the fact that St. Elizabeth Health Center was reducing its occupancy to facilitate the move to the new building in east Lincoln, he said.

In other matters, the trustees were told that the bid opening date for the fifth floor expansion had been changed to June 3 at 2 p.m.

Indian Center Will Announce New Director

The Indian Center Inc.'s new nine-member decision-making ad hoc committee expects to announce a new executive director for the center by the end of this week.

Frank L. Phillips of the Omaha Tribe, chairman of the new committee, said the group is deliberating between three candidates for the director position.

The new executive director will replace Ralph Ware, who resigned in early April.

Other members of the committee and their tribes are Charles Archambault, Sioux, vice chairman; Harlan Chamberlain, Winnebago, secretary; Herman Haukass, Sioux, treasurer; Mae Fern Scott, Sioux; Ray Phillips, Omaha; Mitchell Chunestudy, Cherokee; Alice Saunsoci, Omaha, and Vincent Washington, Arapahoe.

These committee members will serve until the second Tuesday in September when Indian members of the center will elect a new board.

Lincolnite Faces Motor Vehicle Homicide Charge

A Lincoln man was charged Wednesday with a misdemeanor offense of motor vehicle homicide in connection with a motorcycle-dump truck accident April 29 at the intersection of 11th and Cornhusker.

Alvin R. Jensen, 42, of 7025 Platte, pleaded innocent to the charge filed in connection with the death of 35-year-old William E. Henson.

Judge Ralph Slocum set trial for July 14 and bond was set at $300.

According to reports, at the time of the accident, a dump truck driven by Jensen was eastbound on Cornhusker and the motorcycle on which Henson and his two children were riding was northbound on 11th.

Wardell Moore Given Sentences Of 3-5 Years

Wardell Moore was sentenced Wednesday to two terms of from three to five years in the Nebraska Penal Complex on felony charges of assault and battery.

Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele ordered that the terms run concurrently to each other.

Moore, who is presently serving a one-year sentence in connection with assaulting and resisting an officer more than a year ago, had pleaded guilty to the felony charges last October.

Moore had specifically pleaded guilty to assaulting with intent to inflict great bodily injury on Jim Langley July 16, 1970, and John Pitts, May 27, 1970.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING

The Lancaster County Board of Commissioners have set June 1, 1971 at 10:00 a.m. in the Commissioner's Hearing Room in the County-City Building as the time and place of a public hearing to consider a supplemental budget for the Lancaster County Medical Fund Budget.

The Public Hearing is for the purpose of increasing the County Medical Budget for the Fiscal Year 1970-1971 from $530,000.00 to $665,000.00 or the amount of $125,000.00.

The reason for the increase is that an emergency exists because of unanticipated requirements from the unforseeable influx of worthy incapacitated and indigent persons requiring the use of County Medical funds, and because of the unanticipated increase in costs for such purposes, and in order to meet the aforesaid emergency and to preserve and maintain within the County the administration of justice, public safety, public welfare and public health.

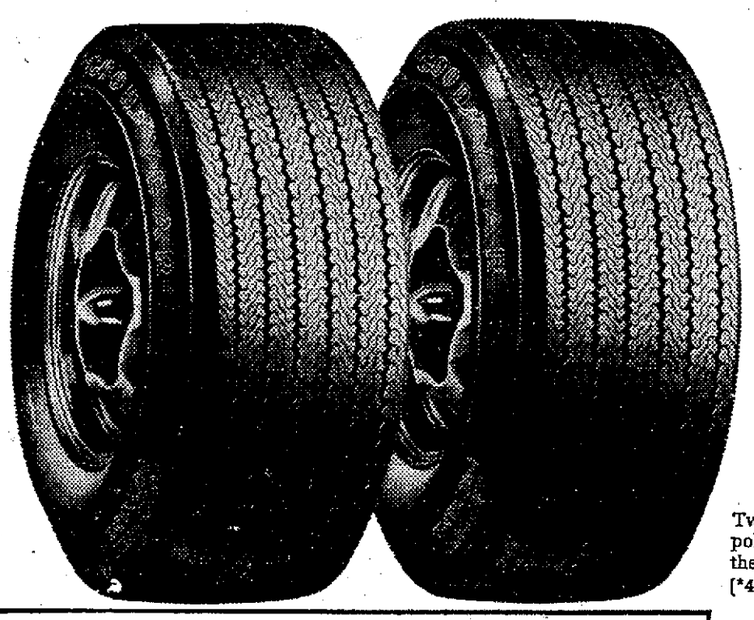

The County Medical Budget for this Fiscal Year was based on medical costs for the previous Fiscal Year. Medical costs have increased continuously during the present Fiscal Year. Medical costs cannot be reduced because the Statutes require the County to pay 20% of all medical costs. Medical costs are fixed costs in which the County is obligated to pay 20% for all claims processed by the State for Lancaster County.

Lincoln General Patients Averaging Shorter Stay

Lincoln General Hospital Administrator Robert Brungard said Wednesday the average length of stay for patients dropped significantly last month.

In a report at the monthly meeting of the board of trustees, Brungard said the average stay in April was 6.9 days compared with 7.2 days last April and an average of 7.4 all last year.

At the same time, he said, the average stay for Medicare patients dropped from 12.8 a year ago to 11.4 this year.

That "is substantially below the national average of 12.5 to 14 days," he said.

Brungard called both a "good sign," adding he believes the decreases are the result of efforts by the hospital and its physicians to reduce the average stays.

Holding patients longer than necessary is often cited as a factor in increasing costs to patients, he noted, and he said work by hospital utilization review committees appears to be paying off.

Brungard said Medicare occupancy had dropped from 42% to 36% of the total number of occupied beds during the month of April.

Brungard also theorized that the larger deductions allowed Medicare patients may be a factor in the drop in length of stay.

Total admissions of all patients remained about the same recently, Brungard said, although length of stay dropped.

The average daily occupancy for April was 187, compared with 198 last year in April. The high rate last year was probably influenced by the fact that St. Elizabeth Health Center was reducing its occupancy to facilitate the move to the new building in east Lincoln, he said.

In other matters, the trustees were told that the bid opening date for the fifth floor expansion had been changed to June 3 at 2 p.m.

Indian Center Will Announce New Director

The Indian Center Inc.'s new nine-member decision-making ad hoc committee expects to announce a new executive director for the center by the end of this week.

Frank L. Phillips of the Omaha Tribe, chairman of the new committee, said the group is deliberating between three candidates for the director position.

The new executive director will replace Ralph Ware, who resigned in early April.

Other members of the committee and their tribes are Charles Archambault, Sioux, vice chairman; Harlan Chamberlain, Winnebago, secretary; Herman Haukass, Sioux, treasurer; Mae Fern Scott, Sioux; Ray Phillips, Omaha; Mitchell Chunestudy, Cherokee; Alice Saunsoci, Omaha, and Vincent Washington, Arapahoe.

These committee members will serve until the second Tuesday in September when Indian members of the center will elect a new board.

Lincolnite Faces Motor Vehicle Homicide Charge

A Lincoln man was charged Wednesday with a misdemeanor offense of motor vehicle homicide in connection with a motorcycle-dump truck accident April 29 at the intersection of 11th and Cornhusker.

Alvin R. Jensen, 42, of 7025 Platte, pleaded innocent to the charge filed in connection with the death of 35-year-old William E. Henson.

Judge Ralph Slocum set trial for July 14 and bond was set at $300.

According to reports, at the time of the accident, a dump truck driven by Jensen was eastbound on Cornhusker and the motorcycle on which Henson and his two children were riding was northbound on 11th.

Wardell Moore Given Sentences Of 3-5 Years

Wardell Moore was sentenced Wednesday to two terms of from three to five years in the Nebraska Penal Complex on felony charges of assault and battery.

Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele ordered that the terms run concurrently to each other.

Moore, who is presently serving a one-year sentence in connection with assaulting and resisting an officer more than a year ago, had pleaded guilty to the felony charges last October.

Moore had specifically pleaded guilty to assaulting with intent to inflict great bodily injury on Jim Langley July 16, 1970, and John Pitts, May 27, 1970.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING

The Lancaster County Board of Commissioners have set June 1, 1971 at 10:00 a.m. in the Commissioner's Hearing Room in the County-City Building as the time and place of a public hearing to consider a supplemental budget for the Lancaster County Medical Fund Budget.

The Public Hearing is for the purpose of increasing the County Medical Budget for the Fiscal Year 1970-1971 from $530,000.00 to $665,000.00 or the amount of $125,000.00.

The reason for the increase is that an emergency exists because of unanticipated requirements from the unforseeable influx of worthy incapacitated and indigent persons requiring the use of County Medical funds, and because of the unanticipated increase in costs for such purposes, and in order to meet the aforesaid emergency and to preserve and maintain within the County the administration of justice, public safety, public welfare and public health.

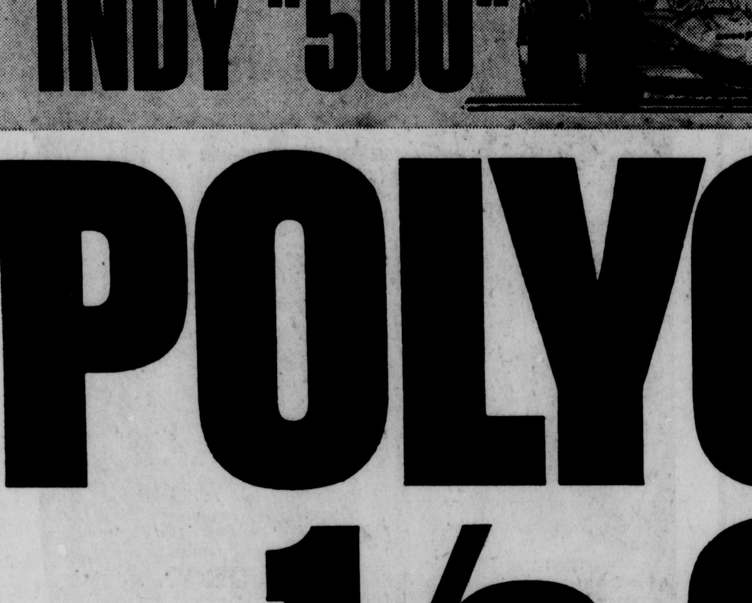

The County Medical Budget for this Fiscal Year was based on medical costs for the previous Fiscal Year. Medical costs have increased continuously during the present Fiscal Year. Medical costs cannot be reduced because the Statutes require the County to pay 20% of all medical costs. Medical costs are fixed costs in which the County is obligated to pay 20% for all claims processed by the State for Lancaster County.

Solon Says Black Mississippi Voters Purged

Washington (AP) — Black voters are being purged from the registration rolls in Mississippi in defiance of the Voting Rights Act and the Department of Justice, House investigators said Wednesday.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., presiding over House judiciary subcommittee hearings on enforcement of the Voting Rights Act, said in Jones County 34,000 voters have been taken off the rolls since March 1 and only 15,000 restored.

Among those removed, he said, were Negro voters registered by federal examiners under the Voting Rights Act, which applies to seven Southern states.

David L. Norman, acting head of the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, said the department had approved Jones County's re-registration plan but ordered that no voters registered by federal examiners be removed.

Norman, who earlier told the subcommittee the department is vigorously enforcing the Voting Rights Act, apparently was unaware that federally registered voters were being purged until Edwards told him.

Atty. Gen. A. F. Summer of Mississippi, who was not scheduled as a witness but appeared at the hearing and asked to testify, denied a purge of voters is taking place.

"The re-registration is a natural consequence of redistricting under the 1970 census rather than a conspiracy to purge voters," he said.

Topeka, Kan. (UPI) — Kansas Power and Light Co. started delivering its own inter-office mail. A stationwagon will be used to make the daily run over a 366-mile circuit starting in Topeka and going through nine other towns. The company hopes to beat the cost of increased postal rates.

Wells Fargo Told To Stop Handling Business Records

The State Railway Commission has ordered the Wells Fargo Armored Truck Service of Omaha to immediately stop transporting business records and audit media throughout the state, it was reported Wednesday.

The commission said the order was issued after a protest was filed by Bankers Dispatch, which is also a carrier specializing in transporting audit media and business records.

The protest, according to the commission, charged that Wells Fargo was transporting the items despite a state supreme court ruling in January which revoked the right which had been granted by the commission to serve all points in the state.

Wells Fargo has been granted permission to carry cash and business records in and around Douglas County by the commission. It also has permission to serve Grand Island and Bancroft, including points in between.

LRC Employes Are Invited To Union Meeting

A Lincoln Regional Center (LRC) employe said Wednesday that two meetings had been called Thursday to discuss the organization of a local union.

The employe said the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes AFL-CIO had granted a local union charter to the LRC employes.

The meetings will be at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. in room 102 of the Labor Temple at 4625 Y St.

A message to LRC's approximately 400 employes said, "Join your fellow workers who have been trying for many years to obtain better wages, fringe benefits and job security. Collective bargaining is the answer to our problem."

Solon Says Black Mississippi Voters Purged

Washington (AP) — Black voters are being purged from the registration rolls in Mississippi in defiance of the Voting Rights Act and the Department of Justice, House investigators said Wednesday.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., presiding over House judiciary subcommittee hearings on enforcement of the Voting Rights Act, said in Jones County 34,000 voters have been taken off the rolls since March 1 and only 15,000 restored.

Among those removed, he said, were Negro voters registered by federal examiners under the Voting Rights Act, which applies to seven Southern states.

David L. Norman, acting head of the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, said the department had approved Jones County's re-registration plan but ordered that no voters registered by federal examiners be removed.

Norman, who earlier told the subcommittee the department is vigorously enforcing the Voting Rights Act, apparently was unaware that federally registered voters were being purged until Edwards told him.

Atty. Gen. A. F. Summer of Mississippi, who was not scheduled as a witness but appeared at the hearing and asked to testify, denied a purge of voters is taking place.

"The re-registration is a natural consequence of redistricting under the 1970 census rather than a conspiracy to purge voters," he said.

Early Gains Fade In Stock Market

New York (AP) — Stock market prices receded from most of their early rally gains, and blue chips closed slightly lower Tuesday. It was exactly one year after the Dow Jones average had sunk to its 1969-70 bear market low.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dipped 6.28 to 906.41. Earlier it had been up slightly more than four points.

However, the broader-based New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks rose 0.09 to 54.86.

On May 26, 1970, the Dow average hit 631.16, its lowest level since November 19, 1962 when it was 626.21.

"The rally early today was primarily a technical one resulting from an oversold condition built up the last two days," said Newton Zinder, an analyst at E. F. Hutton & Co. Inc.

Big Board volume was 13.55 million shares, compared with 16.05 million shares Tuesday.

There were 693 advances and 633 declines out of 1,663 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 22 new highs and 80 new lows.

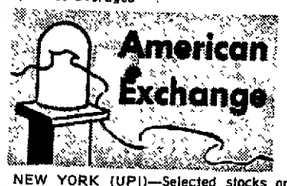

The Associated Press 60-stock average gained 0.2 to 376.9, with industrials off 0.1, rails up 1.0 and utilities off 1.0.

Oils, chemicals and steels were off. Mail order-retail and aircrafts were up. All other stock categories were mixed.

Volume leader on the Big Board was Commercial Solvents, off 3⅞ at 28¾.

Other Big Board prices included University Computing, up 4⅞ at 86⅞; Swift, off 1½ at 37; National General, up 2⅛ at 26; and Gulf Oil, up ¼ at 31⅛.

American Stock Exchange prices rose slightly. The Amex price-change index gained .02 to 25.67. Volume was 4.38 million shares compared with 4.19 million Tuesday. There were 406 advances and 449 declines out of 1,121 issues traded. NY times averages

Steer Prices Are Steady To 25c Lower

Omaha (AP) (USDA) — Several things were dogging the cattle trade here Wednesday.

Expanded supplies, a slow wholesale market and an upcoming non-slaughtering holiday all bothered the steer and heifer trade.

Supplies were estimated at around 7,500 here Wednesday, however, the outlay included a good array of choice or better cornfeds.

On the hoof, steer prices were steady to 25 lower, heifers fully steady.

Steers choice and prime 1,075-1,250 lbs. were generally 33.10-34; bulk choice 33.00 and down.

Well-finished heifer 925-1,025 lbs. brought 33.00-33.50.

Butcher hogs sold steady to 25 lower with weights 240 lbs. or heavier showing the declines. Some late sales were off as much as 50 cents as the clearance was slow.

Locally, bulk 190-240 lb. butchers sold 17.50-18.25.

Sows were steady to 25 lower at 13.75-15 for 350-625 lbs.

Soybeans Hurt By Profit Taking

Chicago (AP) — Soybeans futures, the center of buying interest for most of the trading on a week, came under profit taking on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday.

With pressure from about all facets of the trade, soybeans declined as much as 3¼ cents at one time, but closed 1⅝ lower. Corn, oats and wheat futures closed on generally strong tones.

Rain over the country's central portion tended to influence the buying of corn, oats and wheat futures because it had impeded the completion of corn planting and the harvesting of winter wheat in some areas.

At the close soybeans were ¾ to 1⅝ cents a bushel lower, July 3.09⅝; wheat was 1¼ to 1¾ cents higher, July 1.54¼; corn was ½ to 1¼ cents higher, July 1.48⅛; and oats were ⅛ to ½ cents higher, July 71⅜.

Early Gains Fade In Stock Market

New York (AP) — Stock market prices receded from most of their early rally gains, and blue chips closed slightly lower Tuesday. It was exactly one year after the Dow Jones average had sunk to its 1969-70 bear market low.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dipped 0.28 to 906.41. Earlier it had been up slightly more than four points.

However, the broader-based New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks rose 0.09 to 54.86.

On May 26, 1970, the Dow average hit 631.16, its lowest level since November 19, 1962 when it was 626.21.

"The rally early today was primarily a technical one resulting from an oversold condition built up the last two days," said Newton Zinder, an analyst at E. F. Hutton & Co. Inc.

Big Board volume was 13.55 million shares, compared with 16.05 million shares Tuesday.

There were 693 advances and 633 declines out of 1,663 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 22 new highs and 80 new lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average gained 0.2 to 316.9, with industrials off 0.1, rails up 1.0 and utilities off 1.0.

Oils, chemicals and steels were off. Mail order-retail and aircrafts were up. All other stock categories were mixed.

Volume leader on the Big Board was Commercial Solvents, off 3⅞ at 28¾. Other Big Board prices included University Computing, up 4⅞ at 86⅞; Swift, off 1½ at 37; National General, up 2⅛ at 26; and Gulf Oil, up ¼ at 21⅛.

American Stock Exchange prices rose slightly. The Amex price-change index gained .02 to 25.67. Volume was 4.38 million shares compared with 4.19 million Tuesday. There were 406 advances and 449 declines out of 1,121 issues traded. Ny times averages....

Soybeans Hurt By Profit Taking

Chicago (AP) — Soybeans futures, the center of buying interest for more than a week, came under profit taking on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday.

With pressure from about all facets of the trade, soybeans declined as much as 3¼ cents at one time, but closed 1⅝ lower. Corn, oats and wheat futures closed on generally strong tones.

Rain over the country's central portion tended to influence the buying of corn, oats and wheat futures because it had impeded the completion of corn planting and the harvesting of winter wheat in some areas.

At the close soybeans were ¾ to 1⅝ cents a bushel lower, July 3.09⅜; wheat was 1¼ to 1¾ cents higher, July 1.54¼; corn was ½ to 1¼ cents higher, July 1.48⅛; and oats were ⅛ to ½ cents higher, July 71⅜.

Pakistani Attack Kills 9 Indians, Officials Report

New Delhi (UPI) — At least nine Indian soldiers were killed when Pakistani troops attacked an Indian outpost on the tense border between the two nations, high-ranking government officials said Wednesday. They warned that Pakistan bears responsibility for the consequences.

The officials said the Indian troops were killed when an estimated two Pakistani companies attacked the Indian outpost at Dalu, about 100 miles north of Dacca. Two other border patrolmen were missing. They said a number of Pakistani soldiers were killed or wounded.

DR. SCHULTZ HONORED

Dr. and Mrs. Bertrand Schultz, shown greeting friends, were honored by the Trinity United Methodist Church at a reception Wednesday evening. Dr. Schultz is being honored Sunday, proclaimed by the State Legislature as Dr. C. Bertrand Schultz Day, for his achievements as an educator, geologist and environmentalist. The observance is planned in conjunction with the 100th anniversary of the community Red Cloud, where Dr. Schultz was born and raised. Trinity United Methodist held the reception in recognition of his many years of church work. (Star Photo.)

Jets Crash; Blast Rocks Cape Town

Cape Town (UPI) — Three South African air force jets flying in tight formation crashed Wednesday into the sheer face of Table Mountain, which dominates this coastal capital, killing all 11 passengers and crew aboard.

The victims were not identified, but Defense Minister Pieter Botha said the nation had "lost some of its finest members" — apparently military officers.

Botha said the Mercurius jets, normally used to transport high-ranking defense ministry officials were practicing a flyby for Monday's celebration of the 10th anniversary of the South African Republic.

"The crash sounded like a huge explosion rolling across the city," said Cape Town businessman Geoff Vye. "It was almost like an earthquake."

Police and navy rescue teams found rubble and bodies on the cliffs of the mountain.

Dr. Eisenhower Says Race War Is A Possibility

Washington (AP) — Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower asserted Wednesday there is a possibility of racial war in the United States.

Black racism, he said, has developed as a backlash to white racism.

"Arsenals are being built by the extreme right and the extreme left; if we saw trouble break out there would be devastation," he said.

The brother of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower and chairman of President Lyndon B. Johnson's Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence expressed his views to a Senate judiciary subcommittee headed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Eisenhower said he is disappointed that "nothing has happened" since his commission presented its report to President Nixon 18 months ago.

Quota Doubled

London (AP) — Britain announced it is doubling the number of East African Asians allowed to enter the country as immigrants.

This Week's Health Tip

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association:

Ambulance crewmen can save lives in an emergency, but they need your help. Nebraska law states you must yield the right-of-way when you hear an ambulance siren. But there is more you can do.

If you witness an accident involving several persons, follow these steps: First, get at least an estimate of how many are injured. Then call law enforcement officials immediately. Knowing how many are hurt helps officers dispatch the proper number of ambulances.

When you give your report, describe the type of accident and its exact location.

While waiting for the ambulance, you can make the injured as comfortable as possible. But do not move them more than necessary. Keep crowds away.

Sales Record Set By Sunbeam

Chicago (AP) — Sunbeam Corp. reported Wednesday record sales of $434,003,079 for fiscal 1970-71, an increase of 8.7% over $399,275,812 in 1969-70.

Net earnings for the small appliance manufacturer for the year ended March 27 were $15,306,896 in 1970-71, or $1.30 a share compared with $15,057,425 or $1.21 a share the previous year.

Sato Defends Yen's Value To The Dollar

Tokyo (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato said Wednesday his government would stick to the 360-yen-to-one-dollar exchange parity "despite a clamor against it from abroad."

Sato reiterated Japan's currency position at a press conference in Tokyo.

He also said Japan's rigid control of foreign exchange would continue.

These positions, he said, would be upheld because the government felt they were in the best interest of Japan.

He said a picture of Japan as a nation with the third largest gross national product and huge excess of exports would be out of focus without balancing it with Japan's need for more social improvement funds such as for housing, roads and sewage systems.

Style, Packaging 'Creampuffery' Is Hit By Nader

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — Ralph Nader has told a retailers convention business should not compete on "superficial issues," such as styling or packaging, but should emphasize facts about a product.

The widely-known consumer advocate said there is "an enormous drain of national resources" because of the lack of relevant information about products.

He told 1,700 delegates to the mass Retailing Institute meeting they should act as "surrogate consumer advocates" in dealing with manufacturers. He added telling the buyer what he is getting is profitable in the long run.

Nader urged the retailers to spend more money on essentials and less on "creampuffery."

30% Want Work

Washington (UPI) — Thirty per cent of the nation's mothers who have children under the age of 6 are either working or looking for work, compared to 19% 10 years ago, the Labor Department said.

Pakistani Attack Kills 9 Indians, Officials Report

New Delhi (UPI) — At least nine Indian soldiers were killed when Pakistani troops attacked an Indian outpost on the tense border between the two nations, high-ranking government officials said Wednesday. They warned that Pakistan bears responsibility for the consequences.

The officials said the Indian troops were killed when an estimated two Pakistani companies attacked the Indian outpost at Dalu, about 100 miles north of Dacca. Two other border patrolmen were missing. They said a number of Pakistani soldiers were killed or wounded.

DR. SCHULTZ HONORED

Dr. and Mrs. Bertrand Schultz, shown greeting friends, were honored by the Trinity United Methodist Church at a reception Wednesday evening. Dr. Schultz is being honored Sunday, proclaimed by the State Legislature as Dr. C. Bertrand Schultz Day, for his achievements as an educator, geologist and environmentalist. The observance is planned in conjunction with the 100th anniversary of the community Red Cloud, where Dr. Schultz was born and raised. Trinity United Methodist held the reception in recognition of his many years of church work. (Star Photo.)

Jets Crash; Blast Rocks Cape Town

Cape Town (UPI) — Three South African air force jets flying in tight formation crashed Wednesday into the sheer face of Table Mountain, which dominates this coastal capital, killing all 11 passengers and crew aboard.

The victims were not identified, but Defense Minister Pieter Botha said the nation had "lost some of its finest members" — apparently military officers.

Botha said the Mercurius jets, normally used to transport high-ranking defense ministry officials were practicing a flyby for Monday's celebration of the 10th anniversary of the South African Republic.

"The crash sounded like a huge explosion rolling across the city," said Cape Town businessman Geoff Vye. "It was almost like an earthquake."

Police and navy rescue teams found rubble and bodies on the cliffs of the mountain.

Dr. Eisenhower Says Race War Is A Possibility

Washington (AP) — Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower asserted Wednesday there is a possibility of racial war in the United States.

Black racism, he said, has developed as a backlash to white racism.

"Arsenals are being built by the extreme right and the extreme left; if we saw trouble break out there would be devastation," he said.

The brother of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower and chairman of President Lyndon B. Johnson's Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence expressed his views to a Senate judiciary subcommittee headed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Eisenhower said he is disappointed that "nothing has happened" since his commission presented its report to President Nixon 18 months ago.

Quota Doubled

London (AP) — Britain announced it is doubling the number of East African Asians allowed to enter the country as immigrants.

This Week's Health Tip

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association:

Ambulance crewmen can save lives in an emergency, but they need your help. Nebraska law states you must yield the right-of-way when you hear an ambulance siren. But there is more you can do.

If you witness an accident involving several persons, follow these steps: First, get at least an estimate of how many are injured. Then call law enforcement officials immediately. Knowing how many are hurt helps officers dispatch the proper number of ambulances.

When you give your report, describe the type of accident and its exact location.

While waiting for the ambulance, you can make the injured as comfortable as possible. But do not move them more than necessary. Keep crowds away.

Sales Record Set By Sunbeam

Chicago (AP) — Sunbeam Corp. reported Wednesday record sales of $434,003,079 for fiscal 1970-71, an increase of 8.7% over $399,275,812 in 1969-70.

Net earnings for the small appliance manufacturer for the year ended March 27 were $15,306,896 in 1970-71, or $1.30 a share compared with $15,057,425 or $1.21 a share the previous year.

Sato Defends Yen's Value To The Dollar

Tokyo (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato said Wednesday his government would stick to the 360-yen-to-one-dollar exchange parity "despite a clamor against it from abroad."

Sato reiterated Japan's currency position at a press conference in Tokyo.

He also said Japan's rigid control of foreign exchange would continue.

These positions, he said, would be upheld because the government felt they were in the best interest of Japan.

He said a picture of Japan as a nation with the third largest gross national product and huge excess of exports would be out of focus without balancing it with Japan's need for more social improvement funds such as for housing, roads and sewage systems.

Style, Packaging 'Creampuffery' Is Hit By Nader

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — Ralph Nader has told a retailers convention business should not compete on "superficial issues," such as styling or packaging, but should emphasize facts about a product.

The widely-known consumer advocate said there is "an enormous drain of national resources" because of the lack of relevant information about products.

He told 1,700 delegates to the mass Retailing Institute meeting they should act as "surrogate consumer advocates" in dealing with manufacturers. He added telling the buyer what he is getting is profitable in the long run.

Nader urged the retailers to spend more money on essentials and less on "creampuffery."

30% Want Work

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

Kmart FISK TIRE GUARANTEE

TREAD WEAR-OUT GUARANTEE
All Fisk tires are guaranteed against tread wear-out for the number of months specified on the sales invoice. If the tread is less than 2/32" deep before the end of specified period of use, Kmart will make an allowance* on the purchase of new tire proportionate to the number of months remaining in the time guarantee. (Number of months will be computed from date of purchase.)

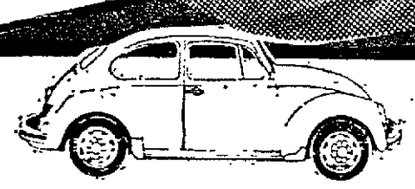

TREAD LIFE GUARANTEE
If a Fisk tire fails due to defects in workmanship or material or as a result of road hazard (except in cases of abuse of repairable puncture, as determined by Kmart) at any time while 2/32" or more of the original tread remains, Kmart will, at its option, either repair the tire or make an allowance* on the purchase of a new tire proportionate to the amount of original tread remaining.

This guarantee does not apply to truck or commercial use and is honored nationwide at all Kmart Tire Centers.

TREAD WEAR-OUT GUARANTEE
All Fisk tires are guaranteed against tread wear-out for the number of months specified on the sales invoice. If the tread is less than 2/32" deep before the end of specified period of use, Kmart will make an allowance* on the purchase of new tire proportionate to the number of months remaining in the time guarantee. (Number of months will be computed from date of purchase.)

TREAD LIFE GUARANTEE
If a Fisk tire fails due to defects in workmanship or material or as a result of road hazard (except in cases of abuse of repairable puncture, as determined by Kmart) at any time while 2/32" or more of the original tread remains, Kmart will, at its option, either repair the tire or make an allowance* on the purchase of a new tire proportionate to the amount of original tread remaining.

This guarantee does not apply to truck or commercial use and is honored nationwide at all Kmart Tire Centers.

*Basis for allowance to be the actual selling price in effect at the time of the adjustment, plus federal excise tax.
